LBJ Seeks to Eliminate Part of Gold Backing

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson tentatively plans to ask Congress to eliminate the gold backing on part of the nations' money supply, it was learned today.

The plan would leave unchanged the 25 per cent gold backing on U.S. currency.

It would make an additional $5 billion in gold available for future increases in the money supply or to meet international obligations.

The plan calls for elimination of the legal requirement for a 25 per cent gold backing on reserves which form the basis of the U.S. banking system. The move would be only the second major change in relationship between money and gold since the United States abandoned the strict gold standard in 1934.

Highly placed sources said Johnson feels further increases in the money supply will be needed since the economic signs point to a fifth straight year of business expansion.

Although laymen tend to think of money only as the currency they hold in their pockets and safes, economists regard bank accounts as an even more important medium of exchange.

Banks must keep a certain percentage of their deposits in Federal Reserve banks. In turn, the Federal Reserve must maintain a supply of gold equivalent to 25 per cent of these

U.S. Gold Reserve Loss May Reach Danger Point

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Pressure on U.S. gold reserves is building up fast again. Fear is rising that the international bankers pact that held last year's U.S. gold loss to $125 million may be unable to keep the loss this year from mounting, perhaps even to the danger point.

At stake: the gold reserves behind U.S. currency, the official price of gold at $35 an ounce, and the dollar's reputation as the world's leading medium of exchange.

President Charles de Gaulle of France wants more U.S. gold. He has been taking about $400 million a year. He is reported planning this year to turn in U.S. dollars that France holds for anywhere from $500 million to $700 million in gold.

Speculators, and others worried lest the British pound be devalued and even the U.S. dollar lose value in foreign exchange markets, are buying up gold in the free markets in London and Paris.

Thursday it was selling in London for $35.13⅝ an ounce, the highest price since the Cuban crisis of October 1962. The official price at which the U.S. Treasury sells its gold to foreign governments and their national banks is $35 an ounce, plus 8 cents in service charges. The price spread can tempt holders of dollars to seek gold at the U.S. Treasury price.

Another Major Offensive By Viet Nam Reds Reported

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN

SAIGON (UPI)—A strong Viet Cong Communist force today was reported to have launched another major offensive in the Binh Gia area south of Saigon. A U.S. spokesman said Vietnamese bombers and fighter planes were ordered to attack.

The spokesman said intelligence reports indicated the guerrilla force 'may be as high as 2,000."

The Communists were said to be on the move in a heavy jungle about 35 miles southeast of Saigon and only 5 miles north of Binh Gia, scene of the longest battle of the war last week.

The reported new Red offensive came as the government's Vietnam press agency said that the rebels had been ordered to launch a "three front offensive" around Saigon. A U.S. military spokesman said Wednesday there were indications the Viet Cong was stepping up the war.

The government agency quoted "authoritative sources" as saying that captured Red documents called for offensives in politics, subversion and on the battlefield.

It said the instructions were distributed at a meeting of Communist agents in charge of agitation and propaganda in the Saigon region.

U.S. Headquarters declined comment on Communist claims that American and South Vietnamese warships shelled North Viet Nam.

Rampart College Land Holdings Tax Exempt

Rampart College, formerly the Freedom School, has been declared tax exempt in respect to land holdings, the Colorado Tax Commission announced recently.

The announcement was released by William Froh, president of the college. Froh said that the exemption would be retroactive from Aug. 1, 1964.

"Obtaining this exemption," Froh said, "was a mandatory step before an extensive building program could be considered.

"Plans for several new buildings at the college now are in the drawing board stage. The first additions will be new library and new classroom buildings. When these are completed, Rampart College will be opened as a graduate school for advance work in economics, history, economic history and business management.

"The second phase of these projected plans will include additional construction with the ultimate goal being the establishment of a full four-year undergraduate college.

"We are very pleased that the tax commission recognized our value to the people of the state and granted the exemption. We feel the development of Rampart College will assist in fulfilling the educational needs of Colorado. And, because of the nature of the college, it will in all likelihood become a Mecca for students all over the United States. It will aid the economic growth of the state and of Colorado Springs as well as enhancing the cultural aspects of the community."

Pickets at Rio Grande Railroad Are Withdrawn

DENVER (AP) — Pickets representing the Switchmen's Union of North America appeared today at Denver Rio Grande Western Railroad yards in Pueblo, Grand Junction and Salt Lake City.

A Rio Grande spokesman said the pickets stayed at the yards about an hour, then were withdrawn.

He said, "There was no explanation for it as far as we're concerned. It was entirely unexpected and we don't know what it is all about."

He said the picketing caused some interruptions in railroad service but operations were back on schedule later in the morning.

Asked if the Rio Grande was now engaged in negotiations with the union, the official said "nothing more than the usual routine talks."

WASHINGTON —(Special) — President Johnson has decided to "write off" South Viet Nam despite warnings from his military advisers that U.S. withdrawal could mean the loss of all of Southeast Asia.

He is actively seeking the help of influential members of Congress and a group of nationally prominent persons to develop a "national consensus" for U.S. disengagement from that strife-torn country.

They are privately being asked to create public support for a negotiated settlement with the Communists, including China and Russia, and withdrawal of U.S. military advisers from South Viet Nam.

That's the backstage report being circulated by Democratic congressional leaders contacted by administration policy-makers on the unannounced presidential decision.

The legislators are frankly being told the developing of a "national consensus" began with Senator Richard Russell's, D-Ga., recent announcement that his Armed Services Committee would undertake a review of the deteriorating situation in South Viet Nam.

Senator Russell, close friend of President Johnson, arranged the committee inquiry after the President suggested it during their meeting on the LBJ ranch.

The Johnson plan is to have the Russell committee, which is to hear testimony heavily weighed for U.S. disengagement, take the lead in developing public opinion for such a move.

Once these "managed" hearings have set the stage, the President will announce the appointment of a carefully-selected "blue ribbon" panel of nationally known individuals to study the changes in South Viet Nam policy.

In effect, the task of this panel will be to confirm the theme already sounded by Senator Russell and soon to be echoed by his committee's inquiry — that the U.S. had no business going into South Viet Nam in the first place and should get out as gracefully as possible.

In addition to the "consensus" maneuver, the Johnson administration plans to cover its strategic retreat from South Viet

Air Force Will Dissolve 155 Reserve Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced plans today to disband 155 Air Force Reserve units by April.

The action involves about 8,000 reservists in 44 states and the District of Columbia.

Although the announcement did not say so, the action was believed to be a forerunner to the merger of the Air Force Reserve into the Air National Guard.

Such a move would parallel action already taken with respect to the Army Reserve and National Guard.

The units involved are 112 recovery squadrons and 43 recovery groups.

These are ground units whose mission is to provide for support of regular Air Force military planes at civilian airports following an attack on the United States that might have knocked out military fields.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 155 Air Force reserve units to be disbanded by April will include three in Colorado, Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo. announced today.

He said they are the 8579th recovery group and the 9531st recovery squadron at Denver and the 9532nd recovery squadron at La Junta.

Rusk to Study Mob Attacks on U.S. Embassies

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is reported to have ordered a study on what should be done about mob attacks on American embassies and [illegible]ries overseas.

President Johnson said in his State of the Union message Monday night, "We cannot be indifferent to acts designed to injure our interests, our citizens, or our establishments abroad.

The community of nations requires mutual respect. We shall extend it — and we shall expect it."

As the new Senate opened for legislative business Tuesday, influential support quickly mounted for an aid law amendment, introduced by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to cut off U.S. assistance to any country which fails to take necessary precautions to protect U.S. property.

$2.7 Million NORAD Work Is Awarded

A $2.7 million contract was awarded by the Air Force for engineering services and related material at the North American Air Defense Command Combat Operations Center.

The contract will go to the Burroughs Corp. of Vaoli, Pa., Rep. Frank E. Evans said this morning.

A NORAD spokesman here said this morning that the contract is part of continuing funds for installation of electronic equipment to transmit field data to the battle staff.

Legislator Says Tax Hikes Will Exceed Previous Cuts

By JOHN M. NOLAN and EDWARD M. McMANUS

DENVER (UPI)— Senate Democratic leader Sam T. Taylor of Walsenburg said late Wednesday tax increases during the 1965 Legislature will exceed the cuts made in 1963.

Taylor made his prediction on the opening day of the 45th General Assembly at the State Capitol.

Taylor said new tax hikes "will be far beyond what they were cut in 1963."

The first day of the new, politically divided Legislature was devoted almost completely to organization, swearing in ceremonies and schooling of the many new legislators.

"Everyone agrees that some new tax revenue is needed," Taylor said. "There's no question about it."

Taylor opposed most of the $43 million tax program offered by Senate Republican Leader Paul Wenke of Fort Collins.

Wenke disclosed his program on the eve of the meeting of the Legislature. Wenke said the proposals were his own and not those of GOP Gov. John A. Love or of the Republican Party.

Wenke's proposal was tied in with a plan to use a large portion of the new money to reduce skyrocketing local property taxes for schools.

Love refused any comment on the Wenke plan. The chief executive said he planned to present his budget recommendations to a joint session of the Legislature Friday at 11 a.m. in the House chamber.

Taylor also said he planned to offer his bill for a state sweepstakes soon, possibly Thursday or Friday. The measure is being drafted by the Legislative Reference Office.

The Walsenburg attorney said his plan, which is similar to the New Hampshire lottery, would raise about $10 million annually and should be earmarked for capital construction or for support of education.

Support for the sweepstakes bill, Taylor said, was growing steadily.

The state's new controller, Con F. Shea, former budget director, estimated Wednesday state income tax cuts passed by the Republican - controlled 1963 Legislature has saved taxpayers $28 million to date. But he said a new state cigarette tax passed by Republicans last year will cost taxpayers about $8 million.

Amish Declare Their Schools Are Superior

CAMDEN, Mich. (UPI) — Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, presided Wednesday at a hearing into a complaint that a one-room Amish school violates state law by not having a qualified teacher.

Representatives of the nine-family Amish community said that, for the Amish way of life, "our education is superior to the public schools," despite the fact teacher Ruth Graber ended her education at eighth grade.

Levi Graber, an uncle of the schoolteacher, said the 24 students ranging in age from six to 16 "learn to cook, to sew, the carpenter trade, to be welders and to be self-sufficient."

Bartlett said after the hearing he would announce his decision in about a week, if he finds the school in violation of state law, it can be ordered to hire a certified teacher or close down.

One bearded Amish man indicated the community would prefer moving from the state to going to the trouble of a court battle against an unfavorable ruling by Bartlett.

State law stipulates school buildings must be in sanitary condition, courses taught must be adequate, and the teacher must be "qualified." The school presently receives no state aid, but needs the state's certification to continue.

The complaint heard Wednesday was brought by Walter H. Holliday, Hillsdale intermediate district school superintendent.

Eugene Krasicky, assistant attorney general, served as state counsel at the hearing which also was attended by Bartlett's assistant, Alexander Kloster.

Swollen Rivers Recede, Rains End in California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Swollen rivers receded and rains tapered off today to give flood-ravaged Northern California a welcome breather. Relentless nature turned her winter wrath on the High Sierra, stranding hundreds of travelers in blinding snowstorms and freezing gales.

Several hundred residents of the Eel and Mad rivers districts straggled back to the homes they fled the past two days when torrential rains sent waters raging up to flood stages. Forecasts of only scattered showers and rising pressure promised improving conditions.

The three week storm that had deluged large areas of Northern California and four other Western states — Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Idaho — raged unabated in the High Sierra on the Nevada-California border.

India Accepts U.S. Polaris in Asian Waters

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — In a startling about-face, India has quietly accepted the stationing of a U.S. submarine armed with Polaris nuclear missiles in Asian waters.

There have been a few worried comments about "escalation" of the U.S. confrontation with Communist China, but the general Indian reaction has been one of relief that the United States is bringing up the big guns.

Just eight months ago, India applauded loudly when the late Prime Minister Nehru rose in Parliament to "express regret" in biting sarcasm that American surface warships armed with nuclear weapons were "wandering about" the Indian Ocean.

The change in outlook is a direct result of Communist China's explosion of an atomic bomb six months later.

Many Indians consider Communist China's nuclear debut a stunning propaganda defeat for

Major Schedule Changes Made for Apollo Program

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. plan to orbit three astronauts in an Apollo moon spacecraft in 1966 suffered its first setback today with announcement of major schedule changes.

Also caught in the revisions was the third Saturn manned mission, which was replaced by an unnamed earth orbital test of the lunar excursion module — LEM — which will carry astronauts to the moon's surface.

Dr. William A. Lee, head of the Operations Planning Division at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the delay in the first three-man orbital flight should be small.

"Instead of making the launch earlier in 1966," he said, "it will be later in 1966."

Because of the closeness of the schedule, however, problems could send the mission into 1967, observers pointed out.

Original planning called for two unmanned sub-orbital flights of the powerful Saturn 1B rocket. The third, assuming no major setbacks occurred on the previous two, was to be flown by three astronauts.

Lee said the third flight now was scheduled to be a test of the second-stage booster, called the Saturn 4B, and its propellant tanks, which hold liquid hydrogen and oxygen.

To save weight, the Apollo spacecraft will not be used — only a nose cone, Lee said.

The tanks carry 223,500 pounds of fuel and will be filled. In earth orbital trips using the three-stage Apollo spacecraft, the tanks will be only partly filled, Lee said, to reduce weight.

The Saturn 4B will be the third stage on the mighty Saturn 5 rocket and will hurl itself and the Apollo spacecraft into earth orbit.

Medicare, Health Centers Asked by President

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to legislate health care for the elderly and to establish a network of 32 modern medical centers to treat major diseases.

Johnson's health proposals are in his first special message to the new Congress. The fact that he chose to lead off with them was viewed in some quarters as a sign that he means to stress them.

Besides medical care the items in the package followed recommendations made to Johnson last month by his Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer and Stroke, headed by Dr. Michael DeBakey, Houston heart specialist.

In line with its suggestions, Johnson is asking Congress to provide $1.2 billion over the next five years for 32 regional medical centers that "can provide the most advanced diagnosis and treatment for heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major diseases."

The President promised in his presidential campaign to give top priority this year to a drive for medical insurance for the elderly keyed to the Social Security program.

He said in his State of the Union message to Congress Monday night that "a just nation" should throw open to the elderly "the city of promise" by providing hospital care under Social Security.

"I propose," he said then, "we begin a massive attack on crippling and killing diseases."

At another point he said: "Greatness requires not only an educated people but a healthy people. Our goal is to match the achievements of our medicine to the afflictions of our people.

"Regional medical centers can provide the most advanced diagnosis and treatment for heart disease, cancer, stroke, and other major diseases."

Highlights of President's Health Message

Medical care for the aged — Proposes enactment of a medical care program for the elderly, financed through Social Security, providing costs of hospital and post-hospital extended care, home nursing services, and outpatient diagnostic service.

Child health — Calls for increased appropriations for maternal and child health and crippled children's services, including health screening and diagnosis for preschool and school age children and treatment and follow-up care for disabled children and youth.

Mental health—Recommends a five - year program paying costs of staff for community mental health centers offering comprehensive services.

Major killers — Recommends a five-year program to develop multipurpose regional medical complexes for an all-out attack on heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major fatal diseases.

Health manpower — Asks increased grants and scholarships to train doctors, dentists, nurses and medical technicians and calls for development of a long-range health manpower program.

Consumers health protection — Calls for new laws for control of production and distribution of habit-forming drugs, adequate labeling of hazardous products, premarketing examination of cosmetics and therapeutic devices and authority to seize counterfeit drugs at their source.

Major Injured As Plane Rolls Over Him

Air Force Maj. James J. Dennison, 38, of 2918 Hudson St., was treated yesterday at Ent Air Force Base Dispensary and then released to his home after being run over by his own aircraft at Peterson Field. He received a head cut which required 12 stitches.

Qualified with an Air Force senior pilot rating and more than 4,300 hours at the controls of conventional and jet aircraft, Maj. Dennison owns a Ryan PT-22, a single-engine, low-winged aircraft, which he uses for pleasure flying. He is a member of the Ent Aero Club, which is composed of pilots and trainees in military service who like to fly during their spare time.

Shortly after 10 a.m., Wednesday, Dennison went to his plane, which was parked at Beeline Aviation on the Peterson Field flight line. His trainer plane is not equipped with a self-starter, but must be hand started by turning the propellor.

Indonesia Quits U.N.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno Thursday night announced Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations.

In taking this decision, Sukarno thus ignored appeals made by practically the whole world, including his allies and friends in the African - Asian camp, to keep his country in the world organization.

Rampart College Land Holdings Tax Exempt

Rampart College, formerly the Freedom School, has been declared tax exempt in respect to land holdings, the Colorado Tax Commission announced recently.

The announcement was released by William Froh, president of the college. Froh said that the exemption would be retroactive from Aug. 1, 1964.

"Obtaining this exemption," Froh said, "was a mandatory step before an extensive building program could be considered.

"Plans for several new buildings at the college now are in the drawing board stage. The first additions will be new library and new classroom buildings. When these are completed, Rampart College will be opened as a graduate school for advance work in economics, history, economic history and business management.

"The second phase of these projected plans will include additional construction with the ultimate goal being the establishment of a full four-year undergraduate college.

"We are very pleased that the tax commission recognized our value to the people of the state and granted the exemption. We feel the development of Rampart College will assist in fulfilling the educational needs of Colorado. And, because of the nature of the college, it will in all likelihood become a Mecca for students all over the United States. It will aid the economic growth of the state and of Colorado Springs as well as enhancing the cultural aspects of the community."

Air Force Will Dissolve 155 Reserve Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced plans today to disband 155 Air Force Reserve units by April.

The action involves about 8,000 reservists in 44 states and the District of Columbia.

Although the announcement did not say so, the action was believed to be a forerunner to the merger of the Air Force Reserve into the Air National Guard.

Such a move would parallel action already taken with respect to the Army Reserve and National Guard.

The units involved are 112 recovery squadrons and 43 recovery groups.

These are ground units whose mission is to provide for support of regular Air Force military planes at civilian airports following an attack on the United States that might have knocked out military fields.

Pickets at Rio Grande Railroad Are Withdrawn

DENVER (AP) — Pickets representing the Switchmen's Union of North America appeared today at Denver Rio Grande Western Railroad yards in Pueblo, Grand Junction and Salt Lake City.

A Rio Grande spokesman said the pickets stayed at the yards about an hour, then were withdrawn.

He said, "There was no explanation for it as far as we're concerned. It was entirely unexpected and we don't know what it is all about."

He said the picketing caused some interruptions in railroad service but operations were back on schedule later in the morning.

Asked if the Rio Grande was now engaged in negotiations with the union, the official said "nothing more than the usual routine talks."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 155 Air Force reserve units to be disbanded by April will include three in Colorado, Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo. announced today.

He said they are the 8579th recovery group and the 9531st recovery squadron at Denver and the 9532nd recovery squadron at La Junta.

Swollen Rivers Recede, Rains End in California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Swollen rivers receded and rains tapered off today to give flood-ravaged Northern California a welcome breather. Relentless nature turned her winter wrath on the High Sierra, stranding hundreds of travelers in blinding snowstorms and freezing gales.

Several hundred residents of the Eel and Mad rivers districts straggled back to the homes they fled the past two days when torrential rains sent waters raging up to flood stages. Forecasts of only scattered showers and rising pressure promised improving conditions.

The three week storm that had deluged large areas of Northern California and four other Western states — Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Idaho — raged unabated in the High Sierra on the Nevada-California border.

Rusk to Study Mob Attacks on U.S. Embassies

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is reported to have ordered a study on what should be done about mob attacks on American embassies and [illegible]ries overseas.

President Johnson said in his State of the Union message Monday night, "We cannot be indifferent to acts designed to injure our interests, our citizens, or our establishments abroad.

The community of nations requires mutual respect. We shall extend it — and we shall expect it."

As the new Senate opened for legislative business Tuesday, influential support quickly mounted for an aid law amendment, introduced by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to cut off U.S. assistance to any country which fails to take necessary precautions to protect U.S. property.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — In a startling about-face, India has quietly accepted the stationing of a U.S. submarine armed with Polaris nuclear missiles in Asian waters.

There have been a few worried comments about "escalation" of the U.S. confrontation with Communist China, but the general Indian reaction has been one of relief that the United States is bringing up the big guns.

Just eight months ago, India applauded loudly when the late Prime Minister Nehru rose in Parliament to "express regret" in biting sarcasm that American surface warships armed with nuclear weapons were "wandering about" the Indian Ocean.

The change in outlook is a direct result of Communist China's explosion of an atomic bomb six months later.

$2.7 Million NORAD Work Is Awarded

A $2.7 million contract was awarded by the Air Force for engineering services and related material at the North American Air Defense Command Combat Operations Center.

The contract will go to the Burroughs Corp. of Vaoli, Pa., Rep. Frank E. Evans said this morning.

A NORAD spokesman here said this morning that the contract is part of continuing funds for installation of electronic equipment to transmit field data to the battle staff.

Legislator Says Tax Hikes Will Exceed Previous Cuts

By JOHN M. NOLAN and EDWARD M. McMANUS

DENVER (UPI)— Senate Democratic leader Sam T. Taylor of Walsenburg said late Wednesday tax increases during the 1965 Legislature will exceed the cuts made in 1963.

Taylor made his prediction on the opening day of the 45th General Assembly at the State Capitol.

Taylor said new tax hikes "will be far beyond what they were cut in 1963."

The first day of the new, politically divided Legislature was devoted almost completely to organization, swearing in ceremonies and schooling of the many new legislators.

"Everyone agrees that some new tax revenue is needed," Taylor said. "There's no question about it."

Taylor opposed most of the $43 million tax program offered by Senate Republican Leader Paul Wenke of Fort Collins.

Wenke disclosed his program on the eve of the meeting of the Legislature. Wenke said the proposals were his own and not those of GOP Gov. John A. Love or of the Republican Party.

Wenke's proposal was tied in with a plan to use a large portion of the new money to reduce skyrocketing local property taxes for schools.

Love refused any comment on the Wenke plan. The chief executive said he planned to present his budget recommendations to a joint session of the Legislature Friday at 11 a.m. in the House chamber.

Taylor also said he planned to offer his bill for a state sweepstakes soon, possibly Thursday or Friday. The measure is being drafted by the Legislative Reference Office.

The Walsenburg attorney said his plan, which is similar to the New Hampshire lottery, would raise about $10 million annually and should be earmarked for capital construction or for support of education.

Support for the sweepstakes bill, Taylor said, was growing steadily.

The state's new controller, Con F. Shea, former budget director, estimated Wednesday state income tax cuts passed by the Republican - controlled 1963 Legislature has saved taxpayers $28 million to date. But he said a new state cigarette tax passed by Republicans last year will cost taxpayers about $8 million.

In addition the state's small

Amish Declare Their Schools Are Superior

CAMDEN, Mich. (UPI) — Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, presided Wednesday at a hearing into a complaint that a one-room Amish school violates state law by not having a qualified teacher.

Representatives of the nine-family Amish community said that, for the Amish way of life, "our education is superior to the public schools," despite the fact teacher Ruth Graber ended her education at eighth grade.

Levi Graber, an uncle of the schoolteacher, said the 24 students ranging in age from six to 16 "learn to cook, to sew, the carpenter trade, to be welders and to be self-sufficient."

Bartlett said after the hearing he would announce his decision in about a week, if he finds the school in violation of state law, it can be ordered to hire a certified teacher or close down.

One bearded Amish man indicated the community would prefer moving from the state to going to the trouble of a court battle against an unfavorable ruling by Bartlett.

State law stipulates school buildings must be in sanitary condition, courses taught must be adequate, and the teacher must be "qualified." The school presently receives no state aid, but needs the state's certification to continue.

The complaint heard Wednesday was brought by Walter H. Holliday, Hillsdale intermediate district school superintendent.

Eugene Krasicky, assistant attorney general, served as state counsel at the hearing which also was attended by Bartlett's assistant, Alexander Kluster.

Medicare, Health Centers Asked by President

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to legislate health care for the elderly and to establish a network of 32 modern medical centers to treat major diseases.

Johnson's health proposals are in his first special message to the new Congress. The fact that he chose to lead off with them was viewed in some quarters as a sign that he means to stress them.

Besides medical care the items in the package followed recommendations made to Johnson last month by his Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer and Stroke, headed by Dr. Michael DeBakey, Houston heart specialist.

In line with its suggestions, Johnson is asking Congress to provide $1.2 billion over the next five years for 32 regional medical centers that "can provide the most advanced diagnosis and treatment for heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major diseases."

The President promised in his presidential campaign to give top priority this year to a drive for medical insurance for the elderly keyed to the Social Security program.

He said in his State of the Union message to Congress Monday night that "a just nation" should throw open to the elderly "the city of promise" by providing hospital care under Social Security.

"I propose," he said then, "we begin a massive attack on crippling and killing diseases."

At another point he said: "Greatness requires not only an educated people but a healthy people. Our goal is to match the achievements of our medicine to the afflictions of our people.

"Regional medical centers can provide the most advanced diagnosis and treatment for heart disease, cancer, stroke, and other major diseases."

Highlights of President's Health Message

Medical care for the aged — Proposes enactment of a medical care program for the elderly, financed through Social Security, providing costs of hospital and post-hospital extended care, home nursing services, and outpatient diagnostic service.

Child health — Calls for increased appropriations for maternal and child health and crippled children's services, including health screening and diagnosis for preschool and school age children and treatment and follow-up care for disabled children and youth.

Mental health—Recommends a five - year program paying costs of staff for community mental health centers offering comprehensive services.

Major killers — Recommends a five-year program to develop multipurpose regional medical complexes for an all-out attack on heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major fatal diseases.

Health manpower — Asks increased grants and scholarships to train doctors, dentists, nurses and medical technicians and calls for development of a long-range health manpower program.

Consumers health protection — Calls for new laws for control of production and distribution of habit-forming drugs, adequate labeling of hazardous products, premarketing examination of cosmetics and therapeutic devices and authority to seize counterfeit drugs at their source.

Major Injured As Plane Rolls Over Him

Air Force Maj. James J. Dennison, 38, of 2918 Hudson St., was treated yesterday at Ent Air Force Base Dispensary and then released to his home after being run over by his own aircraft at Peterson Field. He received a head cut which required 12 stitches.

Qualified with an Air Force senior pilot rating and more than 4,300 hours at the controls of conventional and jet aircraft, Maj. Dennison owns a Ryan PT-22, a single-engine, low-winged aircraft, which he uses for pleasure flying. He is a member of the Ent Aero Club, which is composed of pilots and trainees in military service who like to fly during their spare time.

Shortly after 10 a.m., Wednesday, Dennison went to his plane, which was parked at Beeline Aviation on the Peterson Field flight line. His trainer plane is not equipped with a self-starter, but must be hand started by turning the propellor.

Dennison started the craft,

Major Schedule Changes Made for Apollo Program

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. plan to orbit three astronauts in an Apollo moon spacecraft in 1966 suffered its first setback today with announcement of major schedule changes.

Also caught in the revisions was the third Saturn manned mission, which was replaced by an unmanned earth orbital test of the lunar excursion module — LEM — which will carry astronauts to the moon's surface.

Dr. William A. Lee, head of the Operations Planning Division at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the delay in the first three-man orbital flight should be small.

"Instead of making the launch earlier in 1966," he said, "it will be later in 1966."

Because of the closeness of the schedule, however, problems could send the mission into 1967, observers pointed out.

Original planning called for two unmanned sub-orbital flights of the powerful Saturn 1B rocket. The third, assuming no major setbacks occurred on the previous two, was to be flown by three astronauts.

Lee said the third flight now was scheduled to be a test of the second-stage booster, called the Saturn 4B, and its propellant tanks, which hold liquid hydrogen and oxygen.

To save weight, the Apollo spacecraft will not be used — only a nose cone, Lee said.

The tanks carry 223,500 pounds of fuel and will be filled. In earth orbital trips using the three-stage Apollo spacecraft, the tanks will be only partly filled, Lee said, to reduce weight.

The Saturn 4B will be the third stage on the mighty Saturn 5 rocket and will hurl itself and the Apollo spacecraft into earth orbit.

Pakistan Relations With U.S. Strained

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan says U.S.-Pakistani relations will remain strained as long as the United States keeps supplying India with arms.

"I would like to see our relations with the U.S. as friendly as they once were but the United States giving military aid to India will continue to remain cause for our grave concern," Ayub said in an interview.

Pakistan has regarded India as its arch-enemy ever since the two countries were partitioned out of British India in 1947. Their feud centers on control of the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

Ayub denied rumors that Pakistan was drawing closer to Communist China and might pull out of the West's SEATO and CENTO alliances.

The 61-year-old field marshal won the country's first presidential election Saturday. He had ruled Pakistan under martial law since 1958, when he seized power in a military coup.

More Parental Responsibility Being Proposed

By KEN ROBISON
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — A special governor's committee looking for ways to improve public respect for the law has recommended legislation to make parents share responsibility for criminal acts of their children.

That was one of five legislative recommendations to which Gov. John A. Love said he will give "careful consideration" for inclusion in his message to the 45th General Assembly on Friday.

The idea of making parents partly responsible for misdeeds of their youngsters reflected the eight-member committee's conclusion that the home bears primary responsibility for a "deterioration in respect for law and for all moral obligations."

"Unless this trend is reversed, through a rekindling of our sense of moral obligation," said the committee, "the end of our democratic society is a likely consequence."

It said the fact that modern society has many mothers working and leaves less time for the family to be together puts more responsibility on parents at times when their children are present.

"Children complain that their parents are too busy," said the committee's report to Love. "They also speak of lack of guidance at home and parents who are too lenient.

"Police officers indicate that in many instances juveniles picked up at 2:30 a.m. for violations cannot be taken home because parents are not home.

"When parents boast of 'getting by' with income tax fraud, and when fathers station a child in the back seat of a car with field glasses to warn of the possible detection by a patrolman while the vehicle races over highways ... sure a poor example is being set."

The committee said the problem can't be solved by law. It suggested creation of parent study and action groups, and neighborhood parents' councils to establish "guidelines" for conduct of children.

Robert Fullerton, a former Denver judge, said young people complain that they are confused by wide differences in standards set by parents.

The committee also called for more emphasis on proper conduct in the schools, churches, the courts, communications media, and in occupations.

Edward C. King, former dean of the University of Colorado law school, said part of the problem is lack of knowledge of the law. He said the United States is one of the few nations without instruction in law as part of the school curriculum.

Other leislative recommendations were:

1. Tougher penalties for reckless driving, drunken driving and similar violations.

2. Special license plates for people who, by their safety records, have shown respect for law, life and property over a given period of time.

3. Establishment of a state police academy to train and improve the quality of law enforcement officers.

4. Establishment of an identification bureau to help law enforcement officers identify suspected criminals.

The committee recommended improvement of Colorado's laws on use of insanity as a defense in criminal cases. It said the public feels insanity is too freely used as a defense. The report noted that a special committee is studying the laws.

Also urged were a new system of selection and tenure for judges, firm action to discipline judges or attorneys who act unethically, and a continuing campaign by local bar associations to improve public opinion of judges and lawyers.

King said many people hold courts responsible for disrespect of laws because of probation and light sentences in criminal cases. He said the committee also found a feeling that "in our anxiety to protect the rights of the individual, we are neglecting to protect the rights of public."

The Rev. Paul H. A. Noren of the Augustana Lutheran Church in Denver, chairman of the committee, said its first recommendations were only a "progress report" and it will continue its work.

He said he believes local action groups will be set up throughout the state.

Love appointed the committee last September with instructions to seek ways to combat growing crime rates, juvenile delinquency, traffic deaths and vandalism. He said so far as he knows the Colorado committee is the only one of its kind in the nation.

King said the basic problem is to get people to "want to respect the law, and to see how the lack of respect for law is hurting the whole world."

"It is like we were sitting on an atomic bomb," he said. "We never know when there will be a riot, when students will go crazy at a baskteball game. I think we have been fortunate in Colorado."

The committee interviewed high school students, policemen, sheriff's officers, deans of students of the state's colleges and universities, high school student counselors, six inmates of the state penitentiary, religious leaders, and representatives of the news media and the State Welfare Department.

Picking Name for School Frustrating

First came a petition to name the new school for John F. Kennedy. Later, another petition asked that the school not be named John F. Kennedy.

This week the Board of Education polled its members and on a runoff ballot there were three votes for Eisenhower and three for MacArthur.

The names were placed in a hat. A reporter declined to draw one, saying: "I'm not going to write in my story tomorrow that I pulled the name for the new school out of a hat."

Horrified at the thought, a board member said, "It would make this school naming sound like a travesty."

"Well," said the reporter.

"I'm going to change my vote," said Robert Popejoy.

The new school hereafter will be known as MacArthur Elementary School.

Juveniles Taken To Chief's Home

BROWNS MILLS, N.J. (AP) — Pemberton Township Police Chief William R. Hann arrested two youthful burglary suspects Wednesday and then discovered there were no juvenile detention quarters available.

The chief decided to lodge the boys overnight in his home in this Burlington County community. The chief is married and father of three young children.

The two juveniles —13 -and 14-year-old suspects in numerous burglaries — were to be escorted to court after breakfast with the Hann family.

Pakistan has regarded India as its arch-enemy ever since the two countries were partitioned out of British India in 1947. Their feud centers on control of the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

Ayub denied rumors that Pakistan was drawing closer to Communist China and might pull out of the West's SEATO and CENTO alliances.

The 61-year-old field marshal won the country's first presidential election Saturday. He had ruled Pakistan under martial law since 1958, when he seized power in a military coup.

More Parental Responsibility Being Proposed

By KEN ROBISON
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — A special governor's committee looking for ways to improve public respect for the law has recommended legislation to make parents share responsibility for criminal acts of their children.

That was one of five legislative recommendations to which Gov. John A. Love said he will give "careful consideration" for inclusion in his message to the 45th General Assembly on Friday.

The idea of making parents partly responsible for misdeeds of their youngsters reflected the eight-member committee's conclusion that the home bears primary responsibility for a "deterioration in respect for law and for all moral obligations."

"Unless this trend is reversed, through a rekindling of our sense of moral obligation," said the committee, "the end of our democratic society is a likely consequence."

It said the fact that modern society has many mothers working and leaves less time for the family to be together puts more responsibility on parents at times when their children are present.

"Children complain that their parents are too busy," said the committee's report to Love. "They also speak of lack of guidance at home and parents who are too lenient.

"Police officers indicate that in many instances juveniles picked up at 2:30 a.m. for violations cannot be taken home because parents are not home.

"When parents boast of 'getting by' with income tax fraud, and when fathers station a child in the back seat of a car with field glasses to warn of the possible detection by a patrolman while the vehicle races over highways ... sure a poor example is being set."

The committee said the problem can't be solved by law. It suggested creation of parent study and action groups, and neighborhood parents' councils to establish "guidelines" for conduct of children.

Robert Fullerton, a former Denver judge, said young people complain that they are confused by wide differences in standards set by parents.

The committee also called for more emphasis on proper conduct in the schools, churches, the courts, communications media, and in occupations.

Edward C. King, former dean of the University of Colorado law school, said part of the problem is lack of knowledge of the law. He said the United States is one of the few nations without instruction in law as part of the school curriculum.

Other leislative recommendations were:

1. Tougher penalties for reckless driving, drunken driving and similar violations.

2. Special license plates for people who, by their safety records, have shown respect for law, life and property over a given period of time.

3. Establishment of a state police academy to train and improve the quality of law enforcement officers.

4. Establishment of an identification bureau to help law enforcement officers identify suspected criminals.

The committee recommended improvement of Colorado's laws on use of insanity as a defense in criminal cases. It said the public feels insanity is too freely used as a defense. The report noted that a special committee is studying the laws.

Also urged were a new system of selection and tenure for judges, firm action to discipline judges or attorneys who act unethically, and a continuing campaign by local bar associations to improve public opinion of judges and lawyers.

King said many people hold courts responsible for disrespect of laws because of probation and light sentences in criminal cases. He said the committee also found a feeling that "in our anxiety to protect the rights of the individual, we are neglecting to protect the rights of public."

The Rev. Paul H. A. Noren of the Augustana Lutheran Church in Denver, chairman of the committee, said its first recommendations were only a "progress report" and it will continue its work.

He said its first recommendations were only a "progress report" and it will continue its work.

He said he believes local action groups will be set up throughout the state.

Love appointed the committee last September with instructions to seek ways to combat growing crime rates, juvenile delinquency, traffic deaths and vandalism. He said so far as he knows the Colorado committee is the only one of its kind in the nation.

King said the basic problem is to get people to "want to respect the law, and to see how the lack of respect for law is hurting the whole world."

"It is like we were sitting on an atomic bomb," he said. "We never know when there will be a riot, when students will go crazy at a baskteball game. I think we have been fortunate in Colorado."

The committee interviewed high school students, policemen, sheriff's officers, deans of students of the state's colleges and universities, high school student counselors, six inmates of the state penitentiary, religious leaders, and representatives of the news media and the State Welfare Department.

Picking Name for School Frustrating

First came a petition to name the new school for John F. Kennedy. Later, another petition asked that the school not be named John F. Kennedy.

This week the Board of Education polled its members and on a runoff ballot there were three votes for Eisenhower and three for MacArthur.

The names were placed in a hat. A reporter declined to draw one, saying: "I'm not going to write in my story tomorrow that I pulled the name for the new school out of a hat."

Horrified at the thought, a board member said, "It would make this school naming sound like a travesty."

"Well," said the reporter.

"I'm going to change my vote," said Robert Popejoy.

The new school hereafter will be known as MacArthur Elementary School.

NEW MATERIAL—In Frankfurt, West Germany, fashion designers have come up with a new material for bikinis. This one is made of leather.

CONFERENCE SLATED

LONDON (UPI) — Special U.S. presidential representative Averell Harriman will confer with British Minister of State George Thomson here Thursday, the foreign office announced.

Harriman is on a European tour and has been having consultations with government leaders.

Juveniles Taken To Chief's Home

BROWNS MILLS, N.J. (AP) — Pemberton Township Police Chief William R. Hann arrested two youthful burglary suspects Wednesday and then discovered there were no juvenile detention quarters available.

The chief decided to lodge the boys overnight in his home in this Burlington County community. The chief is married and father of three young children.

The two juveniles —13 -and 14-year-old suspects in numerous burglaries — were to be escorted to court after breakfast with the Hann family.

The games sponsored by the Cascade Property Owners Association are being resumed Jan. 6 at the Firehouse in Cascade. cade.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones entertained a New Year's dinner for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence, Manitou Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Del Ikerd, Mr. and Mrs. Scotty Ambrose, Mrs. Nellie Need, all of Colorado Springs; Mrs. Polly Lamd and her sister, Mrs. Zella Breitenbecher, of Sapulpa, Okla., and Mrs. Hazel Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stout.

The Rev. Kenneth Burton of the Department of Religion at the Colorado College, was guest speaker at the Church in the Wildwood, Sunday.

The Cub Scouts held their regular meeting at the Firehouse in Cascade Tuesday. The boys and their leader, Mrs. Joyce Woolston, took a field trip to the North Pole. They had a very enjoyable time feeding the animals. Four of the boys took part in the magic show. They spent some time with Santa Claus and sang some Christmas carols to him. He in turn told them some Christmas stories. Refreshments of hot chocolate, and Santa Claus cookies were enjoyed at Old Mother Hubbard's House. Ronnie Slaven, the den chief, accompanied the group and their leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Singmaster and family spent the holiday at Fort Scott, Kan., visiting relatives and friends. They returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Devlin, of Larmie, Wyo., spent the New Year weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woolston and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Lutz entertained at their home New Year's Eve at a gala party. At the stroke of Midnight the guests all went outside to welcome the New Year, with fireworks and noise makers. Mrs. Mollie Lutz' birthday falls on Jan. 1 so the occasion was also in honor of her birthday. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William Osborne, Green Mountain Falls; Mr. and Mrs Ed Eggleston, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McLaughlin, and Mr. and Mrs. Duaine Shepherd, all of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Behm and Sharon and Mrs. Martha Gudereit left several days before Christmas and had a nice holiday trip to Illinois, where they visited Julius' brother Rudolph Behm and family. They went on to Louisana, where they visited the Earl C. DeGrays. They returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mitchell went to Boulder, where they spent Christmas Eve and Christmas day with their daughter's family. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hardy and children. Saturday they spent the day with friends in Evergreen, Colo.

Taking advantage of Christmas Vacation members of the Cascade Sunday School were recently treated to a skating and sleighing party at the Woodland Park Lake. Sponsors of the afternoon party were Mr. and Mrs. John Wondergem, at whose home after the party cookies and hot chocolate, were served. There was an informal hymn sing, and a brief devotional talk by the Rev. Paul Hutchens.

Kurt and Gary Schekel returned to Fort Collins, to college, after having spent the holiday vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schekel. Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Jones and family spent the holiday vacation in Denver visiting relatives and friends.

The Donut Shoppe opened for business Jan. 4, after being closed a week while the Shores made a week's trip, visiting relatives and friends in Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Lanning and family and Fred Goure were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Shore on New Year's day.

Mrs. Fred Goure left last week for Salina, to visit her sister, who is ill in a hospital.

Mrs. Virginia Sodano and daughter Adreu, of Denver, were New Year day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pole and family. Elizabeth Pole, who had been spending a vacation in Denver and skiing at Breckenridge, returned home with them.

Jody Gayler returned to college at Fort Collins Sunday, after being ill the past two weeks and spending her holiday vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gayler.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lanning drove to Greeley to take their daughter Joanne back to college.

Sherri Jacobs, who has been spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jacobs, and Jim returned to Greeley Monday.

The Cascade Home Owners report that response has been very good in the membership drive.

Mrs. Betty Weisman entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of her daughter Susan's birthday. Luncheon and games were enjoyed by the following guests: Candy Sumner, Cynthia Wahl, Kim Pettit, Dawn Teague, Valarie Howard and Kathy Baird.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tesker entertained a group of friends at a new Years Eve party.

The Bookmobile has again resumed its regular schedule and will be in Chipita Park Jan. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Richardson of Los Angeles, Calif., and David Richardson and son Dennis, of the Los Angeles area, were Christmas holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woolston. The Richardsons are Mrs. Woolston's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stout returned recently from a week's visit with relatives and friends in Wichita, Kan.

Polly Lamb, who has been spending the past several weeks in Oklahoma, returned home last week. She was accompanied home by her sister, Mrs. Zella Breitenbecher, of Sapulpa, Okla., who spent the holidays here, returning home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Belderbeck, and Mrs. Harold E. Wilson and son Eddie are spending a few weeks in California. They left Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wyatt and Robin and their house guests, Mrs. Edna Williams, of Wichita, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wyatt were New Years day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Webb in Woodland Park.

The Peak Treat is in the process of being moved to a new location, due to the new highway construction.

Several of the children in this area spent a part of their vacation with the chicken pox.

Awful Spelling Dictionary Is Selling Good

LONDON (AP) — The man who published the Awful Spellers Dictionary says his sales have been so good that he's going to publish a series of Awful Books.

"We have done phenomenally well with the dictionary for Awful Spellers," said Peter Wolfe." It's now well on its way to 100,000 copies.

"All this has made us realize there is one incredible gap in publishing. Everyone seems to assume that people are either beginners, competent, or advanced in a subject.

"Since I'm so bad at so many things myself this is something very dear to my heart. So, I've commissioned a series of Awful Books designed specially for people who are bad at doing things."

The first three, to be published in March, will be called:

The Awful Cook's Book.

The Awful Dressmaker's Book.

"The Awful Handyman's Book.

"All these tell you what not to do and what, if anything, you can do if you've already made an awful mess of something," said Wolfe." The title and the concept may be funny, but the books themselves are deadly serious and we hope will be of use in an emergency when, for instance, the sponge cake goes flat, the pancakes have been ruined, or perhaps you have split the beautiful plank you've bought."

The Awful Spellers Dictionary was designed for those who spell so badly they can't find the words in an ordinary dictionary.

The words are arranged phonetically. You look up a word the way it sounds.

If you want to spell phenomenal, you look up fenominal.

Salvation Army Blasts James Bond Books

LONDON (UPI)—The Salvation Army weekly War Cry suggested Wednesday that the "violence, illicit sex, gambling and gormandizing" of the late Ian Fleming's James Bond books may be demoralizing British youth.

"Violence in the Bond books reaches psychopathic degrees," the newspaper said." Cruelty seems to be for the love of cruelty: sadism is present, too.

"As most Bond fans are youngish, it may not be coincidence that the latest . . . criminal statistics for England and Wales show a nine per cent increase of indictable offenses, including robbery, murder and other crimes of violence."

Awful Spelling Dictionary Is Selling Good

LONDON (AP) — The man who published the Awful Spellers Dictionary says his sales have been so good that he's going to publish a series of Awful Books.

"We have done phenomenally well with the dictionary for Awful Spellers," said Peter Wolfe." It's now well on its way to 100,000 copies.

"All this has made us realize there is one incredible gap in publishing. Everyone seems to assume that people are either beginners, competent, or advanced in a subject.

"Since I'm so bad at so many things myself this is something very dear to my heart. So, I've commissioned a series of Awful Books designed specially for people who are bad at doing things."

The first three, to be published in March, will be called:

The Awful Cook's Book.

The Awful Dressmaker's Book.

"The Awful Handyman's Book.

"All these tell you what not to do and what, if anything, you can do if you've already made an awful mess of something," said Wolfe." The title and the concept may be funny, but the books themselves are deadly serious and we hope will be of use in an emergency when, for instance, the sponge cake goes flat, the pancakes have been ruined, or perhaps you have split the beautiful plank you've bought."

The Awful Spellers Dictionary was designed for those who spell so badly they can't find the words in an ordinary dictionary.

The words are arranged phonetically. You look up a word the way it sounds.

If you want to spell phenomenal, you look up fenominal.

Salvation Army Blasts James Bond Books

LONDON (UPI)—The Salvation Army weekly War Cry suggested Wednesday that the "violence, illicit sex, gambling and gormandizing" of the late Ian Fleming's James Bond books may be demoralizing British youth.

"Violence in the Bond books reaches psychopathic degrees," the newspaper said." Cruelty seems to be for the love of cruelty: sadism is present, too.

"As most Bond fans are youngish, it may not be coincidence that the latest . . . criminal statistics for England and Wales show a nine per cent increase of indictable offenses, including robbery, murder and other crimes of violence."

Tshombe Offers Proof Of Congo Atrocities

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe has invited the leaders of Algeria, Ghana, Mali and Egypt — all avowed supporters of the Congolese rebels — to meet him in Stanleyville and see for themselves atrocities committed by the rebels.

"Come and hear the stories of massacres and torture," Tshombe said Wednesday on his return from a brief visit to the former rebel capital.

Yugoslavia closed its six-man embassy in Leopoldville leaving Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria the only Communist countries still maintaining embassies here.

Business Gets LBJ's Proposal For Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-recession measures studded President Johnson's proposals to the Congress. And businessmen now have the anwers to the question bothering them most in the midst of today's unprecedented prosperity.

That is: What would the government do if a slowdown in the long economic upswing comes in a few more months — as many now predict — or if a recession itself might unexpectedly threaten?

The President's proposals both follow and add to the standard lines of what government is supposed to do to ward off or lessen a slump. The traditional moves are:

1. Tax cuts to pump more money into consumers' pockets, in the hope they will spend it fast.

2. Emergency government spending, which works slower but in time may furnish jobs and new orders for business.

To this he has added the newest theory of how the government should aid and guide the economy: continued deficit financing, right now when business clouds are few, to keep the economy growing.

The deficit in the next federal budget will come from more tax cuts, already scheduled or now promised for this year, and from more government spending for a long list of programs aimed at furthering the advent of the "Great Society."

The President, his advisers, and probably a majority of Congress count on this deficit spending to produce enough economic growth to make more jobs, higher incomes and thus, eventually, larger Treasury collections.

And they point with pride to 1964, when a tax cut while the Treasury was running a deficit is credited with helping boost the economy to record heights.

The President proposes cuts in the federal excise — sales — taxes, and perhaps still lower income tax rates if a slowdown threatens. Above all, though, he would like a heretofore reluctant Congress to arrange for quick — almost automatic — income tax cuts to fight a recession as soon as it appears.

He also wants, just in case, similar standby programs for public works to be started when new jobs are urgently needed.

Also aimed at putting off the day when an economic slowdown or a recession may appear is the President's suggestion that the federal $1.25 an hour minimum wage law be extended to two million more workers now uncovered. And he wants unemployment benefits boosted by higher payroll taxes covering a larger amount of wages.

Note of Uncertainty Seen in World Affairs

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)—The year 1965 opens on the same note of uncertainty which has afflicted Western polices since the defeat of the Nazi armies 20 years ago.

Only 20 years ago, the West European nations, including West Germany, lay in ruins after a devastating war. Today they no longer need to call on the United States to build their economy. They command industrial and economic resources on a scale comparable and n some respects even superior to those of the United States.

Yes, there are strains and disagreements in the Western alliance. Differences over strategy, control of nuclear weapons and NATO's entire structure are inevitable in an international association of free and equal partners.

But even French President De Gaulle who continues to plug for a Western Europe free of "American domination" is, above all, a strong anti-Communist and realist. He is too conscious of the West's strategic dependence on the United Sates to dissolve NATO.

More important is the growing realization of the NATO nations that they must assume a greater share of the burdens and responsibilities for the defense of Europe and freedom everywhere.

Now look at the Red world.

Russia's bitter rivalry with Red China has produced deep cracks in the Communist monolith which Stalin once ruled with an iron hand.

Throughout the globe, Reds are aruging the pros and cons of "revisionism" as hotly as tehir ideological matsrs in Moscow and Peking.

In at least a dozen non-Communist countries in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America, the debate has already resu ed in formal and open breaks between the partisans of Russia's revisionism and China's "dogmatism."

In Red-dominated Eastern Europe, Russia's satellites, which Stalin took over 20 years ago after Hitler's defeat, are gradually trying to escape Moscow's iron grip. They are increasingly looking to the West, especially to the United States, for new openings, especially in the field of trade and economic exchanges.

Russia, despite her stock of nuclear weapons which can destroy the world, is facing a knot of economic and political crises. The failure of her agricultural policy has led her to the humiliation of having to buy grain from the United States and other Western countries in terms of millions of dollars.

The failure of the Russians' economic system has also forced them to admit their dependence on the capitalist West fort he task of building up their industries. After five decades of communism this is a no less humiliating admission.

Of course, nobody can be sure that the quarrels which keep the Reds divided will persist even in the event of a world conflict.

But one thing is certain: The Western diplomatic Cassandras who continue to predict Red victories and Amreican defeat have gazed into the wrong crystal ball. Even they must admit that in 1965 it is an anochronism to speak—as they did in the two deacdes after Hitler's defeat—of the Communist bloc as a unique and centralized force dominated by Russia.

The year 1965 is not likely to bring peace to the Congo, Viet Nam and the other little nations of the world subverted by Russia and Red China.

But 20 years after Hitler's fall and more than a decade after Stalin's death the tide of history, it is clear, in running strongly in favor of the Free World.

Woman Elected Arizona's Chief Justice

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A woman who considers herself "a working judge" has been elected chief justice of the Arizona Supreme Court.

Lorna Lockwood was chosen chief justice Wednesday by unanimous vote of the four colleagues. It is believed to be the first time that a woman has headed a state's highest court.

Miss Lockwood, follows her father's footsteps. The late Alfred C. Lockwood, first appointed judge in fabled Tombstone in 1913, was chief justice three times during his 18-years on the Supreme Court.

Retiring Chief Justice Jesse Udall, in announcing Miss Lockwood's election, said:

"It is to the cedit of Arizona that we are the first to elevate an outstanding woman jurist to the highest position in our state judicial system.

"This is the first time in the 189 years of our nation's history that the contributions of women in the judicial, as well in other areas of public endeavor, have been so recognized."

Miss Lockwood has been on the high court four years, following 10 years as a Superior Court judge, three terms as a state representative and tenure as assistant state attorney general.

"Of course I'm highly honored to be chosen chief justice," Miss Lockwood said, as she outlined her aims for the coming year.

As chief justice, Miss Lockwood is also chief judicial administrator in Arizona and is responsible for integrating two new appeals courts into the system.

"Right now there are some cases that have been waiting two to three years to be heard," she said. "It's my hope the new appellate court system will reduce this time lag."

"When a person has to wait two to three ears to be heard there is really no justice," she said.

The new chief justice foresees a day when "the Supeme Cout can function as a court of review and not only as an appeal court."

This is important, she said, because cases involving constitutional questions have increased 33 per cent in her four years with the high court

Asked if being a woman in what traditionally is a man's profession has made a difference, she answered emphatically: "No indeed!"

"When working in court I'm working as a jusye and have never encountered anything but professional conduct," she said.

The vice president has another official title. He is also known as President of the Senate.

Halleck Gets Ike's Words of Comfort

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, ousted from his job as House Republican leader by younger insurgents, got words of comfort today from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower told Halleck in a telegram "Of course you know that in this life the most enduring reward is the respect of one's friends and one's own inner conviction that he has served his nation faithfully and well.

"The rest is essentially fluff.

"You have a brimming reservoir of friends the country over, ranging far beyond the Republican party. You have the admiration and affection of countless people and I am sure you will find enduring satisfaction in the knowledge that you are just as high in their esteem as you were formerly."

The former president sent the telegram from Indio, Calif., where he is spending a winter vacation. It was made public here.

Union Leaders Urged Not to Press for Hikes

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A spokesman for the nation's businessmen today cautioned steel and other union leaders not to press for wage increases exceeding increases in productivity.

Walter F. Carey, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said that "an upward movement of wages on a broad scale could easily lead to an inflationary cost push."

"In steel and other industries the unions are preparing to push hard for sizable wage increases, in competition with the auto industry's new wage patterns," Carey said.

"The threat of spiraling wages can best be met by unions which realize that they share in the perils of inflation. If these unions exercise restraint and discipline in their demands, then the way will be open for equitable solutions.

"It is important to realize, however, that a new generation of trade unionists is challenging the old for leadership of the labor movement. In the bid for rank-and-file support, the 'new breed' is making many promises.

"It will be up to the labor establishment to withstand these pressures from below, if the American economy is to continue its steady growth with price stability."

Carey spoke at a meeting of the Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

In his speech, Carey also said that President Johnson sees eye-to-eye with the business community on many questions, including excise taxes, economy in government, private investment and stable prices.

He predicted that in the months ahead there may be much closer relations between government and business.

Steel Near Top of List Of Economic Problems

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel is near the top of the list of problems the economy faces as the year starts.

The administration is worrying about the trends in steel prices, wages and stockpiling. Many businessmen are watching closely for a clue as to what could happen to their companies as a result of the moves in the steel industry. And most consumers could be affected directly or indirectly in time.

Price rises in some steel products led President Johnson to ask the chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers to make a study of the trend and see what, if anything, should or could be done about them.

Wage demands of the Steelworkers Union are watched to see if they will lead either to strike that would unsettle the economy or to a spreading movement among other unions for much higher wages, and hence larger production costs, that could lay the groundwork for further inflation.

Stock building by steel consumers, already under way as a hedge against a possible strike or more price rises, seems sure to give the economy an artificial boost in the first months of 1965. Then, barring a strike, there would be a letdown later when steel users lived off their built-up inventories and stopped ordering more steel from the mills.

Profits play a dual role.

Union leaders cite rising profits of steel companies as proof they can afford to pay lighter wages and confer more fringe benefits.

Management says profits are still too low. Steel executives contend their industry ranks near the bottom of the list of all industries in percentage of profits from sales or in return on investments.

This argument is used to justify the recent price increases — in reinforcing bars, some kinds of pipe, and galvanized sheets and coils. The argument is also used in their contention that other steel products — and more widely used ones — should be priced higher.

The administration is worried about steel price rises for several reasons. First is its apparent fear that increases in such a basic material will be passed along to buyers of finished products, whether industrial or consumer. Holding the rise in the cost of living to its comparatively moderate pace of 1.5 per cent a year is ticklish enough without taking on added risks.

Second apparent concern of the administration is that steel price rises, coming when higher profits are being announced, will encourage the steel union to boost its demands. If the demands are high, and are accepted by the companies, this would be the basis for still further steel price boosts. If the union demands seem too high to the companies, there could be a strike. And this could raise hope with all the glowing forecasts for the economy in 1965.

Burch Holding Out Compromise For Committee

By WALTER MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch held out a compromise offer today to settle the dispute over GOP leadership — but said his own position is not negotiable.

The chairman, chosen by Sen. Barry Goldwater, said he has decided not to ask the party's national committee for a vote of confidence in his leadership when it meets in Chicago Jan. 22 and 23.

Burch said he expects the forces pressing for his ouster will propose a resolution of their own, probably seeking a vote of no confidence in his chairmanship.

"I think that we have a majority," Burch said in an interview. "I think that our situation has improved in the last couple of weeks." He gave no figures.

Both Burch and Goldwater have said repeatedly that compromise is the way to settle the party battle. But Burch said his foes within the party have stood pat on their demand he be replaced. "I don't consider that negotiable," he said.

But Burch said he sees room for a compromise on the now vacant post of executive director, and on the executive committee of the national committee.

Burch said he would be willing to name a man acceptable to the moderate forces to the $25,000-a-year job of executive director. That post had been held by John Grenier, an Alabama Republican who marshaled Goldwater's Southern forces in the drive to capture the GOP nomination.

Record Enrollment Reported by Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of school children in the nation's public grade and high schools soared to a record 41.4 million last fall, the Office of Education reported Wednesday.

The record enrollments represent an increase of 1.2 million, or 3.1 per cent over the 1963 classroom population in public schools.

An estimated 6.9 million additional pupils are enrolled in private or non-public schools.

The statistics were the result of the 11th annual fall survey by the Office of Education conducted in cooperation with state Departments of Education.

The survey also showed that the number of public high school graduates jumped 18.1 per cent to a record 2,021,000 in the 1963-64 school year. This compares with total high school graduates of 1,711,000 in the previous year.

The survey showed that enrollments in high schools are increasing more rapidly than in grade schools. There were 26.2 million pupils in grade schools during the school term starting last fall, 447,000 over a year ago. This was a 1.7 per cent increase.

But high school enrollments rose 782,000 to 15.2 million, a gain of 5.4 per cent over the previous year.

The nation's advertising agencies employ about 60,000 persons.

Steel Near Top of List Of Economic Problems

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel is near the top of the list of problems the economy faces as the year starts.

The administration is worrying about the trends in steel prices, wages and stockpiling. Many businessmen are watching closely for a clue as to what could happen to their companies as a result of the moves in the steel industry. And most consumers could be affected directly or indirectly in time.

Price rises in some steel products led President Johnson to ask the chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers to make a study of the trend and see what, if anything, should or could be done about them.

Wage demands of the Steelworkers Union are watched to see if they will lead either to strike that would unsettle the economy or to a spreading movement among other unions for much higher wages, and hence larger production costs, that could lay the groundwork for further inflation.

Stock building by steel consumers, already under way as a hedge against a possible strike or more price rises, seems sure to give the economy an artificial boost in the first months of 1965. Then, barring a strike, there would be a letdown later when steel users lived off their built-up inventories and stopped ordering more steel from the mills.

Profits play a dual role.

Union leaders cite rising profits of steel companies as proof they can afford to pay lighter wages and confer more fringe benefits.

Management says profits are still too low. Steel executives contend their industry ranks near the bottom of the list of all industries in percentage of profits from sales or in return on investments.

This argument is used to justify the recent price increases — in reinforcing bars, some kinds of pipe, and galvanized sheets and coils. The argument is also used in their contention that other steel products — and more widely used ones — should be priced higher.

The administration is worried about steel price rises for several reasons. First is its apparent fear that increases in such a basic material will be passed along to buyers of finished products, whether industrial or consumer. Holding the rise in the cost of living to its comparatively moderate pace of 1.5 per cent a year is ticklish enough without taking on added risks.

Second apparent concern of the administration is that steel price rises, coming when higher profits are being announced, will encourage the steel union to boost its demands. If the demands are high, and are accepted by the companies, this would be the basis for still further steel price boosts. If the union demands seem too high to the companies, there could be a strike. And this could raise hope with all the glowing forecasts for the economy in 1965.

Burch Holding Out Compromise For Committee

By WALTER MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch held out a compromise offer today to settle the dispute over GOP leadership — but said his own position is not negotiable.

The chairman, chosen by Sen. Barry Goldwater, said he has decided not to ask the party's national committee for a vote of confidence in his leadership when it meets in Chicago Jan. 22 and 23.

Burch said he expects the forces pressing for his ouster will propose a resolution of their own, probably seeking a vote of no confidence in his chairmanship.

"I think that we have a majority," Burch said in an interview. "I think that our situation has improved in the last couple of weeks." He gave no figures.

Both Burch and Goldwater have said repeatedly that compromise is the way to settle the party battle. But Burch said his foes within the party have stood pat on their demand he be replaced. "I don't consider that negotiable," he said.

But Burch said he sees room for a compromise on the now vacant post of executive director, and on the executive committee of the national committee.

Burch said he would be willing to name a man acceptable to the moderate forces to the $25,000-a-year job of executive director. That post had been held by John Grenier, an Alabama Republican who marshaled Goldwater's Southern forces in the drive to capture the GOP nomination.

Record Enrollment Reported by Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of school children in the nation's public grade and high schools soared to a record 41.4 million last fall, the Office of Education reported Wednesday.

The record enrollments represent an increase of 1.2 million, or 3.1 per cent over the 1963 classroom population in public schools.

An estimated 6.9 million additional pupils are enrolled in private or non-public schools.

The statistics were the result of the 11th annual fall survey by the Office of Education conducted in cooperation with state Departments of Education.

The survey also showed that the number of public high school graduates jumped 18.1 per cent to a record 2,021,000 in the 1963-64 school year. This compares with total high school graduates of 1,711,000 in the previous year.

The survey showed that enrollments in high schools are increasing more rapidly than in grade schools. There were 26.2 million pupils in grade schools during the school term starting last fall, 447,000 over a year ago. This was a 1.7 per cent increase.

But high school enrollments rose 782,000 to 15.2 million, a gain of 5.4 per cent over the previous year.

The nation's advertising agencies employ about 60,000 persons.

their government in the battle for prestige among African and Asian nations. There is fear that Peking will attempt nuclear blackmail of India.

Unlike Nehru, Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has been looking for a nuclear umbrella for his 480 million countrymen. He has declared that India, for moral and economic reasons, could not build its own. He suggested that the Soviet Union and the United States supply the umbrella for all non nuclear countries jointly.

Moscow silently spurned the offer. The United States, in effect, accepted by announcing that the submarine Daniel Boone with 16 Polaris missiles aboard was moving into waters off the Asian mainland.

Even rabidly anti-American newspapers in India found little fault with Washington's move. The leftist newspaper Patriot, though dissatisfied with this extension of American influence, said: "The western Pacific will now be an American pond into which the power-crazy mandarins of Peking can no more look."

Some Indians see the move as an effort by President Johnson to lift the U.S.-China confrontation out of South Viet Nam.

There is speculation in New Delhi that Johnson would like to move away from man-to man battles and rely instead on America's superior naval and air power to contain Chinese expansionism.

Top Indian officials see no chance of the United States winning against the superior manpower of China and its satellites in ground battles.

These officials say President Johnson also realizes this and that by moving the Daniel Boone into Asian waters, he is trying to reassure the non-Communist nations of Asia that they will be protected.

Variable Wings Prove Success For TFX Plane

to have its wings outstretched almost straight for added life and short takeoffs, then sweep them back to reduce drag for supersonic speeds.

Never before had a plane utilizing the retractable wings performed so well in the effort to solve the problem of incorporating short takeoffs and landings with high speed into a single aircraft.

Pilot R. L. Johnson and co-pilot Val Prahl flew the TFX, designed the F111 by the Air Force, on its second flight Wednesday to an altitude of 10,000 feet, then moved the wings from their forward position of 16 degrees back to the full swept angle of 72.5 degrees.

This test was at a speed of about 400 knots — approximately 450 miles per hour. Johnson said on the third flight, not yet set, the TFX will attain supersonic speed.

The plane is designed to reach 2.5 times the speed of sound, approximately 1,600 m.p.h.

Johnson said the multipurpose jet cleared its primary hurdles with "one minor exception." He said several minor stability tests could not be performed because at one point the one engine developed a slightly high temperature and erratic fuel flow.

On its maiden flight the TFX pilots experienced trouble with the flaps. This was corrected the next day by General Dynamics engineers.

The second flight was 24 days ahead of the Defense Department's deadline. Frank W. Davis, president of General Dynamics' Forth Worth operation, said the TFX contract was the first to include an incentive and penalty clause. It was learned unofficially that the incentive bonus to General Dynamics will exceed $800,000.

House Burglarized Near Highway 83

James Fredereecksen, 8495 E. Arapahoe St. reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday that his house on Highway 83 had been broken into.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Stone said a $20 clock and an electric heater and some canned goods worth a total of $30 had been taken. Entry was made by forcing the back door.

LBJ Seeks to Eliminate Part of Gold Backing

bank reserves. It is this legal percentage that Johnson favors repealing.

The Federal Reserve Board, which enjoys a large measure of independence, now has the power to reduce or eliminate the 25 per cent gold requirement on both currency and reserves for a two-week period. It can keep renewing this action indefinitely.

However, most of Johnson's monetary advisers advocate a request to Congress as a more orderly method.

The ratio of gold to currency and reserves has gone down in recent years for two reasons: a steady, moderate expansion of the money supply to keep pace with a growing economy, and a decline in the gold stock due to a deficit in the international balance of payments.

The ratio was 27.9 per cent on Nov. 30 compared to 30.3 per cent a year earlier and much higher ratios several years ago.

"It is obvious that something will have to be done," one authority said. "Even if our gold stock remains stable, we will need more money to take care of our domestic needs."

U.S. Gold Reserve Loss May Reach Danger Point

ers would like that, too. The Soviet Union, which produces a lot — believed to rank next to South Africa — also would gain by an increase in the official price.

The U.S. Treasury, which once held $24 billion in gold, now is holding on tight as it can to the $15.5 billion left it after several years of gold losses to foreign governments turning in surplus U.S. dollars. Their holdings are still building up because our international payments run a deficit each year. In 1963 better than $2 billion more went overseas than returned.

Foreign governments and their national banks hold some $12 billion short-term dollar commitments they could turn in. Other foreign banks, traders and investors have about $10 billion in dollar short-term liabilities, some of which they might turn in to their central banks.

Of its $15.5 billion in gold, the U.S. Treasury must mark $13.6 billion as legal backing for Federal Reserve notes totaling $35 billion, and for commercial bank deposits in Federal Reserve banks of around $19 billion.

Increasingly of late, as the Treasury squirms to protect the $1.9 billion of gold still free of such legal restrictions — the $1.9 billion it could use if other governments turn in dollars for gold — talk has been heard of eliminating the backing for the commercial bank deposits and even of reducing the 25 per cent gold backing required for Federal Reserve notes.

Treasury gold holdings now represent 27.7 per cent of this currency and bank deposits. A year ago the gold hoard was 29.5 per cent, and two years ago 32.2 per cent, of the money supply that must be backed.

By eliminating the backing for bank deposits, the Treasury would have $6.7 billion, instead of $1.9 billion, to meet any demands of other nations for gold in return for their dollars.

Major Schedule Changes Made for Apollo Program

circling the earth, the Saturn 4B's engine will be started and its 200,000 pounds of thrust will fling the spacecraft toward the moon.

"We need to know how the fuel acts in a weightless condition," Lee said. "The only way we can do that is to send it into space.

"To keep hydrogen and oxygen in liquid form, the temperature must be 423 degrees below zero.

"We expect venting — leaks with the liquid changing to gas. We need to know how the venting affects the rocket's course and how much we can trade off in insulation weight for more fuel."

The Saturn 1 family of rockets has been one of the brighter spots in the U.S. space picture. The 1.5 million-pound thrust rocket has been fired seven times without mishap. The Saturn 1B is an advanced and more powerful model.

Lee said the unmanned earth orbital test of the LEM replacing the third manned mission was scheduled for 1967.

Rusk to Study Mob Attacks on U.S. Embassies

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, indicated they favor Symington's amendment.

In the House, where similar moves are under way, Rusk repeated after briefing the Foreign Affairs Committee on the international situation that "we expect respect" overseas.

There have been 31 recorded cases of damage to U.S. buildings abroad since Johnson took office. The State Department study is aimed at finding practical ways to discourage the attacks and steps that might be taken after they do occur.

The usual procedure is to issue a protest to the offending government and demand compensation.

Some administration strategists are apprehensive that Congress may wind up with legislation aimed at foreign indignities that would be too tough and rigid to apply in changing foreign situations.

The White House announced Wednesday that the President's request for foreign aid funds for the coming year, expected to total more than $3.3 billion, will be sent to Congress in a special message a week from today. Both the United Arab Republic and Indonesia, where U.S. libraries were sacked, have been getting U.S. assistance.

Street to Be Closed To Install Sewer

The OO block of West Cache la Poudre Street between Cascade Avenue and Mesa Road will be closed to all through traffic starting at 8 a.m. Friday.

City Traffic Engineer Don Smith said the street would be closed while Benbow Plumbing and Heating Company is installing a sewer line to serve new buildings at Colorado College.

Local conditions and the weather will determine how long the street will be closed, Smith said, but he estimated it would take a week to 10 days to complete the utility installation.

Robert D. Skaer Died Today

Robert D. Skaer, 45, 1952 Woodburn St. died at his home early this morning, the sheriff's department reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Don Fahnerkrug, Mrs. Skaer said her husband got out of bed and went into the bathroom. She then heard a noise and when she went in found him on the floor.

The report stated Mr. Skaer had a heart condition for which he was being treated and that this was the possible cause of death. The body was taken to the Law Mortuary.

Saddle Club Slates Gymkhana Sunday

Crystal Hills Saddle Club has scheduled a gymkhana for 1 p.m. Sunday, weather permitting, at Sheriff Posse Grounds on Crystal Park Rd. The gymkhana will be open to anyone who wants to enter, and entry fees will be 25 cents per person for each event.

There will be no charge for spectators, and the public is invited.

Ribbons will be awarded for each event and age group, and there will be a trophy for the high-point winner, Jean Manson, club secretary, reported.

Bids Asked for PO Trash Removal

Bids are being solicited for trash removal from the Colorado Springs Main Post Office building, and from all stations. All bids must be submitted by noon Jan. 15, Don Rhodes reported.

Trash will have to be removed from the main building, and from the Parcel Post Annex, the North End Station, the Knob Hill Station, the West End Station and the Security Branch. The contractor will have to supply trash removal trucks.

Additional information may be acquired from Assistant Postmaster A. J. Oosfrock, Room 104, Main Post Office Building.

Major Injured As Plane Rolls Over Him

and then, while the engine was idling slowly, pulled the chock from the rear wheel and began to climb into the plane. He stepped onto the low wing, but slipped and fell to the pavement. The plane started to move slowly and Dennison attempted to grab hold of the tail to stop it.

As he grabbed hold, the rear wheel and elevator ran over him, but caused no serious injury. The plane continued for another 40 feet and struck a Cessna 140, parked on the ramp. The collision caused an estimated $200 damage to the front of Dennison's plane and in his words, "several hundred dollars" damage to the wing of parked craft. The owner of the Cessna is still unknown to Dennison.

The major says that everything happened so fast he does not know when he sustained the cut — whether it was from the fall or the tail section. He is now at home recuperating from the head injury and some "aches and pains."

Dennison is a veteran of 16 years service in the Air Force. He is assigned to the Command Post at Air Defense Command Headquarters in the Chidlaw Building.

Swollen Rivers Recede, Rains End in California

buses and dozens of cars were marooned on 7,200-foot-high Donner Summit Wednesday night as a howling blizzard reduced visibility to zero.

Authorities said the road would remain closed for the night and possibly through today.

The California Highway Patrol said each of the buses carried about 40 passengers. It was impossible to tell how many cars and trucks were stalled on the major route across the mountain —Interstate 80.

Lt. O. P. Ledford said vehicles bogged down in the storm included three highway patrol cars.

"Visibility in the whole area is absolutely zero," he said.

Snow depths were estimated at five feet at Truckee and eight feet at Tahoe City. Both communities lie just on the California side of the mountains.

Ski resorts were suffering from too much snow. At Heavenly Valley ski area, on the south shore of Lake Tahoe, Annette R. Saltus, 43, of San Francisco, fell beneath a snow removal tractor Wednesday and was killed.

As Northern California relaxed from its latest flood threat, the four other Western states that shared the ordeal of 40 Christmas week flood deaths and a billion dollars property damage, continued their dig-out. The weather appeared to be cooperating.

Dropping mountain temperatures sealed in snows and reduced chances of excess river and stream flows from meltings.

Throughout the rest of the Far West, typical winter forecasts — low temperature and plenty of snow — were recorded.

In Northern California, near the mighty Eel River about 250 miles north of San Francisco, flood victims returned to the grim business of salvaging what they could from the tons of muck that clog their former homesites.

Mariner Spacecraft Continues Journey

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Mariner 4 spacecraft is still up there — 70 million miles along on its 325-million-mile flight to Mars.

It has now spent 40 days in space, headed toward a July 14 fly-by at Mars. Laboratory spokesmen said Wednesday that all systems are operating normally, including the transmitter which is expected to relay to earth the first close-up television pictures of the planet.

Restaurant Owner Attacked and Robbed

Don Emig, 4102 Tumbleweed Dr., was attacked and robbed of $88 by seven men Wednesday night, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien, Emig owns the El Taco Restaurant at 2727 N. Nevada Ave. and he had left the restaurant after midnight to go into the parking lot for his car the men attacked him. They also stole his cigarette lighter, Holien said.

Britain, France Go Ahead With Super Airplane

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government intends to go ahead with the British-French project to build the Concorde supersonic airliner, informed sources said today.

But Britain intends to insist that a close eye be kept on the cost of the project, estimated at about $840 million.

The sources said at least two Concorde prototypes, and possibly as many as six, will be built. The work will be shared by the British Aircraft Corp. and France's Sud Aviation.

The reprieve for the plane was decided upon at a Cabinet meeting Wednesday. The government had felt misgivings about continuing the expensive program in the face of Britain's economic difficulties.

The Daily Express said the decision to proceed constitutes "a big success for Gen. de Gaulle and the French aviation industry."

The sources said the British government decided to go ahead after it became apparent that there was no hope of bringing the United States into the project.

The British government also reportedly feared that should it back out of the project, the French would go to the International Court of Justice in The Hague with a claim that Britain had broken a binding contract and owed France a penalty. This could have amounted to as much as $560 million, it was said.

Thailand Says Reds Step Up Activity

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Subversive Communist activity along Thailand's northeastern border with Laos has been stepped up, with emphasis on radio propaganda, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

The foreign minister told a news conference the government had "noticed more activities" by a clandestine radio station which beams programs in the Thai language into the northeast, a poor, underdeveloped area. He said more Communist activity has been observed along the Mekong River border with Laos.

Legislator Says Tax Hikes Will Exceed Previous Cuts

property tax has expired, which will cost the state about $5.5 million yearly. But changes were made in the reporting of income taxes last year which will cost taxpayers about the same amount.

In the 1962 general election, voters passed a constitutional amendment calling for a simplification in the income tax reporting system.

The income tax cuts of 1963 still are on the books and will give taxpayers an $8 million break yearly until changed.

Taylor said all the tax cut gains would be lost with new tax hikes.

Wenke called for an increase in the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent per dollar, a hike in the cigarette tax from 3 to 5 cents per pack and a jump in the state gasoline tax from 6 cents per gallon to 7 cents.

The three plans would raise about $43 million a year.

The money was needed, Wenke said, mainly to provide more state aid for schools, which in turn would allow a cut in local property taxes paid for school support.

Taylor said he bitterly opposed the original cigarette tax and would not support any increase in it. He said he could support an increase in the sales tax "only as a last resort."

He said he had not had enough time to determine whether an increase in the gasoline tax was necessary.

The Senate Democrat said the Legislature should give some consideration to raising any needed money from the income tax, which was hiked by ex-Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols and lowered by Republicans when they took office.

Taylor said he needed more time to study the state's fiscal problems before predicting how new money should be raised. He did say he was opposed to any new state property tax.

He also said taxes should be raised in areas "less painful" than excise taxes. He said these taxes hit low income groups the hardest.

Taylor said his sweepstakes would be a painless and voluntary task.

"No one has to pay it," he said.

The Senate leader said Democrats first must find out what Love's recommendations are and then draw up alternatives.

He also said he had "grave doubts" that property taxes would be lowered even with more state aid to schools because school districts were so hard pressed for money.

Under the Taylor proposal, the sweepstakes would be run by the State Racing Commission. Sweepstakes tickets would cost $3, with prizes ranging up to possibly $100,000.

LBJ Plans to 'Write Off' Viet Nam, Reports Declare

Nam with a military smokescreen of tightly controlled tactical bombing raids in Laos and Communist North Viet Nam.

One contingency plan the President has not yet acted on provides for the bombing of Chinese Communist nuclear production facilities, on the theory this action would end Peking's atomic threat the next five to seven years.

None of these "looking tough" bombing plans, according to aides of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are designed to bring victory in South Viet Nam or begin a rollback of Communism in Southeast Asia.

Instead, the operations are "more political than military," serving as a cover for U.S. withdrawal, and as a lever on Hanoi and Peking to join in a negotiated settlement to end the fighting in South Viet Nam.

According to his closest congressional friends, this momentous disengagement decision is tied closely to President Johnson's almost blind belief that he can work out "compromises and adjustments" with Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders without damaging U.S. prestige or weakening its vital defenses.

This presidential "frame of mind," carefully cultivated by McGeorge Bundy, his chief foreign policy adviser, now dominates all U.S. dealings with world Communist leaders and its handling of Red-instigated crises in Asia and Africa.

Not even the Communists' contemptuous rejections of the President's repeated secret soundings to negotiate a settlement in South Viet Nam have caused him to change this controversial approach.

Vic Damone Pays Up Child Support

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Vic Damone's attorney says the singer is now paid up on child support payments owed his ex-wife, actress Pier Angeli, for care of their son, Perry, 9.

Damone wrote a $1,000 check which he turned over Wednesday to Miss Angeli's attorney in Santa Monica Superior Court, where the singer and actress are staging a custody battle over the boy.

It was testified that at times Damone was as much as $15,500 behind in $500 monthly support payments ordered after their 1959 divorce. He claimed earlier he withheld the payments because he was denied visitation rights.

Both Damone, 35, and Miss Angeli, 32, have remarried. He has temporary custody of the boy.

Red Tape May Delay Plan for Cobblestones

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — The little town of Solvang, a quaint Danish community full of Old World charm and good food, wants to enhance its atmosphere by paving some streets with cobblestones.

That these are precast cobblestones doesn't bother anybody. But the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors so far has taken a dim view of the proposal for other reasons.

"Wouldn't the stones make for pedestrian accidents, especially to women in high heels?" asked one supervisor at a hearing Wednesday.

"Walking on their toes would save their soles," another supervisor put in quickly.

Board member Daniel C. Grant commented: "This is nonsense. Cobblestones have been used in Europe for years, and I understand that even American communities, like San Pedro (Calif.) are using them."

When the board asked its counsel, Robert K. Cutler, for an opinion, he shook his head and said: "Only a court and jury in a specific case could decide."

Thus were the cobblestones laid on the table and covered with red tape. Action is still pending.

Nothing Much Changed About Jean Arthur

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nothing much has changed about Jean Arthur. She still has the same blonde beauty, the same smoky voice. She is still skittish about publicity.

The great star of sophisticated comedies of the '30s and '40s is back before the cameras after an 11-year absence. Her last appearance was in George Stevens' epic Western "Shane," and her return finds her out West again in 'Gunsmoke." She is starring in the long-run series as mother of an outlaw.

She appeared for her first 'Gunsmoke" scenes wearing blue jeans that displayed her trim figure to advantage. The record books show her to be 56, but that is hard to believe.

With Miss Arthur her work on the set was always uppermost. She remains the same. Between takes she huddled with the director or scampered to her dressing room. A brave repodter caught her in an unguarded moment and welcomed her back to town.

"Thank you, but you're breaking the rules in talking to me," she said, half in jest.

She did pause for a fleeting moment to reflect on the expedience of working in television.

"They shoot so fast!" she remarked. "My goodness, we fly from one scene to another. I think it's wonderful. I enjoy doing it and getting on to the next scene."

I mentioned that it wasn't like working with George Stevens, who has been known to shoot 5 takes of one scene "Yes, but he's so wonderful," she replied, and she inquired about his new film, "The Greatest Story Ever Told"

"Gee, I wish he would make some comedies again," she said. "He made such good ones." Among them were "Talk of the Town" and "The More the Merrier," in which Miss Arthur starred.

She said little more, and when a publicity man approached, she took off like a shot.

Her manager, Eddie Dukoff, long associated with Danny Kaye, was more explicit about her return.

"The best way I can explain it is that the genes that made her a star became degenerated," said Dukoff. "She has been leading a very happy and full life at Carmel for 11 years."

She first contemplated a return on television with Lucille Ball, an old friend. Dukoff vetoed the idea, arguing that she should first try a dramatic splash.

He also favored a return in the movie technique, rather than Lucille's three-camera method.

Dukoff said Miss Arthur is considering a number of projects, including a television series of her own.

Russell Long Used to Be Called Huey

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the new assistant Senate Democratic leader, began life as Huey Pierce Long III.

The name didn't stick.

His father, the famed Huey P. Long of Louisiana, objected to it.

What happened, Sen. Long recounted today, was that he was born Nov. 3, 1918, while his father was out campaigning for election as State Public Service commissioner. So his mother named him Huey Pierce Long III, and the birth was so registered.

But the father — who served as governor and later as senator from Louisiana before his death in 1935 — objected, saying he didn't want his son to have to be responsible for any of his mistakes. He picked out the name Russell Billiu Long, Billiu being the maiden name of Huey Long's mother.

So the boy grew up as Russell B. Long without anything ever being done to change the official record.

Then came World War II, Russell joined the Navy, and the discrepancy in names came to light.

"You know the Navy," Sen. Long said. "Everything has to be in order — in triplicate."

So he went to court and had his name officially recorded as Russell B. Long.

Long is the only U.S. senator in history whose mother and father both served in the Senate. After his father's assassination in Baton Rouge Sept. 10, 1935, his mother was appointed to the Senate and served out the remainder of Huey Long's term.

their government in the battle for prestige among African and Asian nations. There is fear that Peking will attempt nuclear blackmail of India.

Unlike Nehru, Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has been looking for a nuclear umbrella for his 480 million countrymen. He has declared that India, for moral and economic reasons, could not build its own. He suggested that the Soviet Union and the United States supply the umbrella for all non nuclear countries jointly.

Moscow silently spurned the offer. The United States, in effect, accepted by announcing that the submarine Daniel Boone with 16 Polaris missiles aboard was moving into waters off the Asian mainland.

Even rabidly anti-American newspapers in India found little fault with Washington's move. The leftist newspaper Patriot, though dissatisfied with this extension of American influence, said: "The western Pacific will now be an American pond into which the power-crazy mandarins of Peking can no more look."

Some Indians see the move as an effort by President Johnson to lift the U.S.-China confrontation out of South Viet Nam.

There is speculation in New Delhi that Johnson would like to move away from man-to man battles and rely instead on America's superior naval and air power to contain Chinese expansionism.

Top Indian officials see no chance of the United States winning against the superior manpower of China and its satellites in ground battles.

These officials say President Johnson also realizes this and that by moving the Daniel Boone into Asian waters, he is trying to reassure the non-Communist nations of Asia that they will be protected.

Variable Wings Prove Success For TFX Plane

to have its wings outstretched almost straight for added life and short takeoffs, then sweep them back to reduce drag for supersonic speeds.

Never before had a plane utilizing the retractable wings performed so well in the effort to solve the problem of incorporating short takeoffs and landings with high speed into a single aircraft.

Pilot R. L. Johnson and co-pilot Val Prahl flew the TFX, designed the F111 by the Air Force, on its second flight Wednesday to an altitude of 10,000 feet, then moved the wings from their forward position of 16 degrees back to the full swept angle of 72.5 degrees.

This test was at a speed of about 400 knots — approximately 450 miles per hour. Johnson said on the third flight, not yet set, the TFX will attain supersonic speed.

The plane is designed to reach 2.5 times the speed of sound, approximately 1,600 m.p.h.

Johnson said the multipurpose jet cleared its primary hurdles with "one minor exception." He said several minor stability tests could not be performed because at one point the one engine developed a slightly high temperature and erratic fuel flow.

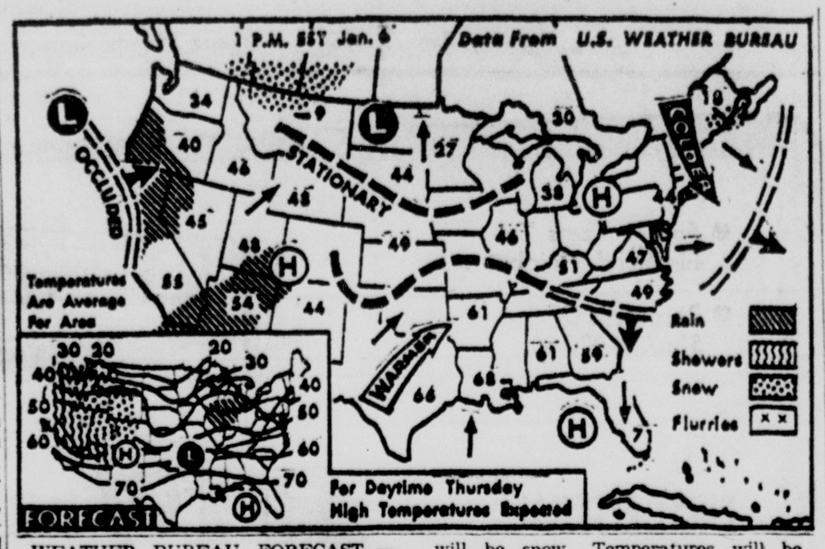
On its maiden flight the TFX pilots experienced trouble with the flaps. This was corrected the next day by General Dynamics engineers.

The second flight was 24 days ahead of the Defense Department's deadline. Frank W. Davis, president of General Dynamics' Forth Worth operation, said the TFX contract was the first to include an incentive and penalty clause. It was learned unofficially that the incentive bonus to General Dynamics will exceed $800,000.

House Burglarized Near Highway 83

James Fredereecksen, 8495 E. Arapahoe St. reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday that his house on Highway 83 had been broken into.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Stone said a $20 clock and an electric heater and some canned goods worth a total of $30 had been taken. Entry was made by forcing the back door.



WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain is expected Thursday in the northern part of the country from the Pacific coast to the Great Lakes. In higher altitudes and the upper Great Lakes, it will be snow. LBJ Seeks to Eliminate Part of Gold Backing bank reserves. It is this legal percentage that Johnson favors repealing.

The Federal Reserve Board, which enjoys a large measure of independence, now has the power to reduce or eliminate the 25 per cent gold requirement on both currency and reserves for a two-week period. It can keep renewing this action indefinitely.

However, most of Johnson's monetary advisers advocate a request to Congress as a more orderly method.

The ratio of gold to currency and reserves has gone down in recent years for two reasons: a steady, moderate expansion of the money supply to keep pace with a growing economy, and a decline in the gold stock due to a deficit in the international balance of payments.

The ratio was 27.9 per cent on Nov. 30 compared to 30.3 per cent a year earlier and much higher ratios several years ago.

"It is obvious that something will have to be done," one authority said. "Even if our gold stock remains stable, we will need more money to take care of our domestic needs."

U.S. Gold Reserve Loss May Reach Danger Point

ers would like that, too. The Soviet Union, which produces a lot — believed to rank next to South Africa — also would gain by an increase in the official price.

The U.S. Treasury, which once held $24 billion in gold, now is holding on tight as it can to the $15.5 billion left it after several years of gold losses to foreign governments turning in surplus U.S. dollars. Their holdings are still building up because our international payments run a deficit each year. In 1963 better than $2 billion more went overseas than returned.

Foreign governments and their national banks hold some $12 billion short-term dollar commitments they could turn in. Other foreign banks, traders and investors have about $10 billion in dollar short-term liabilities, some of which they might turn in to their central banks.

Of its $15.5 billion in gold, the U.S. Treasury must mark $13.6 billion as legal backing for Federal Reserve notes totaling $35 billion, and for commercial bank deposits in Federal Reserve banks of around $19 billion.

Increasingly of late, as the Treasury squirms to protect the $1.9 billion of gold still free of such legal restrictions — the $1.9 billion it could use if other governments turn in dollars for gold — talk has been heard of eliminating the backing for the commercial bank deposits and even of reducing the 25 per cent gold backing required for Federal Reserve notes.

Treasury gold holdings now represent 27.7 per cent of this currency and bank deposits. A year ago the gold hoard was 29.5 per cent, and two years ago 32.2 per cent, of the money supply that must be backed.

By eliminating the backing for bank deposits, the Treasury would have $6.7 billion, instead of $1.9 billion, to meet any demands of other nations for gold in return for their dollars.

circling the earth, the Saturn 4B's engine will be started and its 200,000 pounds of thrust will fling the spacecraft toward the moon.

"We need to know how the fuel acts in a weightless condition," Lee said. "The only way we can do that is to send it into space.

"To keep hydrogen and oxygen in liquid form, the temperature must be 423 degrees below zero.

"We expect venting — leaks with the liquid changing to gas. We need to know how the venting affects the rocket's course and how much we can trade off in insulation weight for more fuel."

The Saturn 1 family of rockets has been one of the brighter spots in the U.S. space picture. The 1.5 million-pound thrust rocket has been fired seven times without mishap. The Saturn 1B is an advanced and more powerful model.

Lee said the unmanned earth orbital test of the LEM replacing the third manned mission was scheduled for 1967.

Rusk to Study Mob Attacks on U.S. Embassies

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, indicated they favor Symington's amendment.

In the House, where similar moves are under way, Rusk repeated after briefing the Foreign Affairs Committee on the international situation that "we expect respect" overseas.

There have been 31 recorded cases of damage to U.S. buildings abroad since Johnson took office. The State Department study is aimed at finding practical ways to discourage the attacks and steps that might be taken after they do occur.

The usual procedure is to issue a protest to the offending government and demand compensation.

Some administration strategists are apprehensive that Congress may wind up with legislation aimed at foreign indignities that would be too tough and rigid to apply in changing foreign situations.

The White House announced Wednesday that the President's request for foreign aid funds for the coming year, expected to total more than $3.3 billion, will be sent to Congress in a special message a week from today. Both the United Arab Republic and Indonesia, where U.S. libraries were sacked, have been getting U.S. assistance.

Bids Asked for PO Trash Removal

Bids are being solicited for trash removal from the Colorado Springs Main Post Office building, and from all stations. All bids must be submitted by noon Jan. 15, Don Rhodes reported.

Trash will have to be removed from the main building, and from the Parcel Post Annex, the North End Station, the Knob Hill Station, the West End Station and the Security Branch. The contractor will have to supply trash removal trucks.

Additional information may be acquired from Assistant Postmaster A. J. Onufrock, Room 104, Main Post Office Building.

Street to Be Closed To Install Sewer

The 00 block of West Cache la Poudre Street between Cascade Avenue and Mesa Road will be closed to all through traffic starting at 8 a.m. Friday.

City Traffic Engineer Don Smith said the street would be closed while Benbow Plumbing and Heating Company is installing a sewer line to serve new buildings at Colorado College.

Local conditions and the weather will determine how long the street will be closed, Smith said, but he estimated it would take a week to 10 days to complete the utility installation.

Robert D. Skaer Died Today

Robert D. Skaer, 45, 1952 Woodburn St. died at his home early this morning, the sheriff's department reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Don Fahnerkrug, Mrs. Skaer said her husband got out of bed and went into the bathroom. She then heard a noise and when she went in found him on the floor.

The report stated Mr. Skaer had a heart condition for which he was being treated and that this was the possible cause of death. The body was taken to the Law Mortuary.

and then, while the engine was idling slowly, pulled the chock from the rear wheel and began to climb into the plane. He stepped onto the low wing, but slipped and fell to the pavement. The plane started to move slowly and Dennison attempted to grab hold of the tail to stop it.

As he grabbed hold, the rear wheel and elevator ran over him, but caused no serious injury. The plane continued for another 40 feet and struck a Cessna 140, parked on the ramp. The collision caused an estimated $200 damage to the front of Dennison's plane and in his words, "several hundred dollars" damage to the wing of parked craft. The owner of the Cessna is still unknown to Dennison.

The major says that everything happened so fast he does not know when he sustained the cut — whether it was from the fall or the tail section. He is now at home recuperating from the head injury and some "aches and pains."

Dennison is a veteran of 16 years service in the Air Force. He is assigned to the Command Post at Air Defense Command Headquarters in the Chidlaw Building.

Swollen Rivers Recede, Rains End in California

buses and dozens of cars were marooned on 7,200-foot-high Donner Summit Wednesday night as a howling blizzard reduced visibility to zero.

Authorities said the road would remain closed for the night and possibly through today.

The California Highway Patrol said each of the buses carried about 40 passengers. It was impossible to tell how many cars and trucks were stalled on the major route across the mountain —Interstate 80.

Lt. O. P. Ledford said vehicles bogged down in the storm included three highway patrol cars.

"Visibility in the whole area is absolutely zero," he said.

Snow depths were estimated at five feet at Truckee and eight feet at Tahoe City. Both communities lie just on the California side of the mountains.

Ski resorts were suffering from too much snow. At Heavenly Valley ski area, on the south shore of Lake Tahoe, Annette R. Saltus, 43, of San Francisco, fell beneath a snow removal tractor Wednesday and was killed.

As Northern California relaxed from its latest flood threat, the four other Western states that shared the ordeal of 40 Christmas week flood deaths and a billion dollars property damage, continued their dig-out. The weather appeared to be cooperating.

Throughout the rest of the Far West, typical winter forecasts — low temperature and plenty of snow — were recorded.

In Northern California, near the mighty Eel River about 250 miles north of San Francisco, flood victims returned to the grim business of salvaging what they could from the tons of muck that clog their former homesites.

Mariner Spacecraft Continues Journey

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Remember Mariner?

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Mariner 4 spacecraft is still up there — 70 million miles along on its 325-million-mile flight to Mars.

It has now spent 40 days in space, headed toward a July 14 fly-by at Mars. Laboratory spokesmen said Wednesday that all systems are operating normally, including the transmitter which is expected to relay to earth the first close-up television pictures of the planet.

Restaurant Owner Attacked and Robbed

Don Emig, 4102 Tumbleweed Dr., was attacked and robbed of $88 by seven men Wednesday night, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien, Emig owns the El Taco Restaurant at 2727 N. Nevada Ave. and he had left the restaurant after midnight to go into the parking lot for his car the men attacked him. They also stole his cigarette lighter, Holien said.

Britain, France Go Ahead With Super Airplane

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government intends to go ahead with the British-French project to build the Concorde supersonic airliner, informed sources said today.

But Britain intends to insist that a close eye be kept on the cost of the project, estimated at about $840 million.

The sources said at least two Concorde prototypes, and possibly as many as six, will be built. The work will be shared by the British Aircraft Corp. and France's Sud Aviation.

The reprieve for the plane was decided upon at a Cabinet meeting Wednesday. The government had felt misgivings about continuing the expensive program in the face of Britain's economic difficulties.

The Daily Express said the decision to proceed constitutes "a big success for Gen. de Gaulle and the French aviation industry."

The sources said the British government decided to go ahead after it became apparent that there was no hope of bringing the United States into the project.

The British government also reportedly feared that should it back out of the project, the French would go to the International Court of Justice in The Hague with a claim that Britain had broken a binding contract and owed France a penalty. This could have amounted to as much as $560 million, it was said.

Thailand Says Reds Step Up Activity

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Subversive Communist activity along Thailand's northeastern border with Laos has been stepped up, with emphasis on radio propaganda, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

The foreign minister told a news conference the government had "noticed more activities" by a clandestine radio station which beams programs in the Thai language into the northeast, a poor, underdeveloped area. He said more Communist activity has been observed along the Mekong River border with Laos.

Legislator Says Tax Hikes Will Exceed Previous Cuts

property tax has expired, which will cost the state about $5.5 million yearly. But changes were made in the reporting of income taxes last year which will cost taxpayers about the same amount.

In the 1962 general election, voters passed a constitutional amendment calling for a simplification in the income tax reporting system.

The income tax cuts of 1963 still are on the books and will give taxpayers an $8 million break yearly until changed.

Taylor said all the tax cut gains would be lost with new tax hikes.

Wenke called for an increase in the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent per dollar, a hike in the cigarette tax from 3 to 5 cents per pack and a jump in the state gasoline tax from 6 cents per gallon to 7 cents.

The three plans would raise about $43 million a year.

The money was needed, Wenke said, mainly to provide more state aid for schools, which in turn would allow a cut in local property taxes paid for school support.

Taylor said he bitterly opposed the original cigarette tax and would not support any increase in it. He said he could support an increase in the sales tax "only as a last resort."

He said he had not had enough time to determine whether an increase in the gasoline tax was necessary.

The Senate Democrat said the Legislature should give some consideration to raising any needed money from the income tax, which was hiked by ex-Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols and lowered by Republicans when they took office.

Taylor said he needed more time to study the state's fiscal problems before predicting how new money should be raised. He did say he was opposed to any new state property tax.

He also said taxes should be raised in areas "less painful" than excise taxes. He said these taxes hit low income groups the hardest.

Taylor said his sweepstakes would be a painless and voluntary task.

"No one has to pay it," he said.

The Senate leader said Democrats first must find out what Love's recommendations are and then draw up alternatives.

He also said he had "grave doubts" that property taxes would be lowered even with more state aid to schools because school districts were so hard pressed for money.

Under the Taylor proposal, the sweepstakes would be run by the State Racing Commission. Sweepstakes tickets would cost $3, with prizes ranging up to possibly $100,000.

LBJ Plans to 'Write Off' Viet Nam, Reports Declare

One contingency plan the President has not yet acted on provides for the bombing of Chinese Communist nuclear production facilities, on the theory this action would end Peking's atomic threat the next five to seven years.

None of these "looking tough" bombing plans, according to aides of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are designed to bring victory in South Viet Nam or begin a rollback of Communism in Southeast Asia.

Instead, the operations are "more political than military," serving as a cover for U.S. withdrawal, and as a lever on Hanoi and Peking to join in a negotiated settlement to end the fighting in South Viet Nam.

According to his closest congressional friends, this momentous disengagement decision is tied closely to President Johnson's almost blind belief that he can work out "compromises and adjustments" with Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders without damaging U.S. prestige or weakening its vital defenses.

This presidential "frame of mind," carefully cultivated by McGeorge Bundy, his chief foreign policy adviser, now dominates all U.S. dealings with world Communist leaders and its handling of Red-instigated crises in Asia and Africa.

Not even the Communists' contemptuous rejections of the President's repeated secret soundings to negotiate a settlement in South Viet Nam have caused him to change this controversial approach.

Vic Damone Pays Up Child Support

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Vic Damone's attorney says the singer is now paid up on child support payments owed his ex-wife, actress Pier Angeli, for care of their son, Perry, 9.

Damone wrote a $1,000 check which he turned over Wednesday to Miss Angeli's attorney in Santa Monica Superior Court, where the singer and actress are staging a custody battle over the boy.

It was testified that at times Damone was as much as $15,500 behind in $500 monthly support payments ordered after their 1959 divorce. He claimed earlier he withheld the payments because he was denied visitation rights.

Both Damone, 35, and Miss Angeli, 32, have remarried. He has temporary custody of the boy.

Red Tape May Delay Plan for Cobblestones

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — The little town of Solvang, a quaint Danish community full of Old World charm and good food, wants to enhance its atmosphere by paving some streets with cobblestones.

That these are precast cobblestones doesn't bother anybody. But the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors so far has taken a dim view of the proposal for other reasons.

"Wouldn't the stones make for pedestrian accidents, especially to women in high heels?" asked one supervisor at a hearing Wednesday.

Board member Daniel C. Grant commented: "This is nonsense. Cobblestones have been used in Europe for years, and I understand that even American communities, like San Pedro (Calif.) are using them."

When the board asked its counsel, Robert K. Cutler, for an opinion, he shook his head and said: "Only a court and jury in a specific case could decide."

Thus were the cobblestones laid on the table and covered with red tape. Action is still pending.

LBJ Seeks to Stop Explosion Of Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — In careful but clear language, President Johnson has given new impetus to the U.S. government's role in the struggle to contain the explosive growth of the world's population.

The President did it with one sentence in his State of the Union message Monday night.

He said: "I will seek new ways to use our knowledge to help deal with the explosion in world population and the growing scarcity in world resources."

As far as could be determined it was the first time a president had used a major address to comment on the scope of the problem and the need to solve it.

The late President John F. Kennedy, at a news conference on April 24, 1963, said the United States should support making information about the reproductive cycle available to the rest of the world. He also endorsed studies in the fields of reproduction and fertility.

Johnson didn't mention birth control, but this inevitably is entangled in any significant effort to limit population growth.

In developing areas of the world, it is frequently a battle just to expand food production fast enough to keep up with the population growth.

The State Department is already offering training and research assistance to underdeveloped countries trying to meet problems of population growth by aiding governments and responsible private agencies in training specialists.

Special attention is being given to Latin America. State Department officials say one member of each U.S. mission there has been designated to deal with governments and other agencies dealing with the population problem.

On the domestic front, federal funds have been used for a number of years to subsidize birth control clinics and family planning through state and local health programs.

A federal grant of $1,462,718 is being used by New York City health officials to provide birth control advice and materials in connection with a complete maternal health program at five clinics operated for the city by cooperating hospitals.

Expansion of Viet War Is Interrupted

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Embassy declared today that plans to extend the war against the Communist Viet Cong have been interrupted by the military purge Dec. 20 of the High National Council.

However, the statement said that U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor was not demanding that the Vietnamese accept any particular formula for resolving the political crisis caused by the military move.

An embassy spokesman said the statement was made "in order to correct misapprehensions which have appeared in the press as to the attitude of the U.S. government to the current crisis."

Some local papers have suggested that the United States is demanding the issue be resolved immediately. U.S. sources said the American mission is prepared to let the Vietnamese handle the problem in their own way, the sooner the better, but that no pressure was being put on them by the United States.

Some Road Projects Are Already Begun

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Highway Department said today work was begun in 1964 on some aspect of 178 road projects representing a total investment of $81,622,965.

These included 146 construction projects covering 745 miles of road and costing $71,564,721. The rest were engineering or rights-of-way projects.

The department said 143 construction projects were completed in 1964 at a total cost of more than $52.2 million.

Voting Realignment Ordered in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) The Wisconsin Supreme Court appears to have established a national pattern in ordering realignment of county boards on a "one man, one vote principle."

The court ruled in a unanimous decision Tuesday that an 1849 law under which county board members are elected violates federal and state constitutions because it denies equal representation.

The legislature was given until next Nov. 1 to change the law, under which a supervisor is elected from each town, village and city ward. The ruling did not affect Milwaukee and Menominee counties which are covered by different statues.

The average motel has 100 units.

HOUSES COLLAPSE

ALGIERS (UPI) — Another strong earthquake brought weakened houses crashing down Wednesday in the already ravaged mountain town of M'sila 120 miles southeast of here.

The number of families in the United States has increased by about 10 million in the last 15 years.

LBJ Seeks to Stop Explosion Of Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — In careful but clear language, President Johnson has given new impetus to the U.S. government's role in the struggle to contain the explosive growth of the world's population.

The President did it with one sentence in his State of the Union message Monday night.

He said: "I will seek new ways to use our knowledge to help deal with the explosion in world population and the growing scarcity in world resources."

As far as could be determined it was the first time a president had used a major address to comment on the scope of the problem and the need to solve it.

The late President John F. Kennedy, at a news conference on April 24, 1963, said the United States should support making information about the reproductive cycle available to the rest of the world. He also endorsed studies in the fields of reproduction and fertility.

Johnson didn't mention birth control, but this inevitably is entangled in any significant effort to limit population growth.

In developing areas of the world, it is frequently a battle just to expand food production fast enough to keep up with the population growth.

The State Department is already offering training and research assistance to underdeveloped countries trying to meet problems of population growth by aiding governments and responsible private agencies in training specialists.

Special attention is being given to Latin America. State Department officials say one member of each U.S. mission there has been designated to deal with governments and other agencies dealing with the population problem.

On the domestic front, federal funds have been used for a number of years to subsidize birth control clinics and family planning through state and local health programs.

A federal grant of $1,462,718 is being used by New York City health officials to provide birth control advice and materials in connection with a complete maternal health program at five clinics operated for the city by cooperating hospitals.

Last year 5.3 million autos were "junked," compared with 4.2 million in 1960. (ibid)

New Delhi Plans Strict Rationing

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Strict rationing of essential foodstuffs will begin next month for New Delhi's 3 million people, an official spokesman said today.

The rationing is the result of the acute food crisis through which this nation of 480 million people has been passing during the past few months.

Rationing of sugar, wheat and rice is already in force in Madras and Calcutta.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Since my husband is in the service, we are continually faced with the problem of how to get acquainted with new neighbors. (This also happens to civilians whose jobs entail many transfers.) Maybe your readers would be interested in knowing how I solve this.

As each new family moves into the block, I bake a pie and send it over by the children.

This gives the lady of the house that much-desired dessert when it's so unhandy to fix one.

It also gives her a good excuse to come over (to return the pie plate) if she is interested in getting acquainted, without making me feel like I'm being a pushy neighbor.

Why not try it? Lasting friendships can be made quickly . . . and the most you can lose is your pie plate"! —Mrs. C.

Now arent' you a cutie pie? I sure think so.

Wish you were in my neighborhood. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The suggestion about threading elastic through the bottom hem of a sheet to help keep it in place on a bed is wonderful, but why "sew" the elastic at both ends?

Why not just sew one end, then leave the safety pin attached to the elastic and pin in place at the "other" end of the hem?

When it is time to launder the sheet, you could just unpin it. Let the elastic slip back into ths hem (with the pin still attached) and you would have a smooth sheet to hang on the clothes line. —Dorothy Wege

Dorothy, that is really a smooth idea. Also, the sheets will dry faster, won't they? You are blessed, my dear. —Heloise

---

Dear Heloise:

Mommies, help your little miss when she dresses her doll, by tying a small plastic bag over ths doll's head and hair. Use a large rubber band to secure the plastic bag.

This saves the doll's hair from being mauled.

I make doll clothes and do try them on — that's how I learned. — Marie Rogers

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I like to keep in touch with all my friends who have moved away, and keeping a list of their birthdays helps me.

I buy cards ahead of time, writing the date on which the card is to be mailed in the right hand corner (the stamp will cover it later). So far this hint probably isn't new but here is the catch. . .

To entice my friend to reply, I write a note that hints she is a year older than she really is.

I am always happy to have her letter of correction, because it usually contains all the news I WISHED to hear! . . .! ! ! —Jan Walbron

Dear Heloise:

A week or so ugo, after baking an apple pie (frozen in a pliable aluminum tin), it collapsed in the oven when I was removing it.

I had two pot holders but the pan just folded up and apples and juice ran all over my clean oven.

Since then, when baking the pies in the aluminum pans, I place the pie pan in a larger, FIRM pan first and I can take THAT out with no spills. —Mrs. Brooks Booth

Dear Heloise:

I removed the ring from the top of a baking powder can to give a sharp cutting edge, then punched holes in the bottom of the can (with an ice pick) to give air spaces.

I use this handy gadget to cut boiled potatoes for hash browns, to chop boiled eggs as fine or coarse as I wish for sandwiches or salad, to cut shelled nuts, and for many other uses. It's just wonderful. — Mrs. H. J. Coquenguiot

Alice Smith Is Head of Relief Corps

Mrs. Alice Smith was installed president of the Women's Relief Corps at a meeting held Jan. 5 at the IOOF Hall, 128 N. Nevada Ave.

Mrs. Sylvia Eisenhauer from California was the installing officer.

Other new officers installed at the meeting were as follows:

The Woman's Relief Corps is said to be the oldest patriotic women's organization in the country, having been founded in 1883. Flags were unfurled at New Year, and the Corps' motto, "Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty," was emphasized.

Moscow Digs Out of Heavy Snowfall

About 2,000 workers were clearing main streets, loading the snow which fell Wednesday into 2,000 trucks which dumped their loads into the Moscow River.

The newspaper Soviet Russia said it would take about 10 days of round-the-clock work to clear the main streets.

Monday Bridge Club Lists Scores

The Monthly Master Point game of the Monday Afternoon Duplicate Bridge Club was played Jan. 4 with forty-four players using the Mitchell system.

The winners in the North-South position were: first, Mrs. A. R. Falb and Mrs. C. B. Baggs, 66.5 per cent; second, Mrs. K. L. Matchett and Mrs. H. Shewmaker, 61.1 per cent; third, Mrs. H. A. Kortemeyer and Mrs. R. Klein, 54.3 per cent; and fourth, Mrs. J. L. Landers and Mrs. R. A. Blake 53.1 per cent.

The winners East - West were: first, Mrs. C. B. Lindsey and Mrs. D. R. Swanson, 62.5 per cent; second, F. H. Cook and M. E. Meier, 60.6 per cent; third, Mrs. J. P. Roetzel and Mrs. M. B. Servatius, 55.9 per cent; and fourth, Mrs. O. R. Lewis and Larry Wolfe, 55.4 per cent.

This club meets at 1:15 p.m. each Monday in the Divine Redeemer school cafeteria and invites anyone interested to play. For inofrmation call Mrs. A. R. Falb 633-6986 or Mrs. C. B. Baggs 633-2306.

Dry curries take to "saucy" accompaniments. Curried fried chicken, for example, tastes delightful with a relish of diced fresh orange, minced red onion and green pepper folded into sour cream.

PANELISTS—A discussion of the role of women in education will be given by the American Association of University Women at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Fine Arts Center. Pictured are three members who will participate, from left: Dr. Jean Henschel, panelist; Mrs. Orville Suhre, moderator; and Mrs. Paul Bechtol, panelist.

'Women Differ' to Be Subject of AAUW Panel

"Women Differ" is the title of the AAUW program to be given at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Fine Arts Center. The moderator will be Mrs. Odville Suhre, and panel members include Mrs. Paul Bechtol and Dr. Jean Henschel.

Mrs. Suhde is the Dean of Girls at Washington Irving Junior High School, Education Area Representative for AAUW, and on the Colorado State Board of the Colorado Association of Women Deans and Counselors. She received her BA at Williams Jewell College and her MA in Education Pschology and Guidance at Colorado State College.

Mrs. Bechtol is the Administrative Assistant at the University of Colorado Center and works with the Adult Education Program. She earned her B.S. degree nursing at the University of Colorado and is active in civic and community affairs.

Dr. Henschel has researched in the area of continuing education for women, served as a conference leader in the statewide Utah Conference for Women, and met in a private interview with Gov. Clyde of Utah concerning this area. She received a BA from Wyoming University, an MFA from Utah U., a Certificate of Achievement from Heidelberg University, Germany and an Educational Degree in Administration from Utah University. Mrs. Henschel, formerly an art consultant for Binney and Smith of New York, designed the audio visual aids to be used in the discussion.

Mrs. Suhre, who was one of the AAUW representatives at the conference conducted by the Women's Center at the University of Colorado, will give a brief review of the conference theme "Colorado Women, Their Education and Future."

Mrs. Bechtol will talk on Personal Enrichment and Professional Advancement Courses available to women in this area.

Dr. Henschel will discuss the latest research on women and give statistics on their work and continuing education.

There will be a discussion period following the talks and during this time AAUW members and guests may ask questions of the panelists.

The director announced the monthly party for next week. Bridge players are invited to play duplicate on Monday evenings. If you wish a partner or further information call Mrs. E. H. Suhrke, 633-9457, or Mrs. W. M. Godfrey, 634-4675.

Duke of Windsor Returns to New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The Duke of Windsor, back in his New York apartment less than a month after undergoing major surgery, says he feels fine, but he's not ready to resume his social life.

"Social activity? Oh, not for a while," said the former British king in reply to a newsman's question at the airport Wednesday.

The 70-year-old duke and the duchess flew home from Houston, Tex., where he underwent abdominal surgery Dec. 16. A section of the duke's aorta, which had ballooned to the size of a grapefruit, was replaced with a synthetic tube.

Some good cooks like to add an egg to baking-powder biscuit dough; if you try this, you'll need less milk than is usually called for.

Equal quantities of lemon juice and olive oil plus crushed garlic make an excellent marinade for lobster tails that are to be grilled.

Mrs. Johnson Wears Size 10, Designer Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer John Moore, who gave Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson final fittings for her inaugural wardrobe, said she "has a nice little size 10 figure and absolutely no problems," the New York Herald Tribune said today.

"She really is a very small woman, much smaller than you realize," Moore said.

Mrs. Johnson flew into New York Tuesday morning and flew back to Washington in the afternoon.

African Unity Efforts Far From Encouraging

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI)—Efforts toward African unity are far from encouraging in the new year.

Emotional pressures, weak regimes, economic troubles and racial strife all have contributed to weakening the frail structure of the Organization for African Unity.

The Congo troubles have added to the tensions in the African continent, with no immediate solutions in sight.

The Congo rebellion was preceded by one in Zanzibar last year. In both cases Communist stirrings have played their part, but Africa's own divisions are an integral part of everything happening there today.

Rivalries which the Organization for African Unity was intended to remove have not only reappeared, some have been deepened.

Some of the French speaking states have shifted from the moderates to the militants. They include the Republic of the Congo (Brazzaville) Burundi and Dahomey, according to expert assessments. Even compromise - seeking Ethiopia has moved toward a harder line.

The moderates include Ivory Coast and Malagassy.

Troubles in Zanzibar and more recently in the Sudan have deepened other controversial aspects, such as differences between Arab and non - Arab Africa.

It is against this background that rivaling Sino - Soviet interests are seeking to win a foothold or widen already existing footholds in the continent.

Having failed so far to push the Communist creed to any important degree in Africa, both Moscow and Peking are seeking to push their political interests by exploiting African national movements.

Of the two Communist giants, Red China has been making bigger inroads into the African scene.

One of the objectives of Pan-African unity has been to form a group strong enough to keep Africa out of the cold war. There are in fact already signs that Africans, whose mistrust and anger have been directed primarily against colonialism and "imperialism," are getting disenchanged with the performance of communism, as reflected by the Sino-Soviet rivalry.

But there is no indication that either Peking or Moscow intends to ease up their campaigns of infiltration of Africa —and the broad divisions in the continent itself encourage them.

Cutback in Electric Rates Is Approved

DENVER (UPI) A minor cutback in commercial electric rates of the Public Service Co. of Colorado was approved Monday by the state Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

PUC Chairman Henry Zarlengo said the reduction would total about $850,000 with rates becoming effective with billings starting Feb. 1. The rate reduction was made due to a 2 per cent reduction in the federal income rate for corporations.

The reduction is the second in the past 10 months. The Public Service Co. reduced its rates last April 1 for residential electric customers.

MISCONCEPTIONS

Some women experience all the symptoms of pregnancy even though conception has not occurred. Menstruation ceases, the breasts and abdomen enlarge, and morning sickness ensues. Nine months later, labor pains come on and these women go to the hospital. But there is no delivery.

False pregnancy (pseudocyesis) is no newfangled condition. Four centuries before Christ was born,, Hippocrates described 12 cases. Through the years many instances have been recorded, including that of Mary Tudor, the 16th century English queen.

The vast majority of these women are married and childless. They usually have emotional problems, including a strong desire to be like their friends who have families. Many are mentally unsound and there is something to the statement, "They are pregnant in the head."

The illusion usually begins when menstrual irregularities arise — usually complete cessation or scant periods. The abdomen enlarges but not — as once thought — because of gas. Apparently the pelvic and breast tissues swell following changes in the endocrine glands. Typical morning nausea is encountered but these women seem to eat more; at least, the gain in weight is greater than occurs in normal pregnancy. Fetal movements usually are traced to churning intestines.

Many of these women refuse examination and the family doctor may make the diagnosis on the basis of symptoms. But even if he tells them there is no pregnancy, they won't believe him. These patients often can be helped with psychotherapy. Unless they develop insight into the emotional aspects of pseudocyesis, they may become "pregnant" again and again.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

CROUPY YOUNGSTERS

C. H. writes: Both my young children suffer from croup every winter. Is there any way to prevent these attacks?

REPLY

The best preventive is moisture in the bedroom. This can be provided with pans of water over the radiators or with a commercial humidifier. Meanwhile, keep their resistance high by insisting on adequate rest, a normal diet, and out-of-door activity.

SEIZURES AND BLACKOUTS

L. T. writes: Are all seizures and blackouts epilepsy?

REPLY

No, because other neurological conditions can mimic epilepsy. In addition, there are several forms of epilepsy: Convulsions occur in the grand mal type whereas the blackout in petit mal is only mementary. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on epilepsy.

FAILING HEART

G. B. E. writes: Can a woman of 70 with congestive heart failure be cared for at home?

REPLY

Yes. In this condition, the heart is not functioning properly and the individual develops dropsy. This is treated with a low salt diet, digitalis, and one of the diuretics. Oxygen may be needed. All of these can be used at home, under direction.

THIRD TIME 'ROUND

V. N. writes: Is it true that the third pregnancy is the most difficult?

REPLY

No. Each pregnancy may be smooth or rough, depending upon the physical condition of the mother and whether complications develop. By the third, the woman should know what to expect and most of the difficulties stem from having two other smaller children and a husband to care for at home.

Marina Oswald Goes to School In Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The pretty University of Michigan coed wore a babushka-like scarf around her head and a blue skirt and sweater as she met with newsmen for a brief chat.

Although she resembled most of the thousands of other coeds on the Ann Arbor campus, the student was Marina Oswald, 23, widow of the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The Russian-born Mrs. Oswald began classes Tuesday in the university's English Language Institute, which specializes in teaching the language to foreigners.

Although she said she is under contract to write a book about her life with Lee Harvey Oswald and has been instructed to grant no interviews, Mrs. Oswald talked with reporters and posed briefly for photographers.

Asked if she planned to date while at the university, Mrs. Oswald was puzzled by the question. She was told it meant "going out socially."

"I hope to meet fellow students while here," she replied cautiously in heavily accented English.

Mrs. Oswald said she planned to return to Dallas at the end of her eight-week course.

"I've been treated well in Dallas, and the people there are warm," she said.

The young widow's proficiency in English — despite the fact that she has only been in this country since 1962 — surprised Prof. J. C. Cattford, director of the institute.

"I'm sure Mrs. Oswald could conquer Engilsh in any school in America," he said. "The reason she is here is that we can teach her more in a shorter period of time."

Mrs. Oswald's visit to Michigan is being sponsored by the First Presbyterian church of Ann Arbor.

During her chat with newsmen, she appeared disturbed by the presence of a man dressed in a blue uniform who was standing in the room.

"Are you a policeman?" she asked nervously.

"No, ma'am — just an employe of NBC" — the National Broadcasting Company — was the reply.

Turning to leave, she asked a reporter: "Please tell a good story — I'm just like everybody else, and I've had more than enough."

Mrs. Johnson Wears Size 10, Designer Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer John Moore, who gave Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson final fittings for her inaugural wardrobe, said she "has a nice little size 10 figure and absolutely no problems," the New York Herald Tribune said today.

"She really is a very small woman, much smaller than you realize," Moore said.

Mrs. Johnson flew into New York Tuesday morning and flew back to Washington in the afternoon.

African Unity Efforts Far From Encouraging

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI)—Efforts toward African unity are far from encouraging in the new year.

Emotional pressures, weak regimes, economic troubles and racial strife all have contributed to weakening the frail structure of the Organization for African Unity.

The Congo troubles have added to the tensions in the African continent, with no immediate solutions in sight.

The Congo rebellion was preceded by one in Zanzibar last year. In both cases Communist stirrings have played their part, but Africa's own divisions are an integral part of everything happening there today.

Rivalries which the Organization for African Unity was intended to remove have not only reappeared, some have been deepened.

Some of the French speaking states have shifted from the moderates to the militants. They include the Republic of the Congo (Brazzaville) Burundi and Dahomey, according to expert assessments. Even compromise - seeking Ethiopia has moved toward a harder line.

The moderates include Ivory Coast and Malagassy.

Troubles in Zanzibar and more recently in the Sudan have deepened other controversial aspects, such as differences between Arab and non - Arab Africa.

It is against this background that rivaling Sino - Soviet interests are seeking to win a foothold or widen already existing footholds in the continent.

Having failed so far to push the Communist creed to any important degree in Africa, both Moscow and Peking are seeking to push their political interests by exploiting African national movements.

Of the two Communist giants, Red China has been making bigger inroads into the African scene.

One of the objectives of Pan-African unity has been to form a group strong enough to keep Africa out of the cold war. There are in fact already signs that Africans, whose mistrust and anger have been directed primarily against colonialism and "imperialism," are getting disenchanged with the performance of communism, as reflected by the Sino-Soviet rivalry.

But there is no indication that either Peking or Moscow intends to ease up their campaigns of infiltration of Africa —and the broad divisions in the continent itself encourage them.

Cutback in Electric Rates Is Approved

DENVER (UPI) A minor cutback in commercial electric rates of the Public Service Co. of Colorado was approved Monday by the state Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

PUC Chairman Henry Zarlengo said the reduction would total about $850,000 with rates becoming effective with billings starting Feb. 1. The rate reduction was made due to a 2 per cent reduction in the federal income rate for corporations.

The reduction is the second in the past 10 months. The Public Service Co. reduced its rates last April 1 for residential electric customers.

Home Council Still Will Not Collect Taxes

NOME, Alaska (AP) People in this predominately Eskimo city of about 2,800 on the Bering Sea just south of the Arctic Circle haven't been asked to pay personal and property taxes much lately.

They didn't pay in 1961 or 1963. So a grand jury recently investigated, strongly criticized the Nome Common Council and recommended it get busy and send out tax statements so people could pay up.

But, as editor Al Phelps of the Nome Nugget tells it in a story today:

"After the grand jury had publicly released its findings and recommendations, the council held a hurried meeting and voted themselves, the mayor and the city clerk a vote of confidence."

Councilmen then voted unanimously to declare a moratorium on 1963 taxes, Phelps said.

"One councilman said he had been on the council 18 years and had been criticized on numerous occasions, but never had he been scored for not collecting taxes," Phelps wrote.

"His feelings were hurt," he said.

The jury said there were many needs for tax money in Nome. None of the city's first-class streets are paved. Water still is delivered in trucks and sewage is being disposed of in buckets although a sewage disposal system is under construction.

The city has no parks, no recreational facilities for youth and no city - owned library. Phelps said the jury pointed out. It also needs a new high school.

"The reason given for not collecting taxes in the past is that Nome did not need the money," Phelps continued.

However, the grand jury report did spur the council into deciding to collect taxes for 1964, Phelps wrote.

"The tax-hating public probably will keep the mayor and the council in office as long as they choose to run," Phelps added.

Former Cardinals Gather in Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Three former members of the St. Louis Cardinals had a lot in common when they met in the lobby of the hotel housing baseball's winter meetings.

They were ex-Cardinal pitcher and coach Howie Pollet, ex-Card third base coach Vern Benson and ex-Card manager Solly Hemus.

Pollet will coach the Houston pitchers next season, Benson will alternate as a Yankee third base coach with Frank Crosetti, and Hemus will be back coaching Cleveland.

For years Houston was a farm team in the St. Louis chain. Pollet is a local resident. So is ex-Card manager Johnny Keane, new Yankee manager.

Dominick Proposes Congress Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., reported today he will co-sponsor a resolution setting up a committee to study congressional reform.

The resolution was offered formally today by Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla. Under its terms, six members of both parties would be appointed from each house to study congressional operations and make recommendations on improving them.

Must Overcome Peace Corpsmen Image at Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Peace Corps volunteer's toughest burden is not the hardship he bears in a distant jungle but overcoming his self sacrificing and adventurous "image" back home.

Another rough problem is readjusting to the comfort and complexities of life back home after he leaves the Peace Corps.

Those are among points in the third annual Peace Corps report to Congress, made public today by the White House. It covers the 1964 fiscal year which ended June 30.

The report notes that in less than four years the corps had "grown from a fledgling contingent of 120 volunteers in three countries to a robust force" of about 10,000 in 46 countries by the end of 1964.

The report asserts:

"The realities of Peace Corps life, in any case, have little in common with the stereotype which persist in the minds of the American public. Otherwise known as "the Peace Corps image," the stereotype is a sweaty but wholesome American youth, motivated by visions of self-sacrifice and adventure, who is living in a mud hut in a jungle, somewhere across the seas.

"This image is the real volunteer's nemesis; it is almost his greatest burden. He is quickly susceptible to it when he comes to the Peace Corps, and, often, as quickly disabused of it when he goes abroad."

It also was pointed out that the returned volunteers were alike in welcoming the half-forgotten pleasures of 'privacy and anonymity after two years in the goldfish bowl.' But most of all they were alike in resisting adjustment to anything they regarded as routine or unexceptional; in their restlessness, and in the search for challenge and continuing involvement that they brought home with them.

"For many volunteers, this resulted in a painful period of indecision about the future..."

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1965 SECTION B

Police Chief Cites Rise In Crime

There were 5,168 offenses known to the Colorado Springs police department last year, which was more than a 20 per cent increase over the 4,292 offenses in 1963.

In the more serious crimes category, there were 2,666 such offenses last year and 2,126 the year before, with robberies just about doubling and aggravated assaults tripling in the last year.

Also, Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick reported, there were 511 burglaries last year, an increase of 105 over the preceding year. Auto thefts jumped from 177 to 228 and larceny cases under $50 increased from 1,261 in 1963 to 1,630 last year.

Other offenses known to police last year included the following: accidental injury, 272 cases; deaths, 66; arson, 17; assault, 87; disorderly conduct, 33; malicious mischief, 1,090.

Suicide, 12; attempted suicide 57; indecent exposure, 30; molesting, 21; forgery, 22; confidence game, 17; bad checks, 33; assault and battery, 20; and miscellaneous, 134.

Eighty three juveniles were handled by the Juvenile Bureau of the police department last month, which compares with only 47 for the same period in 1963.

Only 13 of the juveniles were girls while 70 were boys ranging in age from six through 17.

Chief McKissick said 46 of the juveniles were referred to the juvenile court and probation office, five were referred to the state juvenile parole officer, two were held for other agencies and 30 were released to their parents.

Offenses cleared by arrest involved such things as assault, auto theft, burglary, child molest, grand larceny, larceny of motor vehicle, malicious mischief and petit larceny.

Six People Fined in Justice Court

Six people were fined by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Wednesday for various misdemeanors.

Early Lee Crowder, 47, 120 S. Corona St. pleaded guilty to shop lifting and paid a $25 fine and costs.

Crowder, 47, 120 S. Corona St. stole goods valued at $2.29 from Simms Inc. Dec. 16.

Theodore Jones, 26, 616 S. Institute St. also pleaded guilty to shoplifting and was fined $25 and costs.

According to the information, Jones took merchandise valued at 84 cents from the May D and F store Dec. 12.

Betty Ruth Adams, 29, 824 S. El Paso St. and Cynthia Lund, 24, 223 S. Prospect St. were both charged with stealing goods worth $12.95 from the J. C. Penney store, Dec. 24.

They were fined $25 each and costs.

Ronald C. Weber, 18, 1231 Kingsley Dr. received a $25 fine with costs for petty larceny.

The defendant was accused of stealing $1.40 in cash from Bill C. Page Dec. 27. The judge also gave him a suspended sentence of 30 days in county jail.

Wolf D. Huebner, 29, 2307 E. Platte Ave. received a 90 days suspended sentence in jail for short check and was fined $25 and costs.

Huebner was alleged to have written a $50 short check with intent to defraud the Ryder Truck Rental Nov. 20.

Memorial Services For Mrs. Cummings

Memorial services for Mrs. Lucile S. Cummings, 3108 N. Institute St., who died Tuesday at the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, will be held at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 2500 Palmer Park Blvd., at 11 a.m. Friday.

Mrs. Cummings was born in Denver April 25, 1906. She resided in Colorado Springs until 1953, when she went to Alaska. She resided in Fairbanks until the spring of 1963, when she returned to Colorado Springs.

She is survived by her husband, I. W. Cummings; five daughters, Mrs. Irene Christie, Mrs. Frances Huber, Mrs. Patricia Porter and Mrs. Carol Chaddon, all of Alaska; a son, Leonard Sherman, who is stationed at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver; a daughter, Larissa, Colorado Springs and 11 grandchildren.

James La Haye Has Goals As New Representative

La Haye was elected last fall from the 19th Representative District, defeating James A. Braden, who was finishing his second term.

The Democrats have not yet organized themselves for control of the House. They became the majority party in the House after the general election in November, and while they elected a speaker at a caucus last year they have not yet dished out committee assignments.

La Haye has indicated that he would like to serve on at least three committees, but won't know until later this month about those choices.

He hopes to serve on education, finance, and labor relations and management committees.

He is especially interested in the education committee.

"I have several ideas about education, but of course I'll have to wait and see what bills are introduced as a result of the interim committee work," he said.

One field of education he is particularly interested in is that of proprietary schools (privately owned schools.)

"These schools teach almost anything. Some of them, of course, are fine schools, but some of them are not so fine.

"Some send in agents to sell correspondence courses and technical training, collect their money and then don't deliver — they simply fail to produce and the customer is out his money," La Haye said.

At this time there is no regulation of those schools, he explained.

"I propose to get some kind of control over them to prevent that," he said.

"There is another problem about which I have heard a lot — I've gotten lots of mail about it, and that is the cemeteries, mortuaries and funeral directors problem," he said.

"There seems to be a lot of problems connected with the pre-need programs that mortuaries now are selling, and there just is no legislation concerning the problems. I have gotten copies of laws in effect in Nevada, New Mexico and Kansas for study and comparison, as I understand that at least two bills may be introduced into the House," La Haye stated.

Also, he has studied the Nebraska laws, and tends to agree with that approach, he said. There, funeral homes are not allowed to sell pre-need contracts, but instead may sell burial insurance.

"Burial insurance is just like any other term insurance. It pays off in cash and the person who gets the money can spend it any place he wants, but that is not the way it is with these pre-need plans," said La Haye.

La Haye said that salesmen for pre-need burial plans promise to give the purchaser a $1,200 funeral when the time comes for $600. "We know no one can do that," he said.

Further, La Haye said, the pre-need plans have another way of making money for the funeral homes.

"First they get the interest on the money that the buyer invests. Then there is the handling charge. Suppose that you sign a $600 pre-need contract and then after you have paid in $300 you decide that you want out of the deal. So you want your money back. They charge you a 25 per cent handling charge, and the 25 per cent is on the $600, so you get $150 back," he said.

Further, La Haye said, there is at this time about $4,000,000 in trust in the state in pre-need contracts and 70 per cent of that is controlled by three mortuaries in Denver.

With that amount of financing the big firms can soon get a monopoly across the state, La Haye stated.

He pledged to work against such programs. "I'm in favor of insurance, but not the pre-need plans," he stated.

Another special issue with which he is concerned is that of psychiatric nursing, La Haye said.

"I understand that a bill will be introduced to require qualified nurses to handle psychiatric patients, and I'm in accord with that," La Haye said.

City Cigaret Tax Grossed Less in 1964

This was slightly above the $132,505 collected during 1963.

O'Leary said December collections amounted to $9,181, which was less than the $10,186 grossed during December 1963.

Driver Fined On Two Counts

Max Aladino Gallegos, 21, 726 S. Corona St. was fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Wednesday for hit and run and having no operator's license Friday.

Roy Leon Sportsman, 35, 1516 E. Fountain St., careless driving Dec. 19, $5 and costs.

Robert W. Crook, 22, 1615 W. Cheyenne Rd., 54 miles per hour in a 45 zone Dec. 26, $10 and costs.

Phyllis P. Radford, 17, 11 Grand Ave., 54 miles per hour in a 45 zone Dec. 26, $10 and costs.

Margaret Hunter Donner, 62, 50 Marland Rd., not yielding the right of way Saturday, $10 and costs.

Mary S. Morton, 31, 1919 S. Hancock Ave., no valid operator's license Nov. 16, $3 and costs.

Wesley J. Novak, 66, 3907 Mariposa St., no lamp or flag on projecting load Dec. 26, $5 and costs.

Luther W. Bullock, 31, Ft. Carson, allowing an unauthorized person to drive Dec. 26, $5 and costs.

Judges Grant Eight Divorces

Eight divorces have been given in District Court since Dec. 29.

The following were granted by Judge G. Russell Miller: Gladys Marie Tamlin from Robert Vernon Tamlin, Hannelore Tollison from James H. Tollison, both Dec. 30; George M. Ringhoff from Jean C. Ringhoff, Charles F. Johnson Jr., from Valerieta Johnson, Janice K. Miles from Raymond N. Miles, and Frederick J. Doyle from Irmgard A. Doyle, all Jan. 4.

Judge Hunter D. Hardeman gave a divorce to Ronald W. Jackson from Victoria Ann Jackson, Dec. 29, and Judge William M. Calvert another to Florence E. Hanagan from Leo Hanagan, Dec. 31.

Medical Group Holds Meeting

The Colorado Springs-El Paso County Medical Self Help Steering Committee met Tuesday in the Acacia Hotel.

Plans were presented to extend the program.

Dr. V. E. Wohlauer and Paul E. Nay of the Colorado Health Department present the Danny Thomas film, "If Disaster Strikes," and outlined the progress in the state with the Medical Self Help Program.

Attending the meeting were: Dr. Paul J. Rossler, chairman of the El Paso County Disaster Committee; John Brown, City-County Health Department; Col. Harry C. Green Jr., Air Force Academy Hospital; M. A. Pfotenhauer, Ft. Carson Hospital; Miss Mary Kohli, El Paso County home demonstration agent; Mrs. Georgia Bains, assistant executive director of the local Red Cross chapter; Mrs. Warren Walker, president of Whittier PTA; Miss Ruth Gaston, president of the Pikes Peak District Nurses Association; Robert Figgie, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; and members of the Medical Self Help Committee — Col. Charles W. Willoughby, local county-city civil defense director, Miss Frances Temple, Dr. Pauline Lynch.

Canon Man Honored On 96th Birthday

B. R. Lynch, 2301 Central Ave., Canon City, celebrated his 96th birthday Dec. 24. A retired farmer, Lynch was born in Madison County, Ark., in 1868 and came to Colorado in 1917. He has lived in Canon City since 1937, moving here from Baca County.

Lynch's wife, the former Anna Hammon, to whom he was married in 1896 in Madison County, died in Canon City in 1938. He makes his home with a daughter, Mrs. Lucille Ellis, while another daughter, Mrs. Bertha Rehmke lives at Thorp, Wash. Two other children, a daughter and a son, are deceased.

While a special birthday celebration was not held, the elderly gentleman was honored with a birthday cake, decorated with 96 candles, which had been prepared as a gift by his neighbor, Miss Joann Kochan.

Brinton's Aim in Assembly Is Special Education Work

One of El Paso County's new members in the state assembly goes there this week with an aim of doing some special work in education.

He is Don Brinton, one of two Democrats elected from this county to the Colorado House of Representatives in the general election last November. He won a close decision from Republican Paul V. Evans in the 21st Represenative District.

Both Brinton and Evans were making their first run for public office. Brinton is one of a number of past presidents of the Young Democratic organization to get further involved in political activity.

So far, the Democrats have not organized themselves for committee activity in the House. The Democrats won control of the House in the last election and now there are so many of them in that body that all of the assignments have not yet been made.

So Brinton does not know what jobs he will have. But he knows what he wants.

"I sent in a list of special committee assignments I would like to have. Naturally, I listed education, and I also offered to serve on the agriculture state affairs committees," he said.

Brinton is a native of Iowa, with his bachelor's degree from Iowa State Teacher's College (now Iowa State), and his Master's degree in political science from the State University of Iowa. He has 14 years of teaching experience, 13 of them with District 20. He will be on leave from the district while attending the coming session of the legislature which convenes at 10 a.m. on Jan. 6.

"One thing I plan to do is push a bill to outlaw the diploma mills in the state. Right now it is very easy for any one to issue diplomas," he said.

Brinton explained that the interim committee has written a tentative bill concerning that issue. "I am certainly going to be pushing that, in principle at least," he said.

Brinton believes that this county and this state have a great need for more educational facilities, and this will be his prime interest in the legislature.

"El Paso County and Colorado need the proper kind of industrial expansion, and to do this we need more education. The two go together," he explained, adding that he believes El Paso County can have a healthy and satisfactory growth based on the industry-education complex idea.

With that in mind, the plans to support improvement of the present educational facilities in the state and to push for more.

"I am going to push as hard as I can for a comprehesive law for the organization of a new junior college program in the state," he stated.

"We need an orderly program that would establish junior colleges where they are needed in some sort of priority to meet the growth of the college age population," Brinton stated.

He explained that he expects such a plan would be "typically American" and thus be a cross between special training and first years of college.

In the way of special training, Brinton forsees a program aimed to give students the kind of vocational training they would need to take jobs in modern industry—such as machine processing. This training would also be open to adults who wish to improve their education and training, as well as for the student just out of high school.

Adult education in this county at this time is split between the University of Colorado Extension Center and the high school program of District 20.

He concedes it would be quite an undertaking to get such a program underway in the state. "Of course we would not want to harm the present junior Colleges while establishing the new ones," he said.

To create such a state-wide program would among other things require competent teachers, and this would in turn call for a special teacher program.

"I think that we should do something like California has done and stipulate special junior college teaching certificates that would require at least master's degrees of the professors. Organizationally, Brinton would like to see junior colleges districts created possibly on county-wide or larger geographic basis. "It would depend on the needs of the area," he said.

As Brinton sees the organization, there would be locally-elected boards in direct control of the junior colleges as district boards now control the public schools.

These would come together at the state level under one junior college board that would be part of the state board of education, in Brinton's view.

"Now this would be quite an undertaking, and maybe we don't have the money. I doubt that the property tax could support such an undertaking. Basically, I'm in favor of supporting this through the income tax, as that is most fair of all taxes. It might be that there also would have to be some sale tax money for the program," Brinton said.

Should such a program of junior colleges be set up, the new schools probably would have first to operate in present public school buildings, leasing space. However, Brinton believes they should have their own physical plants just as the present junior colleges have.

He emphasized that he did not see an expanded junior college program as a replacement for the present four-year program in Colorado.

"True it would help take the heat off the other colleges, for it would provide a place where many students could get their first two years of education, and particularly it might be of help to minority groups for those students could live at home while getting the early years of college work," he explained.

The same economic factors also would help those in the special training programs, he added.

Registration For Symposium To End Jan. 11

Persons interested in attending the week-long symposium on The New Science at Colorado College Jan. 10-16, may register at the Rastall Center desk on campus or by writing Associate Dean Fred A. Sondermann at the college.

The $5 registration fee will be good for admission to some 50 programs scheduled during the week. Programs include lectures, panel discussions, seminars, movies and a play.

Dr. Sondermann, symposium director, said registration would remain open through Jan. 11.

More than 30 scientists and scholars from throughout the United States and Europe will come to Colorado Springs to take part in the examination of new developments in the sciences.

The events taking place during the symposium are outlined in a 16 page program. The program was mailed to students and their parents, alumni in the Pikes Peak area, and other friends of CC.

John Edgar Murphy Died at His Home

John Edgar Murphy, 727 E. Pikes Peak Ave., owner of Murphy Motors, died Tuesday at his home, of a heart attack. He had been ill but a short time. He was a member of the Church of Christ, Boulder and Weber Streets.

Mr. Murphy was born in Mississippi March 19, 1908. He moved to Childress County, Tex., at the age of one year and resided there until 1855, then came to Colorado Springs. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rachel J. Murphy, of Colorado Springs, four sons, Jack, John and Norman, of Colorado Springs, and James H. Murphy, Parkerburg, W. V.; two brothers, Tolbart Murphy, Colorado Springs, and James Murphy, Childress, Tex.; two sisters, Mrs. Pauline Buckley, Childress, and Mrs. Pearl Harill, Houston, Tex.; a stepmother, Mrs. Maude Murphy, Childress, and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Nolan Drawing Room. Brother Lynn Shelton will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

School Teacher Agrees To Attend Traffic Lecture

A Harrison High School teacher agreed Wednesday in Municipal Court to attend a traffic lecture Jan. 13 in the City Auditorium as an "emissary" and pass on its benefits to his students.

This was at Judge Allan Asher's suggestion when he found David Hoff, 26, 2054 N. Corona St., guilty of a speeding violation and fined him $15. The judge stipulated that the fine would be suspended if Hoff attends the lecture.

Hoff was cited Dec. 5 on East Costilla Street by Patrolman Garry Gilmore who testified he was driving 40 in the 30-mile zone.

Hoff said he had his mind on other matters, "which is not a good practice, I realize," and knowing his errors, slowed down and pulled over to the curb as Gilmore drove up.

As an industrial arts teacher at Harrison, Hoff agreed with the judge that his job is also concerned with safety, and willingly agreed to attend the lecture.

Deputy City Attorney Roger Hunt failed to prove drag racing charges against David Hartzler, 17, 2406 E. Willamette St., and David Egan., 23, 1815 E. Bijou St., and also failed to have a statement by Larry Neilson, a passenger in Hartzler's car, admitted into evidence.

The trial involved an accident Nov. 26 when Egan's car struck a car on Bennett Avenue, while Hartzler was driving back of him.

Neilson testified that Egan had the lead and kept it, and estimated both cars' speeds at "30, approximately, take or give."

When Hunt asked Neilson if he recalled making a statement to Patrolman Charles Jackson that both cars were going 40, Goodbar objected, claiming Hunt was trying to impeach his own witness.

Hunt denied this, maintaining that Neilson was an "adverse and hostile witness" as he was a friend of both defendants. Judge Asher upheld Goodbar's objection. Hunt had the statement marked, showed it to Neilson who identified it as a copy he had signed, and again offered it in evidence. Goodbar objected and again it was sustained. After Neilson told Hunt he had discussed the case with both defendants several times, the city attorney again offered the statement in evidence. Goodbar objected and Judge Asher again sustained.

Hunt requested the court to allow amendments to both summons to read reckless driving against Egan and careless driving against Hartzler. Goodbar would not consent and motioned for a directed verdict for his client. Judge Asher denied both motions.

He found Hartzler not guilty, and reduced the charge against Egan to careless driving, imposing a $35 fine.

Thomas Keene, 53, 521 Winnipeg Ave., was found guilty of disobeying a traffic signal although he maintained in 35 years of driving, he had never gone through a red light, had yet to scratch his first fender, and in 14 years had not received a ticket.

He was cited Nov. 27 by Patrolman Don Watts who testified he was facing east preparing to turn left from Platte onto Nevada Avenue when Keene, westbound, speeded up as the light changed to caution, and failed to clear the crosswalk as it turned red.

Watts said he pulled around The General, and when he stopped Keene, the man did not have his drivers license. He said he told Keene he would not issue a ticket for this, however; and added that a friend of Keene's came up and the man said, "Oh hell I'm the only one in Colorado Springs that ever went through a caution light."

Keene said he didn't say "hell," that he didn't use that kind of language. Claiming he never entered an intersection on a red light in his life, Keene maintained he had reached the "point of no return," and then cited his driving record.

Judge Asher ruled that anyone can stop when the caution light goes on if they are withing the speed limit. He fined Keene $15.

Rolf Sapp, 24, 522 Yellowstone Rd., was fined $50 on his guilty plea to a speeding charge, his third traffic violation in 1964. Half the fine was suspended if he attends the traffic lecture and has no further violations during this year.

Fines of $10 each were imposed on Richard Taylor, 21, Alton, Ill., and Johnnie Worthen, 24, Ft. Carson. Taylor pleaded guilty to improper lane usage and Worthen to leaving a vehicle unattended.

Judge Asher dismissed a riotous conduct charge against Leonard Espinosa, 42, 226 E. Fountain St., but fined the man $25 on his guilty plea to a drunk charge.

Two Injured Wednesday in Two-Car Mishap

Two persons were injured in a two - car accident Wednesday at Pikes Peak Avenue and El Paso Street, police reported.

Joseph E. Archuleta, 34, 626 E. Dale St., suffered multiple contusions to his chest. Charles R. Butts, 25, 21 S. Wahsatch St., had contusions and an injury to his left shoulder. Both men were taken to St. Francis Hospital by E & E Ambulance.

The accident occurred at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday when Butts, eastbound on Pikes Peak Avenue, collided with a car driven by Tony F. Abila, 43, who was southbound on El Paso Street. Police said that Abila was given a ticket for drivng under the influence of alcohol, according to the report.

Archuleta was a passenger in the Abila vehicle, riding in the right front seat at the time.

E. Merle Gwin Services Set

Funeral services for E. Merle Gwin, manager of the Ute Theater, who died Tuesday at a local hospital, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Law Drawing Room. Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Gwin is survived by his wife, Mrs. E. Aldeane Gwin, of Colorado Springs, four sons, Kenneth Gwin, Aurora, Colo.; Larry Gwin, San Diego, Calif., and Michael and Thomas Gwin, Colorado Springs; his mother, Mrs. Carrie Alwin, Washington, Kan.; a brother, Homer Gwin, California; a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Shumake, Pueblo.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1965 SECTION B

Police Chief Cites Rise In Crime

There were 5,168 offenses known to the Colorado Springs police department last year, which was more than a 20 per cent increase over the 4,292 offenses in 1963.

In the more serious crimes category, there were 2,666 such offenses last year and 2,126 the year before, with robberies just about doubling and aggravated assaults tripling in the last year.

Also, Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick reported, there were 511 burglaries last year, an increase of 105 over the preceding year. Auto thefts jumped from 177 to 228 and larceny cases under $50 increased from 1,261 in 1963 to 1,630 last year.

Other offenses known to police last year included the following: accidental injury, 272 cases; deaths, 66; arson, 17; assault, 87; disorderly conduct, 33; malicious mischief, 1,090.

Suicide, 12; attempted suicide 57; indecent exposure, 30; molesting, 21; forgery, 22; confidence game, 17; bad checks, 33; assault and battery, 20; and miscellaneous, 134.

Eighty three juveniles were handled by the Juvenile Bureau of the police department last month, which compares with only 47 for the same period in 1963.

Only 13 of the juveniles were girls while 70 were boys ranging in age from six through 17.

Chief McKissick said 46 of the juveniles were referred to the juvenile court and probation office, five were referred to the state juvenile parole officer, two were held for other agencies and 30 were released to their parents.

Offenses cleared by arrest involved such things as assault, auto theft, burglary, child molest, grand larceny, larceny of motor vehicle, malicious mischief and petit larceny.

Brinton's Aim in Assembly Is Special Education Work

One of El Paso County's new members in the state assembly goes there this week with an aim of doing some special work in education.

James La Haye Has Goals As New Representative

La Haye was elected last fall from the 19th Representative District, defeating James A. Braden, who was finishing his second term.

The Democrats have not yet organized themselves for control of the House. They became the majority party in the House after the general election in November, and while they elected a speaker at a caucus last year they have not yet dished out committee assignments.

La Haye has indicated that he would like to serve on at least three committees, but won't know until later this month about those choices.

He hopes to serve on education, finance, and labor relations and management committees.

He is especially interested in the education committee.

"I have several ideas about education, but of course I'll have to wait and see what bills are introduced as a result of the interim committee work," he said.

One field of education he is particularly interested in is that of proprietary schools (privately owned schools.)

"These schools teach almost anything. Some of them, of course, are fine schools, but some of them are not so fine.

"Some send in agents to sell correspondence courses and technical training, collect their money and then don't deliver — they simply fail to produce and the customer is out his money," La Haye said.

At this time there is no regulation of those schools, he explained.

"I propose to get some kind of control over them to prevent that," he said.

"There is another problem about which I have heard a lot — I've gotten lots of mail about it, and that is the cemeteries, mortuaries and funeral directors problem," he said.

"There seems to be a lot of problems connected with the pre-need programs that mortuaries now are selling, and there just is no legislation concerning the problems. I have gotten copies of laws in effect in Nevada, New Mexico and Kansas for study and comparison, as I understand that at least two bills may be introduced into the House," La Haye stated.

Also, he has studied the Nebraska laws, and tends to agree with that approach, he said. There, funeral homes are not allowed to sell pre-need contracts, but instead may sell burial insurance.

"Burial insurance is just like any other term insurance. It pays off in cash and the person who gets the money can spend it any place he wants, but that is not the way it is with these pre-need plans," said La Haye.

La Haye said that salesmen for pre-need burial plans promise to give the purchaser a $1,200 funeral when the time comes for $600. "We know no one can do that," he said.

Further, La Haye said, the pre-need plans have another way of making money for the funeral homes.

"First they get the interest on the money that the buyer invests. Then there is the handling charge. Suppose that you sign a $600 pre-need contract and then after you have paid in $300 you decide that you want out of the deal. So you want your money back. They charge you a 25 per cent handling charge, and the 25 per cent is on the $600, so you get $150 back," he said.

Further, La Haye said, there is at this time about $4,000,000 in trust in the state in pre-need contracts and 70 per cent of that is controlled by three mortuaries in Denver.

With that amount of financing the big firms can soon get a monopoly across the state, La Haye stated.

He pledged to work against such programs. "I'm in favor of insurance, but not the pre-need plans," he stated.

Another special issue with which he is concerned is that of psychiatric nursing, La Haye said.

"I understand that a bill will be introduced to require qualified nurses to handle psychiatric patients, and I'm in accord with that," La Haye said.

Medical Group Holds Meeting

The Colorado Springs-El Paso County Medical Self Help Steering Committee met Tuesday in the Acacia Hotel.

Plans were presented to extend the program.

Dr. V. E. Wohlauer and Paul E. Nay of the Colorado Health Department present the Danny Thomas film, "If Disaster Strikes," and outlined the progress in the state with the Medical Self Help Program.

Attending the meeting were: Dr. Paul J. Rossler, chairman of the El Paso County Disaster Committee; John Brown, City-County Health Department; Col. Harry C. Green Jr., Air Force Academy Hospital; M. A. Pfotenhauer, Ft. Carson Hospital; Miss Mary Kohli, El Paso County home demonstration agent; Mrs. Georgia Bains, assistant executive director of the local Red Cross chapter; Mrs. Warren Walker, president of Whittier PTA; Miss Ruth Gaston, president of the Pikes Peak District Nurses Association; Robert Figgie, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; and members of the Medical Self Help Committee — Col. Charles W. Willoughby, local county-city civil defense director, Miss Frances Temple, Dr. Pauline Lynch.

Canon Man Honored On 96th Birthday

B. R. Lynch, 2301 Central Ave., Canon City, celebrated his 96th birthday Dec. 24. A retired farmer, Lynch was born in Madison County, Ark., in 1868 and came to Colorado in 1917. He has lived in Canon City since 1937, moving here from Baca County.

Lynch's wife, the former Anna Hammon, to whom he was married in 1896 in Madison County, died in Canon City in 1938. He makes his home with a daughter, Mrs. Lucille Ellis, while another daughter, Mrs. Bertha Rehmke lives at Thorp, Wash. Two other children, a daughter and a son, are deceased.

While a special birthday celebration was not held, the elderly gentleman was honored with a birthday cake, decorated with 96 candles, which had been prepared as a gift by his neighbor, Miss Joann Kochan.

Rolf Sapp, 24, 522 Yellowstone Rd., was fined $50 on his guilty plea to a speeding charge, his third traffic violation in 1964. Half the fine was suspended if he attends the traffic lecture and has no further violations during this year.

Fines of $10 each were imposed on Richard Taylor, 21, Alton, Ill., and Johnnie Worthen, 24, Ft. Carson. Taylor pleaded guilty to improper lane usage and Worthen to leaving a vehicle unattended.

Judge Asher dismissed a riotous conduct charge against Leonard Espinosa, 42, 226 E. Fountain St., but fined the man $25 on his guilty plea to a drunk charge.

Six People Fined in Justice Court

Six people were fined by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Wednesday for various misdemeanors.

Early Lee Crowder, 47, 120 S. Corona St. pleaded guilty to shop lifting and paid a $25 fine and costs.

Crowder, 47, 120 S. Corona St. stole goods valued at $2.29 from Simms Inc. Dec. 16.

Theodore Jones, 26, 616 S. Institute St. also pleaded guilty to shoplifting and was fined $25 and costs.

According to the information, Jones took merchandise valued at 84 cents from the May D and F store Dec. 12.

Betty Ruth Adams, 29, 824 S. El Paso St. and Cynthia Lund, 24, 223 S. Prospect St. were both charged with stealing goods worth $12.95 from the J. C. Penney store, Dec. 24.

They were fined $25 each and costs.

Ronald C. Weber, 18, 1231 Kingsley Dr. received a $25 fine with costs for petty larceny.

The defendant was accused of stealing $1.40 in cash from Bill C. Page Dec. 27. The judge also gave him a suspended sentence of 30 days in county jail.

Wolf D. Huebner, 29, 2307 E. Platte Ave. received a 90 days suspended sentence in jail for short check and was fined $25 and costs.

Huebner was alleged to have written a $50 short check with intent to defraud the Ryder Truck Rental Nov. 20.

Memorial Services For Mrs. Cummings

Memorial services for Mrs. Lucile S. Cummings, 3108 N. Institute St., who died Tuesday at the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, will be held at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 2500 Palmer Park Blvd., at 11 a.m. Friday.

Mrs. Cummings was born in Denver April 25, 1906. She resided in Colorado Springs until 1953, when she went to Alaska. She resided in Fairbanks until the spring of 1963, when she returned to Colorado Springs.

She is survived by her husband, I. W. Cummings; five daughters, Mrs. Irene Christie, Mrs. Frances Huber, Mrs. Patricia Porter and Mrs. Carol Chaddon, all of Alaska; a son, Leonard Sherman, who is stationed at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver; a daughter, Larissa, Colorado Springs and 11 grandchildren.

City Cigaret Tax Grossed Less in 1964

This was slightly above the $132,505 collected during 1963.

O'Leary said December collections amounted to $9,181, which was less than the $10,186 grossed during December 1963.

Driver Fined On Two Counts

Max Aladino Gallegos, 21, 726 S. Corona St. was fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Wednesday for hit and run and having no operator's license Friday.

Roy Leon Sportsman, 35, 1516 E. Fountain St., careless driving Dec. 19, $5 and costs.

Robert W. Crook, 22, 1615 W. Cheyenne Rd., 54 miles per hour in a 45 zone Dec. 26, $10 and costs.

Phyllis P. Radford, 17, 11 Grand Ave., 54 miles per hour in a 45 zone Dec. 26, $10 and costs.

Margaret Hunter Donner, 62, 50 Marland Rd., not yielding the right of way Saturday, $10 and costs.

Mary S. Morton, 31, 1919 S. Hancock Ave., no valid operator's license Nov. 16, $3 and costs.

Wesley J. Novak, 66, 3907 Mariposa St., no lamp or flag on projecting load Dec. 26, $5 and costs.

Luther W. Bullock, 31, Ft. Carson, allowing an unauthorized person to drive Dec. 26, $5 and costs.

Judges Grant Eight Divorces

Eight divorces have been given in District Court since Dec. 29.

The following were granted by Judge G. Russell Miller: Gladys Marie Tamlin from Robert Vernon Tamlin, Hannelore Tollison from James H. Tollison, both Dec. 30; George M. Ringhoff from Jean C. Ringhoff, Charles F. Johnson Jr., from Valerieta Johnson, Janice K. Miles from Raymond N. Miles, and Frederick J. Doyle from Irmgard A. Doyle, all Jan. 4.

Judge Hunter D. Hardeman gave a divorce to Ronald W. Jackson from Victoria Ann Jackson, Dec. 29, and Judge William M. Calvert another to Florence E. Hanagan from Leo Hanagan, Dec. 31.

Ex-Gov. Stratton Charged With Tax Dodging

CHICAGO (UPI) — The government charged Wednesday that former Gov. William G. Stratton pocketed political contributions for his own uses and dodged paying federal income tax through "jigsaw puzzle" financial manipulations.

The defense said it would prove that the former "boy wonder" of Illinois Republican politics received voluntary contributions of a non-taxable nature and spent them "to keep his image in political life and to meet expenses far beyond his official salary."

Prosecutors began their efforts to convince a U.S. District Court jury of six men and six women that Stratton, 51, willfully evaded payment of $46,000 in taxes during the last four of his eight years in the governor's office.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Vincent Russo told the jury and Judge Hubert L. Will that the government would trace Stratton's financial affairs from 1949 to 1960 and prove through a "net worth process" that Stratton spent much more money than he reported as income.

Defense attorney William Barnett in his opening statement said Stratton admittedly "handled lots of money" but "every dime of taxable money was meticulously reported."

He said Stratton had to accept voluntary contributions to help him carry on as state and party head and to keep his pretty wife "a symbol of elegance."

"Surely Mrs. Stratton had to buy gowns in exclusive shops," Barnett said. ". . .Her appearance as a first lady required her to change clothes five or six times a day."

Dirksen to Renew Apportionment Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois planned today to renew the fight he lost last year to nullify the Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision.

The court ruled last June, in a 6-3 decision, that seats in both branches of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis.

A constitutional amendment being introduced by Dirksen, with bipartisan backing, would permit legislatures to have the membership of one house apportioned on factors other than population.

Dirksen's amendment this year differs from the one he offered last year in that it provides for the states to submit the proposed amendment to the people for ratification rather than have it passed on by the legislatures.

This change is designed to meet objections that malapportioned legislatures should not be allowed to act on the proposed amendment, which would require approval by three-fourths of the 50 states if approved by Congress.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — Considerable of the potential drama of President Johnson's State of the Union message was drained out of it in advance because of leaks over the last few weeks as to what he planned to say.

There was, for example, his intention to envision the Great Society. Then the word came out of Texas that he would emphasize prudent hopes of accomplishments through use of the so-called Johnson "consensus" technique.

None of these tips as to what his address would contain helped build up the size of his television and radio audience. They only emphasized the long - obvious approach of the President to legislative, domestic and world problems.

So the only suspense concerned the way he said what it was already known he planned to say. His locution, therefore, took on last-minute importance.

As a result, all the 11-th hour refurbishing of the President's address was aimed at making it "ring" with exactly the right tonal qualities, otherwise, Johnson might lose his audience before he had finished his address before a joint session of the new Congress.

The fact is, of course, that the President should never have allowed the leaks on his State of the Union speech. Once he had decided to break with tradition and make it at prime television time instead of at noon, as is customary, it would have been smart to keep the people guessing as to why he demanded the biggest audience possible.

HE PASSED UP CHANCES FOR SUSPENSE

Such an address before both the nation and Congress had suspenseful dramatic possibilities. Johnson could have kept his plans for the four-year term uncertain. Would he, for example, construe his November election landslide as a mandate to throw his weight around as FRD did after his significant sweep in 1936? Or did he intend to adhere to his own "let-us-reason-together" style, believing his own style of patient prudence.

This was advance notice enough that his State of the Union speech would not display a new Johnson image, just the same old one that the country has been living with and approved, in his opinion last November.

Both the speech and the President's inaugural address on Jan. 20 are aimed at emphasizing Johnson's determination to persist in sticking to his own style.

This style, the political historians agree, is most suited for a period of comparative normalcy, such as now exists, with the nation living generally high off the hog and with no world problem yet too hot to handle.

The President, it can be said, is most aware of this. And in this month of January he is most probably more popular than he is ever likely to be again while in the White House.

For this reason he is inclined to go easy and intends to do nothing to shake the country's confidence in him. Neither does he want to risk, at this stage, wearing out the good will of Congress.

He Is a Sipper—
Not a Gulper

As one friend of the President put it colloquially: "He is determined to be temperate in his use of his vast powers. He doesn't want to drink the whole bottle and pass out, but take a drink at a time and make it last."

This was to be apparent in the entire tone of his State of the Union speech. What is basically worrying the Administration is the problem of whether the economy can be kept in high gear beyond the first six months of this year.

In typical Johnson fasion studies are already being made to meet a possible economic downturn. These studies involve some priming, through public works, etc. In addition, of course, the present Johnson drive to cut excise taxes had the fundamental aim of keeping the economy rolling as at present.

The problems abroad, as referred to by the President tonight, are considered the kind that will be faced by the Administration for years hence. The U. S. has troubles in Viet Nam and the Congo and Cuba, for example, but Soviet Russia has similar troubles — in Eastern Europe, China and at home. But in the long run all the foreign affairs issues are bound to bog down Johnson popularity ratings at home. This is considered by the White House as a fact of political life that any incumbent President must accept.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — Considerable of the potential drama of President Johnson's State of the Union message was drained out of it in advance because of leaks over the last few weeks as to what he planned to say.

There was, for example, his intention to envision the Great Society. Then the word came out of Texas that he would emphasize prudent hopes of accomplishments through use of the so-called Johnson "consensus" technique.

None of these tips as to what his address would contain helped build up the size of his television and radio audience. They only emphasized the long - obvious approach of the President to legislative, domestic and world problems.

So the only suspense concerned the way he said what it was already known he planned to say. His locution, therefore, took on last-minute importance.

As a result, all the 11-th hour refurbishing of the President's address was aimed at making it "ring" with exactly the right tonal qualities, otherwise, Johnson might lose his audience before he had finished his address before a joint session of the new Congress.

The fact is, of course, that the President should never have allowed the leaks on his State of the Union speech. Once he had decided to break with tradition and make it at prime television time instead of at noon, as is customary, it would have been smart to keep the people guessing as to why he demanded the biggest audience possible.

HE PASSED UP CHANCES FOR SUSPENSE

Such an address before both the nation and Congress had suspenseful dramatic possibilities. Johnson could have kept his plans for the four-year term uncertain. Would he, for example, construe his November election landslide as a mandate to throw his weight around as FRD did after his significant sweep in 1936? Or did he intend to adhere to his own "let-us-reason-together" style, believing his own style of patient prudence.

This was advance notice enough that his State of the Union speech would not display a new Johnson image, just the same old one that the country has been living with and approved, in his opinion last November.

Both the speech and the President's inaugural address on Jan. 20 are aimed at emphasizing Johnson's determination to persist in sticking to his own style.

This style, the political historians agree, is most suited for a period of comparative normalcy, such as now exists, with the nation living generally high off the hog and with no world problem yet too hot to handle.

The President, it can be said, is most aware of this. And in this month of January he is most probably more popular than he is ever likely to be again while in the White House.

For this reason he is inclined to go easy and intends to do nothing to shake the country's confidence in him. Neither does he want to risk, at this stage, wearing out the good will of Congress.

He Is a Sipper—
Not a Gulper

As one friend of the President put it colloquially: "He is determined to be temperate in his use of his vast powers. He doesn't want to drink the whole bottle and pass out, but take a drink at a time and make it last."

This was to be apparent in the entire tone of his State of the Union speech. What is basically worrying the Administration is the problem of whether the economy can be kept in high gear beyond the first six months of this year.

In typical Johnson fasion studies are already being made to meet a possible economic downturn. These studies involve some priming, through public works, etc. In addition, of course, the present Johnson drive to cut excise taxes had the fundamental aim of keeping the economy rolling as at present.

The problems abroad, as referred to by the President tonight, are considered the kind that will be faced by the Administration for years hence. The U. S. has troubles in Viet Nam and the Congo and Cuba, for example, but Soviet Russia has similar troubles — in East-ern Europe, China and at home. But in the long run all the foreign affairs issues are bound to drag down Johnson popularity rating at home. This is considered by the White House as a part of political life that any incumbent President must accept.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Excuses, Excuses!

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a man for two years. We love each other very much. I am a widow with two small children and he is divorced with three small children. He doesn't want to get married again because of the way his wife treated him. (She was really rotten.) He needs someone in his home 24 hours a day. He has tried older women, but they are not good with the children. He wants to hire me as his housekeeper. My family says if I take the job it will ruin my reputation as everyone in town knows we go together. Please help me make the right decision as so many people could get hurt if I make the wrong one. —TO BE OR NOT TO BE

DEAR TO BE: You may love him, but if he really loved you he would not punish you for his wife's "rottenness." I am afraid that his "reason" for not marrying you is only an excuse. And a poor one at that. Let him hire a housekeeper and tell him when he makes you his Missus, you'll share his home.....

DEAR ABBY: My husband's father lives with us and he has a habit that is causing my nerves to fray. The old man drinks right from the refrigerator jug. I've caught him doing this time and again and I have told him it was very unsanitary, I didn't like it, and I wish he'd quit it! It's like talking to the wall.

I've asked my husband please to tell Grampa to cut it out, but he says he doesn't want to hurt the old man's feelings and I should skip it. Grampa is 78 and ought to know better. Is there a solution? —FRAYED NERVES

DEAR FRAYED: Get the old man his own personal refrigerator jug and label it "GRAND DAD." And let him drink right from the jug to his heart's content. Stash the "family" jug in the rear of the refrigerator and alert all members.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is my problem. She is always picking on me. She doesn't like the way I wear my hair or any of my clothes. She is always hollering about my posture and telling me to go wash my face or it will break out. Every time I eat something fattening she yells, "You don't NEED that!" She is forever griping that my room is a mess (Sometimes it is, but I always get around to cleaning it up.) I just can't seem to please her. Please help me. —FIFTEEN AND PICKED ON

DEAR FIFTEEN: Yours sounds like the typical wail of a teen-ager, and your mother's reaction is also typical. Just refrain from doing the things you know will irritate your mother, keep your room tidy, and stay out of her sight.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this to try to keep some other girl from making the same mistake I made. I started going with a boy in high school. We were very much in love and had such wonderful plans. We were going to get married when we were through college. We even decided how many children we wanted and what kind of furniture we were going to have. Eventually he persuaded me to forget my moral standards because we were going to get married anyway and it would make the waiting easier. He went away to college and I got a job when we graduated. It has been three years now and when he came home for Christmas vacation he told me he wanted a girl with stronger "moral convictions." I don't think I have to say anymore. Thank you. —TWENTY-ONE AND FOOLISH"

LEGAL NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE OF SPECIAL SCHOOL BOND ELECTION
SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 8
IN THE COUNTY OF EL PASO
STATE OF COLORADO
TO BE HELD
JANUARY 19, 1965

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to law and requisite action of the Board of Education of School District No. 8 (herein sometimes designated the "District" or the "School District"), in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, a special school bond election has been called and will be held in the District on Tuesday, January 19, 1965.

For the election, the District shall constitute one election precinct. The boundaries of said election precinct shall be coincident with that of the District and the voting place in said election precinct is the high school, Fountain, Colorado.

At the election there shall be submitted to the registered qualified taxpaying electors of the District the following question:

Shall the Board of Education of School District No. 8, in the County of El Paso, and State of Colorado, contract a bonded indebtedness of not exceeding $600,000.00, for the purpose of erecting and furnishing school buildings within and for said District, said bonds to be sold and issued in one or more series, to mature serially within a period commencing not later than five years from the date thereof and extending not more than twenty years from such date, and not more than twenty-five years from the date of this election, and to bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum?

The polls will be opened at the hour of seven a.m. on said day and will be kept open and will be closed at the hour of seven p.m. of said day at the above-designated voting place in the election precinct established by the Board of Education of the District. No vote for or against said question shall be permitted unless the person offering to vote is a registered qualified taxpaying elector of the District. Any registered qualified taxpaying elector desiring to vote at such bond election shall sign a written oath that he has, during the twelve months next preceding said election, paid an ad valorem school tax upon property situated within said School District and owned by said person. A registered qualified taxpaying elector is any person who is at least twenty-one years of age, a citizen of the United States, who has resided in the State for twelve months, in the County for ninety days, in the School District thirty days, and in the school election precinct fifteen days immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote, who, during the twelve months next preceding said election, has paid an ad valorem school tax upon property situated within the School District and owned by said person and who has registered in the manner required by law for the election of school directors.

Absentee voting will be permitted in the manner authorized by law. A registered qualified taxpaying elector may file or may cause to be filed an application, which may be in the form of a letter, for a paper ballot not earlier than twenty (20) days nor later than three (3) days before the election, such application stating his residence address and the fact that he will be absent from the District on the day of the election (or otherwise stating the reasons provided by law warranting the casting of an absentee ballot). Such filing shall be with the Secretary of the Board of the District, at the School Administration Office, 515 North Santa Fe, Fountain, Colorado.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Board of Education of School District No. 8, in the County of El Paso, State of Colorado, has caused this notice to be given as required by law this 24th day of November, 1964.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♡	Pass	3 ♡
Pass	4 ♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

East worked overtime to build up a trump trick for his partner in defending against South's four heart contract. His efforts were duly rewarded when West eventually scored the setting trick with the seven of hearts.

East opened the bidding with one spade and South overcalled with two hearts. North's raise to three hearts was well chosen even though he had only two trumps. He has 10 high card points so that his holding merits one push to game, and the jack-ten of hearts is considered to be adequate support for a suit in which his partner chose to overcall at the level of two.

West opened the nine of spades, East cashed the king and ace, felling declarer's queen, and then he continued with the jack. South ruffed with the nine of hearts and West discarded a diamond.

The dummy was entered with the queen of clubs, and the jack of hearts was led. To East it appeared that the trump suit offered the only prospect for developing an additional trick and, in order to retain his control of hearts, he covered the jack with the queen. South put up the king and, when it held the trick, he continued with a small heart to the ten.

East was in with the ace of hearts and, now that North was void of trumps, a forth round of spades applied the finishing touch. If South ruffed with the five of hearts, West would overruff with the seven. If declarer played the eight of hearts, however, it would establish West's trump as the master card in the suit.

Observe that, if East releases the ace of hearts on the first lead, he cannot profitably continue the assault on declarer's trump holding, for the ten of hearts is still in dummy at that moment to handle a spade continuation.

Two Thieves Get Lesson in Manners

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two thieves fled Wednesday with $50 from a downtown women's hat shop but not before they got a lesson in manners from an Englishwoman.

Barbara Bates of Yorkshire, here to attend her son's wedding Saturday, said: "I was shocked. They were so bold. Walked up and stuck their hands in the register. I told them that wasn't the proper thing to do."

LEGAL NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE OF SPECIAL SCHOOL BOND ELECTION
SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 8
IN THE COUNTY OF EL PASO
STATE OF COLORADO
TO BE HELD
JANUARY 19, 1965

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to law and requisite action of the Board of Education of School District No. 8 (herein sometimes designated the "District" or the "School District"), in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, a special school bond election has been called and will be held in the District on Tuesday, January 19, 1965.

For the election, the District shall constitute one election precinct. The boundaries of said election precinct shall be coincident with that of the District and the voting place in said election precinct is the high school, Fountain, Colorado.

At the election there shall be submitted to the registered qualified taxpaying electors of the District the following question:

Shall the Board of Education of School District No. 8, in the County of El Paso, and State of Colorado, contract a bonded indebtedness of not exceeding $600,000.00, for the purpose of erecting and furnishing school buildings within and for said District, said bonds to be sold and issued in one or more series, to mature serially within a period commencing not later than five years from the date thereof and extending not more than twenty years from such date, and not more than twenty-five years from the date of this election, and to bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum?

The polls will be opened at the hour of seven a.m. on said day and will be kept open and will be closed at the hour of seven p.m. of said day at the above-designated voting place in the election precinct established by the Board of Education of the District. No vote for or against said question shall be permitted unless the person offering to vote is a registered qualified taxpaying elector of the District. Any registered qualified taxpaying elector desiring to vote at such bond election shall sign a written oath that he has, during the twelve months next preceding said election, paid an ad valorem school tax upon property situated within said School District and owned by said person. A registered qualified taxpaying elector is any person who is at least twenty-one years of age, a citizen of the United States, who has resided in the State for twelve months, in the County for ninety days, in the School District thirty days, and in the school election precinct fifteen days immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote, who, during the twelve months next preceding said election, has paid an ad valorem school tax upon property situated within the School District and owned by said person and who has registered in the manner required by law for the election of school directors.

Absentee voting will be permitted in the manner authorized by law. A registered qualified taxpaying elector may file or may cause to be filed an application, which may be in the form of a letter, for a paper ballot not earlier than twenty (20) days nor later than three (3) days before the election, such application stating his residence address and the fact that he will be absent from the District on the day of the election (or otherwise stating the reasons provided by law warranting the casting of an absentee ballot). Such filing shall be with the Secretary of the Board of the District, at the School Administration Office, 315 North Santa Fe, Fountain, Colorado.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Board of Education of School District No. 8, in the County of El Paso, State of Colorado, has caused this notice to be given as required by law this 24th day of November, 1964.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♡	Pass	3 ♡
Pass	4 ♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

East worked overtime to build up a trump trick for his partner in defending against South's four heart contract. His efforts were duly rewarded when West eventually scored the setting trick with the seven of hearts.

East opened the bidding with one spade and South overcalled with two hearts. North's raise to three hearts was well chosen even though he had only two trumps. He has 10 high card points so that his holding merits one push to game, and the jack-ten of hearts is considered to be adequate support for a suit in which his partner chose to overcall at the level of two.

West opened the nine of spades, East cashed the king and ace, felling declarer's queen, and then he continued with the jack. South ruffed with the nine of hearts and West discarded a diamond.

The dummy was entered with the queen of clubs, and the jack of hearts was led. To East it appeared that the trump suit offered the only prospect for developing an additional trick and, in order to retain his control of hearts, he covered the jack with the queen. South put up the king and, when it held the trick, he continued with a small heart to the ten.

East was in with the ace of hearts and, now that North was void of trumps, a forth round of spades applied the finishing touch. If South ruffed with the five of hearts, West would overruff with the seven. If declarer played the eight of hearts, however, it would establish West's trump as the master card in the suit.

Observe that, if East releases the ace of hearts on the first lead, he cannot profitably continue the assault on declarer's trump holding, for the ten of hearts is still in dummy at that moment to handle a spade continuation.

Two Thieves Get Lesson in Manners

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two thieves fled Wednesday with $50 from a downtown women's hat shop but not before they got a lesson in manners from an Englishwoman.

Barbara Bates of Yorkshire, here to attend her son's wedding Saturday, said: "I was shocked. They were so bold. Walked up and stuck their hands in the register. I told them that wasn't the proper thing to do."

To start the new year season of basketball games, which will be Friday night with our team traveling to Cotopaxi. This is a league game.

On Saturday night the Buena Vista team will match our team on the home court, game starting& at 7 .m. This is the first time that these two teams have not been in the West Central League.

Miss Keitha Perry, daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Perry of Colorado Springs, formerly of Woodland, was united in marriage to Roy Moody, brother of Mrs. Glen Davis, at the Friends Church in Colorado Springs on Dec. 20. Those attending from Woodland were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Davis, Bart and Glennetta, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, Tom and Alan, Mrs. Bud Doiel, Bonnie and Patty, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reed of Divide.

A New Year's day dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Phillips, honoring Mrs. Phillips' mother's birthday. Those present were the guest of honor's husband, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood of Canon City, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wood and children of Idaho Springs.

Mrs. Jerry Crumbaker is a patient at the Air Force Academy Hospital where she will be confined for two or three more months with short leaves on occasion.

Vernon Derby of Grand Junction called on his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derby on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Hammer and family of Veguita, N.M. have been house guests this past week of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Davis and children, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Hammer, and the Fay Roberts. They called on several friends and relatives in the area before leaving on Tuesday.

The Manitou Park Grange Home Economics group met Dec. 30 at the home of Mrs. Glenda Kellers.

Mrs. Edith Atwell thanked the group that helped with the dinner served to the Progressive Dames Home Demonstration Club.

It was reported that the plaque has been received to place at the nurses' room in the new school in memory of Mrs. Al Burns.

The women donated $100 to the Grange Building Fund.

Those present were Mrs. Evelyn Roberts, Mrs. Irene Denny, Mrs. Edith Atwell, Mrs. Dorothy Trupen, Mrs. Bess Inman, Miss Zelma Worden and Miss Jean Rae Ernsperger.

Youth night was held at the regular monthly meeting Saturday of the Manitou Park Grange with the youth of the organization taking over the offices for the meeting. Acting as master was Harland Inman; overseer was Kathy Turpen; acting chaplain was Connie Hammer; acting steward was Kevin Morgan; Alan Hunt, acting assistant steward; Judy Hammer, acting secretary; Colleen Turpen, acting lady assistant steward; Kathy Hunt, acting ceres; Trina Morgan, acting flora; Marcy Morgan, acting pomona.

Master Clyde Denny gave the obligation to four new members; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howe and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Williams.

A gift of $100 was accepted from the home economics group to be used in the building fund.

Clyde Denny reported that agriculture is America's biggest business, and that the American farmer feeds himself and 37 others.

Discussion followed on community service projects for this two - year period. Several ideas were aired, such as getting Woodland Park on the mileage signs along the highways west and southeast of town.

Achievement night will be held April 3.

Dorothy Hunt, Grange lecturer, is planning an entry in the state Grange play contest. Any Granger interested in taking part should contact her 687-9069, or Dorothy Turpen, 987-9139. A planning meeting will be held soon.

There will be a conference of all Granges in the Pikes Peak Fomona at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 5. This will be held in Colorado Springs with more details later.

Stronger Fair Housing Law Sought in State

DENVER (AP) — The Denver chapter of the Committee on Racial Equality (CORE) asked Gov. John A. Love today to recommend to the General Assembly stronger provisions for Colorado's fair housing law than those of his study committee.

Love said the primary points asked by CORE were provisions making the law apply to occupied dwellings and for minor criminal penalties for violators.

Love's committee recommended that the law apply only to non-occupied homes. That would tend to limit it to new housing. The committee did not recommend criminal penalties.

Love said he told the CORE people only that he would consider the recommendations.

CORE members two years ago staged a sit down demonstration in Gov. Love's office to urge him to include revision of the housing law in the business for the 1964 General Assembly session. He didn't do so but, nazned a committee to draft recommended provisions.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Terry is developing an inferiority complex that makes him dislike school. His parents are partly to blame for they let him persist in childish speech habits, thinking he sounded "c u t e." Send for the booklet below and teach your child correct enunciation.

CASE U-47u: Terry B., aged 6, is a brilliant boy.

But he is withdrawing from his classmates," his worried parents informed me.

"Ever since kindergarten, he has had trouble pronouncing certain words.

"For example, he can't say 'rooster' for he always calls it 'wooster.'

"And he also lisps, for he will ask: 'Ith it time for thupper?'

U-47?

"Dr. Crane, we may be at fault, for we thought it was cute to hear him make these errors, but now he is developing a complex over the fact his playmates tease him.

"So how can we correct his speech quickly?"

For 5 years I served as Research Psychologist with the National Research Council and the Carnegie Institution, helping correct speech and hearing disorders.

For 3 of those years I was stationed at Gallaudet College for the Deaf at Washington, D. C.

The other 2 years I was at Smith College, but working on the children at the Clarke School for the Deaf.

At Gallaudet, the students were of college age. They used finger spelling in the classroom, but resorted to the sign language for their social conversation on the campus.

For sign language is much faster than the laborious finger speeling via the manual alphabet illustrated in your dictionary.

At Clarke School the teachers deal with youngsters of grade school age and teach them how to hold their lips, tongue and teeth in order to speak distinctly.

In your home teaching, it is helpful to employ a mirror so the child can watch his own lips.

Let him bite down thereon but keep his tongue under the lead pencil.

Then, with lips parted, have him exhale and he will utter the "s" sound.

For the lisping child lifts the tip of his tongue against the base of his upper front teeth.

If he now holds it down on the floor of his mouth, as he will while it is underneath the pencil, he automatically will correct his lisping.

As regards the common childish mistake of saying "oster" for "rooster," he can often eliminate this mistake quickly.

For example, I asked Terry to say "err-r- and prolong the sound.

He had no difficulty doing so, thus showing he could utter the "r."

So I would have him say "err-r-r" and then glide over into the "ooster."

He did it perfectly. So I would shorten the interval between the "err-r-r" and the final "oosterer."

Within 10 minutes, he was saying "rooster" perfectly and had thus eliminated one of the major causes for his social inferiority complex.

Use the mirror and let your child watch himself as he says "Ah-Aw-O-OO-E," in that order.

He will find that his mouth opens widest at "Ah" and keeps closing slightly on each of the next sounds.

So send for my booklet "How to Correct Stuttering and Lisping," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

DENVER (UPI)—State Rep. Frank Kemp, R-Denver, said today he expected the state to be able to provide money without much trouble for operating budgets of the various governmental agencies and institutions.

"Capital construction is the big 'if'," he said.

Kemp, a member of the powerful Joint Budget Committee which decides where the money goes, said the current estimated increase in the state's general fund over last year is $16 million. That should be enough to leave the Legislature in 'pretty good shape" to fund operating budgets, he said.

"My big concern hasn't even come up yet in the budget hearings," Kemp said. "That's the School Foundation Act. It's going to need more flesh on the bones."

Kemp said so far the three Democrats and three Republicans on the Budget Committee had gotten along well. It is the first time since creation of the committee that control of the Legislature has been split between the two major parties, resulting in a split on the committee.

It Is Too Late For Burch, Says Idaho Governor

BOISE, Idaho (AP) Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today it is too late for Dean Burch to save his job as GOP national chairman.

Smylie, chairman of the Republican Governors Conference, said his replacement should be "someone like Ray Bliss," the Ohio GOP chairman.

Bliss, said Smylie, "is experienced in the field of party politics in which Burch is so sadly lacking."

"I can't make a nomination," Smylie said, "but I am confident the national committee will have a candidate."

Smylie decried Burch's recent statement that he was willing to compromise to hold his job.

"It was utterly predictable," the governor said. "What he offers is not an olive branch of conciliation but an iron hand of exclusionary policy."

Smylie said Burch might have been able to keep his post had he offered compromise earlier.

Now, he said, Burch should submit his resignation to the national committee when it meets later this month.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Terry is developing an inferiority complex that makes him dislike school. His parents are partly to blame for they let him persist in childish speech habits, thinking he sounded "cute." Send for the booklet below and teach your child correct enunciation.

CASE U-47u: Terry B., aged 6, is a brilliant boy.

But he is withdrawing from his classmates," his worried parents informed me.

"Ever since kindergarten, he has had trouble pronouncing certain words.

"For example, he can't say 'rooster' for he always calls it 'wooster.'

"And he also lisps, for he will ask: 'Ith it time for thupper?'

"Dr. Crane, we may be at fault, for we thought it was cute to hear him make these errors, but now he is developing a complex over the fact his playmates tease him.

"So how can we correct his speech quickly?"

For 5 years I served as Research Psychologist with the National Research Council and the Carnegie Institution, helping correct speech and hearing disorders.

For 3 of those years I was stationed at Gallaudet College for the Deaf at Washington, D. C.

The other 2 years I was at Smith College, but working on the children at the Clarke School for the Deaf.

At Gallaudet, the students were of college age. They used finger spelling in the classroom, but resorted to the sign language for their social conversation on the campus.

For sign language is much faster than the laborious finger speeling via the manual alphabet illustrated in your dictionary.

At Clarke School the teachers deal with youngsters of grade school age and teach them how to hold their lips, tongue and teeth in order to speak distinctly.

In your home teaching, it is helpful to employ a mirror so the child can watch his own lips.

Lisping can often be corrected quickly. Insert a lead pencil between the child's teeth.

Let him bite down thereon but keep his tongue under the lead pencil.

Then, with lips parted, have him exhale and he will utter the "s" sound.

For the lisping child lifts the tip of his tongue against the base of his upper front teeth.

If he now holds it down on the floor of his mouth, as he will while it is underneath the pencil, he automatically will correct his lisping.

As regards the common childish mistake of saying "oster" for "rooster," he can often eliminate this mistake quickly.

Low-Priced Merchandise Brings Success

NEW YORK (UPI)—The old professional stock traders' maxim, "don't run with the herd!" works in merchandising too, according to Sol Berger.

While about 90 per cent of the garment industry has been breaking its collective neck to "trade up" to higher priced lines with considerable success, Berger's Colonial Corp. of America has been busy filling the vacuum in low-priced merchandise left by the trader-uppers.

Starting with a men's dress shirt made in a New York City flat in 1945 to retail for $1.99, Berger and two partners ran a $30,000 kitty they had raked and scraped together into a $90 million a year business and intend to get much bigger—all on the same philosophy — taking over the low priced customers of firms that trade up in order to get more gross profit from the same tonnage of goods sold.

Berger and two other garment workers got together the $30,000 in 1945 and worked out the philosophy of bucking the trend and picking up the glenings of the trader-uppers. They did pretty well from the start and soon needed a bigger plant. They found one in Woodbury, Tenn., a village of 800 that was dying.

A $100,000 order for shirts to sell in Macy's basement in New York looked like a bonanza and put Colonial—it was called Colonial Shirt Co. then—on the way to growth.

In succeeding years, Berger and his associates moved into other garments for men, children and women and in even household textiles, all to sell in the bargain price ranges.

Colonial today has 8,500 workers in 35 plants.

Britain, Russia Sign Agricultural Pact

LONDON (AP) Britain and the Soviet Union today signed a five-year agreement for cooperation in agricultural research.

The pact states that the Soviet Union will provide the British with information on its studies of soil structure, cold weather plants and the influence of environment, especially temperature and humidity on livestock and poultry production.

British cooperation will cover all aspects of agriculture but especially animal husbandry.

Hendrie-Bolthoff Stores Adopt A New Name

All stores of the Hendrie & Bolthoff company will adopt a new name, Car Parts, Inc., effective Jan. 1, 1965.

The new name will be shared with all Casper Supply Company Stores and B. K. Sweeney Stores in the Rocky Mountain Region.

These three long established companies are all now part of Gulf & Western Industries, Inc., national automotive parts distribution firm, and they are uniting under one name so as to more effectively co-ordinate merchandising efforts in the region.

All Car Parts, Inc. Stores will be served through a new ultra - modern warehouse, Automotive Warehouse, Inc., which is opening this week in Denver and which is designed to provide greatly expanded product line coverage and the fastest possible shipping service

This new source of supply will enable Car Parts Inc. Stores to give better service and availability than ever before to the region's garages, service stations and repair shops

Further expansion of Car Parts, Inc. group of stores is planned for the six state area of Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and New Mexico.

Steel Price Moves Still In Picture

First, there are no plans in any case for across - the -board increases that have aroused Presidential wrath in the past and brought out public reaction.

The national metalworking weekly says the recent increases have been highly selective and in products where price rises could be justified on the basis of increased costs and strong demand.

Further, industry spokesmen have carefully pointed out their conviction that higher prices are justifitd. This has eliminated any element of surprise from either direct users or the public. This is believed to be one of the major causes for outcrys in the past over price moves.

Iron Age says that although individual companies and the industry as a whole will move cautiously, further selective increases are not out of the question in spite of warnings from Washington.

But in any further moves, pains will be taken to show that moves are (a) justified by higher costs and (b) non-inflationary.

Another reason for caution on steel pricing is the simple fact of competition. The steel industry is concerned over growing imports of steel products as well as competitive inroads from other products.

In addition to concern over Administration reaction, the steelmakers are also aware that any price moves will be jumped on by the United Steelworkers of America, already committed to fat demands in the upcoming negotiations.

On the steel market, Iron Age says that record steel consumption stands in the way of inventory buildup plans of steel users.

With a May steel strike a growing possibility, steel users are now scrambling in haste to build up their steel stocks as a strike hedge. In many cases their own steel chew-up rates keep buildups less than scheduled.

A major example is the auto industry, now turning out new cars at record rates. Although the automakers have begun to warehouse steel, in some cases they have been forced to their own warehoused stocks to meet production schedules.

In most markets nation-wide, steel is on allocation throughout the first quarter. This applies to the products in greatest demand. Wire, pipe and

William Magno Found Guilty Of Forgery

Magno, 23, of Denver, was accused of forging a $100 Travelers Express Co. money order May 9 with intent to defraud Empire Super Markets.

On Wednesday, the second day of the trial, the defendant testified that on the day of the alleged offense he had been in Denver helping a neighbor build a "club house" in his basement. He explained that the neighbor had since moved and that all efforts to locate him had been unsuccessful.

Magno also said that the last time he had been in Colorado Springs prior to his arrest on Sept. 3 was in 1957 when he was a soldier at Ft. Carson.

He told the jury he had never seen the money order until defense counsel Howard Kunstle showed it to him in open court. Magno denied ever having seen Albert Kuehn until Tuesday when Kuehn, the assistant manager of the store where the check was cashed, identified Magno as the man who had passed it.

During cross-examination by Deputy District Attorney Montell Dunn, the witness was questioned about his driver's license which he said he had lost. The license was used as identification when the money order was cashed at the Empire Store.

The case went to the jury at 3:30 p.m. and the verdict was returned at 11:05 p.m. Judge G. Russell Miller was on the bench.

Railroad Car Looted Tuesday

Thieves pried open a railroad box car door at 422 E. Vermijo Tuesday night and lugged off six cases of whiskey and 11 other bottles, police reported.

Entry to the car, police said, was made after a door was pried open with a pry bar 36 inches long. The incident took place between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Detectives dusted the door, handle and a partition for fingerprints. They ascertained that one footprint could have been made by a cowboy boot. A shoe print measured nine inches long and a heel print, three and one-half inches in width. Two cardboard whiskey cases also were processed for prints.

Value of the liquor was not determined. The car was parked at a siding next to the McKesson & Robbins Co. for unloading. Part of the shipment was unloaded Tuesday, with the remainder to be unloaded Wednesday. The west side of the boxcar door had been locked by employes after part of the shipment had been unloaded. No lock was placed on the east side of the car door.

R. H. Risley, yard clerk for the Sante Fe Railroad, reported the burglary to local police.

Of the more than 1,700 contractors with Defense Department prime contract awards of $10,000 or more for experimental, test, development and research work during fiscal 1964, five hundred received 98.5 per cent of the total $5.8 billion outlay, according to a Commerce Clearing House report.

Contractors with the largest value of these awards are engaged in research, development, test or production of missiles, aircraft, ships and other highly complex military material, according to the CCH report, which is based on a Defense Department Index of 500 largest military prime contractors for such work.

In the period, 88.3 per cent of all such awards of $10,000 or more went for work connected with missiles, aircraft, ships and electronic programs.

Of the 500 indexed contractors, 111 did not appear on the fiscal 1963 listing, the CCH report said, and of the 370 U.S. business firms appearing on the curent list, 132 were small business concerns.

In addition to the 500 listed contractors, a total of 1,227 other contractors received prime contract awards of $10,000 o more for experiment, development, test or production of military material

Association Cites Robinson Diabetic in Fete

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Diabetes Association of Southern California has disclosed that former baseball star Jackie Robinson is a victim of the disease in giving Robinson its annual award.

The award cites Robinson as "a diabetic who has achieved success in his chosen field."

The association said Wednesday that Robinson will be honored at a banquet in Beverly Hills Jan. 21.

Robinson, now board chairman of a New York bank and vice president of a candy company, wrote a letter accepting the award. It said in part:

"Although I was not a diabetic at the time I was active in my athletic career, for which I give thanks I want to do everything possible to aid the Diabetes Association of Southern California in its wonderful and important work. . .

"Luckily, my diabetes was discovered before it was too late."

Robinson expressed the belief that through research "the cure to the now incurable disease will one day be found."

Alpine Plumbing Co. Visited by Burglars

According to Deputy Sheriff Eldon McCune entry was made by forcing a side door. An unsuccessful attempt was made to break open a filing cabinet. It is still unknown if anything was taken, the officer said.

Hendrie-Bolthoff Stores Adopt A New Name

All stores of the Hendrie & Bolthoff company will adopt a new name, Car Parts, Inc., effective Jan. 1, 1965.

The new name will be shared with all Casper Supply Company Stores and B. K. Sweeney Stores in the Rocky Mountain Region.

These three long established companies are all now part of Gulf & Western Industries, Inc., national automotive parts distribution firm, and they are uniting under one name so as to more effectively co-ordinate merchandising efforts in the region.

All Car Parts, Inc. Stores will be served through a new ultra - modern warehouse, Automotive Warehouse, Inc., which is opening this week in Denver and which is designed to provide greatly expanded product line coverage and the fastest possible shipping service

This new source of supply will enable Car Parts Inc. Stores to give better service and availability than ever before to the region's garages, service stations and repair shops

Further expansion of Car Parts, Inc. group of stores is planned for the six state area of Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and New Mexico.

Steel Price Moves Still In Picture

First, there are no plans in any case for across - the -board increases that have aroused Presidential wrath in the past and brought out public reaction.

The national metalworking weekly says the recent increases have been highly selective and in products where price rises could be justified on the basis of increased costs and strong demand.

Further, industry spokesmen have carefully pointed out their conviction that higher prices are justifitd. This has eliminated any element of surprise from either direct users or the public. This is believed to be one of the major causes for outcrys in the past over price moves.

Iron Age says that although individual companies and the industry as a whole will move cautiously, further selective increases are not out of the question in spite of warnings from Washington.

But in any further moves, pains will be taken to show that moves are (a) justified by higher costs and (b) non-inflationary.

Another reason for caution on steel pricing is the simple fact of competition. The steel industry is concerned over growing imports of steel products as well as competitive inroads from other products.

In addition to concern over Administration reaction, the steelmakers are also aware that any price moves will be jumped on by the United Steelworkers of America, already committed to fat demands in the upcoming negotiations.

On the steel market, Iron Age says that record steel consumption stands in the way of inventory buildup plans of steel users.

With a May steel strike a growing possibility, steel users are now scrambling in haste to build up their steel stocks as a strike hedge. In many cases their own steel chew-up rates keep buildups less than scheduled.

A major example is the auto industry, now turning out new cars at record rates. Although the automakers have begun to warehouse steel, in some cases they have been forced to their own warehoused stocks to meet production schedules.

In most markets nation-wide, steel is on allocation throughout the first quarter. This applies to the products in greatest demand. Wire, pipe and cold - finished bars are about the only exceptions.

Steel shipments are climbing and January should see a gain of about 10 per cent from December. This would put shipments in the neighborhood of 8 million tons. The unofficial peak for shipments, based on finishing capacities, is about 8.5 million tons.

William Magno Found Guilty Of Forgery

Magno, 23, of Denver, was accused of forging a $100 Travelers Express Co. money order May 9 with intent to defraud Empire Super Markets.

On Wednesday, the second day of the trial, the defendant testified that on the day of the alleged offense he had been in Denver helping a neighbor build a "club house" in his basement. He explained that the neighbor had since moved and that all efforts to locate him had been unsuccessful.

Magno also said that the last time he had been in Colorado Springs prior to his arrest on Sept. 3 was in 1957 when he was a soldier at Ft. Carson.

He told the jury he had never seen the money order until defense counsel Howard Kunstle showed it to him in open court. Magno denied ever having seen Albert Kuehn until Tuesday when Kuehn, the assistant manager of the store where the check was cashed, identified Magno as the man who had passed it.

During cross-examination by Deputy District Attorney Montell Dunn, the witness was questioned about his driver's license which he said he had lost. The license was used as identification when the money order was cashed at the Empire Store.

The case went to the jury at 3:30 p.m. and the verdict was returned at 11:05 p.m. Judge G. Russell Miller was on the bench.

Of the more than 1,700 contractors with Defense Department prime contract awards of $10,000 or more for experimental, test, development and research work during fiscal 1964, five hundred received 98.5 per cent of the total $5.8 billion outlay, according to a Commerce Clearing House report.

Contractors with the largest value of these awards are engaged in research, development, test or production of missiles, aircraft, ships and other highly complex military material, according to the CCH report, which is based on a Defense Department Index of 500 largest military prime contractors for such work.

In the period, 88.3 per cent of all such awards of $10,000 or more went for work connected with missiles, aircraft, ships and electronic programs.

Of the 500 indexed contractors, 111 did not appear on the fiscal 1963 listing, the CCH report said, and of the 370 U.S. business firms appearing on the curent list, 132 were small business concerns.

In addition to the 500 listed contractors, a total of 1,227 other contractors received prime contract awards of $10,000 o more for experiment, development, test or production of military material

Railroad Car Looted Tuesday

Thieves pried open a railroad box car door at 422 E. Vermijo Tuesday night and lugged off six cases of whiskey and 11 other bottles, police reported.

Entry to the car, police said, was made after a door was pried open with a pry bar 36 inches long. The incident took place between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Detectives dusted the door, handle and a partition for fingerprints. They ascertained that one footprint could have been made by a cowboy boot. A shoe print measured nine inches long and a heel print, three and one-half inches in width. Two cardboard whiskey cases also were processed for prints.

Value of the liquor was not determined. The car was parked at a siding next to the McKesson & Robbins Co. for unloading. Part of the shipment was unloaded Tuesday, with the remainder to be unloaded Wednesday. The west side of the boxcar door had been locked by employes after part of the shipment had been unloaded. No lock was placed on the east side of the car door.

R. H. Risley, yard clerk for the Sante Fe Railroad, reported the burglary to local police.

Association Cites Robinson Diabetic in Fete

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Diabetes Association of Southern California has disclosed that former baseball star Jackie Robinson is a victim of the disease in giving Robinson its annual award.

The award cites Robinson as "a diabetic who has achieved success in his chosen field."

The association said Wednesday that Robinson will be honored at a banquet in Beverly Hills Jan. 21.

Robinson, now board chairman of a New York bank and vice president of a candy company, wrote a letter accepting the award. It said in part:

"Although I was not a diabetic at the time I was active in my athletic career, for which I give thanks I want to do everything possible to aid the Diabetes Association of Southern California in its wonderful and important work. . .

"Luckily, my diabetes was discovered before it was too late."

Robinson expressed the belief that through research "the cure to the now incurable disease will one day be found."

Alpine Plumbing Co. Visited by Burglars

According to Deputy Sheriff Eldon McCune entry was made by forcing a side door. An unsuccessful attempt was made to break open a filing cabinet. It is still unknown if anything was taken, the officer said.

Perkins Motor Company Ready For Grand Opening in New Building

By DAVE OSBORN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Free door prizes and refreshments, a huge line of new and used cars and a generally festive air will prevail at Perkins Motor Co., 1205 Fountain Creek Blvd., during three days of grand opening festivities which began this morning.

Today, Friday and Saturday, Will Perkins, company president, is inviting the public to not only come see his line of Chrysler Corp. automobiles, but to come see Perkins' brand new quarters in Motor City.

From its first conception on the drawing board of Architect Walter Burgess until the final Duralite block was layed by Digman Construction Co., some 13 months has passed.

Burgess, who has an office at 606½ S. Nevada Ave., spent seven months in designing the 23,500 square foot structure. "It actually took longer to build it on paper than to build it from the ground up," said Burgess. Perkins' new home is of contemporary design, according to Burgess, and is part conventional and part metal in construction.

Six months of construction began in July, according to Earl Eivins, superintendent of Digman Construction Co. now located at 2620 W. Cucharras St. Principal materials used in the building were Duralite block and steel. Duralite Block Inc., 328 E. Fillmore St. supplied the contractor with concrete masonry units, which were used over a large portion of the building.

Besides its huge building, Perkins Motors also has a 400 car parking lot on its three and a half acre site. The lot is used for new and used cars as well as customer parking, if necessary.

The showroom, which is the center of attraction at any dealership, will house 10 brand new cars, including Imperial, Chrysler, Plymouth, Valiant and Barracuda.

Perkins huge service area may prove interesting to some of the real car buffs who visit Colorado Springs' oldest new car dealership.

No registration is necessary for door prize drawings. Each person who visits Perkins, not only during the Grand Opening, but until Jan. 30, will be given a ticket with a number printed on it. Half the ticket will be deposited at the showroom and the customer will keep the other half. The drawing will be held on the afternoon of Jan. 30 and winning numbers will be published shortly thereafter.

Prizes awarded will include several automobile accessories along with some items for use in the home. The free refreshments will just be available during the three-day opening celebration. Hours of operation at Perkins will be as usual, from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Perkins move to Motor City is a giant step forward in the dealership's 30 years of business in Colorado Springs.

Seven-Day Harbor Strike Is Ended

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — A seven-day strike ended today in Antwerp harbor, one of Europe's biggest. It had tied up more than 200 ships.

The government Wednesday night ordered the strikers to return to their duties on the locks, bridges and tugs in the municipally operated port or face jail terms. It said negotiations on pay raises demanded by the strikers would continue and the government would assist.

The strike by 600 harbor workers had threatened 11,000 workers in the Antwerp area with unemployment.

Longmont Man Named Executor of Estate

BOULDER (AP) — A 92-year old Longmont man, Francis Beckwith, has been named executor of the will of Ely Z. Bills, who died Dec. 27 at the age of 87, as well as primary heir.

Bills' estate was reported to be worth more than $250,000. For a time he was associated with Beckwith in publishing The Longmont Times, predecessor of The Longmont Times-Call.

Beckwith, a former Boulder County treasurer, and county clerk and recorder, is a son of the late Elmer Beckwith, founder of the Times.

Bills was a real estate operator in Longmont for many years and at one time operated mortuaries in Longmont and Greeley.

Job Security To Be Sought By Steelmen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Total job security, organization of the non-organized and industrywide bargaining for members in steel fabricating plants are among the long range aims of David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers Union president

McDonald, in announcing his re-election campaign platform Wednesday night, called it one "geared to the 1960s, not the 1930s."

McDonald is opposed for his fourth, four-year term by USW Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel. The million-member union elects officers Feb. 9 and the current campaign is being carried on during negotiations for a new labor contract with the basic steel industry.

"We shall develop a program of total job security," McDonald said. "We shall remove the fear of instantaneous layoff from all members of the Steelworkers Union."

As for gaining new members, he said:

"The unorganized must be organized. New techniques, ideas and plans have already been developed. Millions of clerical and technical workers as well as industrial workers must be brought into unions or associations for their mutual benefit and protection."

McDonald called for industrywide bargaining for USW members and the various types of fabricating plants.

"Future wage policies shall be designed not only to establish programs for the basic steelworkers but also to give increased attention to the specialized problems of all non-ferrous and fabricating workers," McDonald said.

Other planks include the call for quick enactment of medicare legislation, vigorous implementation of the civil rights law, the search for solutions to problems created by automation and technical improvements and the continued development of industrywide pension plans.

400 Cowboys Will Take Part in Rodeo

They will compete for $32,500 in purse money put up by the management plus entry fees, amounting to $50 to $100 per event for each competitor.

Last year 74 cowboys of the 405 entered split up $60,570. The big winner was Dean Oliver, calf roping star from Boise, Idaho, who won $2,704. Oliver wound up 1964 as the Rodeo Cowboys Association's all-around champion.

Nearly all of last year-s RCA champions in various events will compete in the Denver show. So will Mrs. Ardith Bruce of Fountain, who won the barrel racing crown at Dallas 10 days ago.

Negro Legislator Takes Seat In Tennessee

By BOB GILBERT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rep. A. W. Willis, first Negro member of the Tennessee General Assembly since 1876, says he wants to help do something about "the most critical situation facing America today — poverty."

The 39-year-old Democrat from Memphis received 97,000 votes last November to win a seat in the House. Five years ago he would not have thought it possible, said Willis, who was an attorney for James Meredith, first Negro knowingly admitted to the University of Mississippi.

"Numerous hotels and motels sent letters inviting me to stay with them during the legislature — just like they did other lawmakers, I imagine," he said. "The atmosphere here has been cordial, and people have been most helpful."

Willis is staying at a downtown motel several blocks from the Capitol. The motel is used by many white legislators.

Willis supported Gov. Frank Clement until the governor failed to sign a fair practices code proposed by the State Human Relations Commission, of which Willis is vice chairman. He went over to Clement's Democratic primary opponent for the U.S. Senate, Ross Bass, last August. Bass won the nomination, and election in November.

Willis outlined what he called a simple philosophy.

"There's nothing complicated about it. People want a home life, to earn a living and to enjoy recreation. But poverty makes this impossible for many

"Crime and disease can be traced directly to poverty. Increased crime at Christmas time reflects the pressures of Santa Claus."

Willis says the best way to stop communism is to keep prosperity going in this country.

He advocates full participation by Tennessee in federal antipoverty programs. He also says the state should consider a minimum wage law and the repeal of the right-to-work law.

"I'm keeping my eye on civil rights, too, but I want to do what I can about all problems in general," Willis said. "I like to crusade, and poverty is a good thing to crusade on."

Youth, Horse Killed When Struck by Car

JONESBORO, Ga. (AP) — A youth and his horse were killed when struck by a car as he attempted to rescue a girl whose horse bolted across a highway.

James Allen Huie and Judy Cash, each 14, were preparing to go horseback riding Wednesday when Judy's horse bolted and ran across the road. James jumped on his horse and followed.

As his horse crossed the highway, it was struck by an auto driven by Charline Starr of Fayetteville.

Police said no charges had been placed against Mrs. Starr, who swerved in an attempt to Miss James' horse. Five persons in the auto were slightly injured.

Teacher Gets Gift Of Boa Constrictor

BOSTON (AP) — English teacher Arthur J. Hull opened a gift box on his desk at Walpole High School and there was a four-foot boa constrictor.

Hull says he can't be angry at his prankster pupils because, thinking back, he asked for it.

Several weeks ago, a pupil asked Hull what he wanted for Christmas.

"Nothing much," Hull replied. "A paper clip, or a boa constrictor maybe."

Hull, a bachelor, has the serpent in his apartment — inside a five-foot-high box.

"It could do a job on a small cat but that's about all, although if you let it wrap itself around your arm, it takes two people to get it off," he said.

Hull also got three paper clips for Christmas.

Job Security To Be Sought By Steelmen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Total job security, organization of the non-organized and industrywide bargaining for members in steel fabricating plants are among the long range aims of David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers Union president

McDonald, in announcing his re-election campaign platform Wednesday night, called it one "geared to the 1960s, not the 1930s."

McDonald is opposed for his fourth, four-year term by USW Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel. The million-member union elects officers Feb. 9 and the current campaign is being carried on during negotiations for a new labor contract with the basic steel industry.

"We shall develop a program of total job security," McDonald said. "We shall remove the fear of instantaneous layoff from all members of the Steelworkers Union."

As for gaining new members, he said:

"The unorganized must be organized. New techniques, ideas and plans have already been developed. Millions of clerical and technical workers as well as industrial workers must be brought into unions or associations for their mutual benefit and protection."

McDonald called for industrywide bargaining for USW members and the various types of fabricating plants.

"Future wage policies shall be designed not only to establish programs for the basic steelworkers but also to give increased attention to the specialized problems of all non-ferrous and fabricating workers," McDonald said.

Other planks include the call for quick enactment of medicare legislation, vigorous implementation of the civil rights law, the search for solutions to problems created by automation and technical improvements and the continued development of industrywide pension plans.

400 Cowboys Will Take Part in Rodeo

They will compete for $32,500 in purse money put up by the management plus entry fees, amounting to $50 to $100 per event for each competitor.

Last year 74 cowboys of the 405 entered split up $60,570. The big winner was Dean Oliver, calf roping star from Boise, Idaho, who won $2,704. Oliver wound up 1964 as the Rodeo Cowboys Association's all-around champion.

Nearly all of last year-s RCA champions in various events will compete in the Denver show. So will Mrs. Ardith Bruce of Fountain, who won the barrel racing crown at Dallas 10 days ago.

Negro Legislator Takes Seat In Tennessee

By BOB GILBERT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rep. A. W. Willis, first Negro member of the Tennessee General Assembly since 1876, says he wants to help do something about "the most critical situation facing America today — poverty."

The 39-year-old Democrat from Memphis received 97,000 votes last November to win a seat in the House. Five years ago he would not have thought it possible, said Willis, who was an attorney for James Meredith, first Negro knowingly admitted to the University of Mississippi.

"Numerous hotels and motels sent letters inviting me to stay with them during the legislature — just like they did other lawmakers, I imagine," he said. "The atmosphere here has been cordial, and people have been most helpful."

Willis is staying at a downtown motel several blocks from the Capitol. The motel is used by many white legislators.

Willis supported Gov. Frank Clement until the governor failed to sign a fair practices code proposed by the State Human Relations Commission, of which Willis is vice chairman. He went over to Clement's Democratic primary opponent for the U.S. Senate, Ross Bass, last August. Bass won the nomination, and election in November.

Willis outlined what he called a simple philosophy.

"There's nothing complicated about it. People want a home life, to earn a living and to enjoy recreation. But poverty makes this impossible for many

"Crime and disease can be traced directly to poverty. Increased crime at Christmas time reflects the pressures of Santa Claus."

Willis says the best way to stop communism is to keep prosperity going in this country.

He advocates full participation by Tennessee in federal antipoverty programs. He also says the state should consider a minimum wage law and the repeal of the right-to-work law.

"I'm keeping my eye on civil rights, too, but I want to do what I can about all problems in general," Willis said. "I like to crusade, and poverty is a good thing to crusade on."

Youth, Horse Killed When Struck by Car

JONESBORO, Ga. (AP) — A youth and his horse were killed when struck by a car as he attempted to rescue a girl whose horse bolted across a highway.

James Allen Huie and Judy Cash, each 14, were preparing to go horseback riding Wednesday when Judy's horse bolted and ran across the road. James jumped on his horse and followed.

As his horse crossed the highway, it was struck by an auto driven by Charline Starr of Fayetteville.

Police said no charges had been placed against Mrs. Starr, who swerved in an attempt to Miss James' horse. Five persons in the auto were slightly injured.

Basis of Life One Topic at CC Symposium

Two of the nation's lading scientists will discuss the basis of life in separate talks during the week-long symposium on The New Science getting under way Sunday at Colorado College.

They are Dr. Barry Commoner, professor of botany at Washington University, and Dr. Alexander Rich, professor of biophysics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Rich will talk about "DNA and the Origin of Life' at 2 p.m. Jan. 14 in Tutt Library.

Dr. Commoner will discuss "DNA — A Second Look" at 8 p.m. Jan. 14 in Shove Chapel.

DNA is the material that makes up the basic substance of which chromosomes are composed.

Both professors have long and distinguished careers as research scientists.

AF Commander To Visit Carson Friday

Maj. Gen. John C. Meyer, commander of the 12th Air Force based at Waco, Texas, will visit the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) at Fort Carson Friday.

Maj. Gen. Autrrey J. Maroun, division and Ft. Carson commander, will meet him at Peterson Field at 9 a.m. with an honor guard ceremony scheduled there by guard members from the Fort Carson Leadership School.

Accompanying Gen. Meyer on his second visit to the mountain post will be Brig. Gen. William D. Dunham, 12th Air Force deputy for operations, and Lt. Col. Stuart Laurie, commander of the Direct Air Support Center at Waco.

The 12th Air Force gives air support to the 5th Division within STRIKE Command.

Gen. Dunham and his party will observe Leadership School testing for the Expert Infantryman's Badge, adjustment of artillery and mortar firing and field weapons proficiency test.

The 4th Squadron, 12th Cavalry, will conduct a briefing and demonstration for the Air Force visitors in the afternoon.

Army helicopter flights to and from Peterson Field are scheduled if weather conditions permit.

Project officers for the 12th Air Force commander's visit are Lt. Col. Clyde Strain, Air Force air liaison officer to the 5th Division, and Major Edward Filbin of the operations and training staff.

Canon City Bank Teller Makes Mistake

Vincent "Bud" Gentry of Canon City, conscientiously and correctly counts money everyday in his job as teller for a Canon City bank. But it is a different story when it comes to mailing checks.

Bud, who serves as treasurer of the Canon City Public Library Board, promptly pay the library's expenses each month by check, but caused a small furor at Monday night's board meeting.

Bud was not on hand to defend himself when it was disclosed by Alice McKellar, librarian, that he put two checks in wrong envelopes, sending $221.39 to the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., which billed the library for $1.25, and $1.25 to the Brown Binding Company, Greeley, which asked for $221.39.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

BUSIEST BEE IN FILMLAND

HOLLYWOOD — Busiest bee in Hollywood, both lovely and delightful to talk to, is Joanna Barnes. "I'm work - oriented," she says, and it's no idle remark. She finished a role in "Goodbye Charlie" in time for a comedy for Bob Hope's TV show, writes a weekly column on interior decoration for the Chicago Tribune - New York News Syndicate, and for the last six years has reviewed a couple of books a month for the Los Angeles Times. You can also add Junior League chores, the Los Angeles Chamber Symphony society, and auxiliary work for Cedars of Lebanon-Mount Sinai. In between she's redoing a Beverly Hills house which she and her husband, Larry Dobkin, recently bought, admits she's handy with a paint brush, and always manicures her own nails.

"How do you find time:" I asked, for this green - eyed ash blonde is groomed to a fine finish and chic as any in the top ten. "Easy," she said. "If you want something done, ask the busiest person you know." Like all socialites in show business (Dina Merrill, Julie Harris, Katherine Hepburn, etc.), she prefers to be judged by performances rather than birthright. Launched at the Boston Cotillion a decade ago, she attended Milton academy, sacred to top notchers; won a Phi Beta Kappa key at Smith where she was editor of Review, the college literary magazine.

Joanna didn't plan an acting careeer. She asked Carmel Myers to introduce her to an editor, but Carmel sent her to Columbia Studios instead. They rushed her to Hollywood for a screen test. She learned to act by working at it, and during her first year in films did many notable TV shows.

I asked if she had a list of the things she'd been in. "Heavens, no! I don't even keep photos of myself or save film clippings or records. But I've been on every top TV, so many I can't remember them, and try never to make the same mistake twice. I was under contract to Warner's, did 'Home Before Dark' and 'Auntie Mame,' then they dropped me with a thud. After 'Mame,' my salary was tripled, as they learned when they called me in for another picture."

Of actresses, Joanna says: "Good grooming is part of the job of being a woman as well as actress. Too many stars dress like slobs. People don't see your beautiful soul and remarkable intellect when they meet you — they notice how you look. If they want to see the girl next door, they can look out the window." Travel? "I've never been to Europe and am not the kind to zip off to Hong Kong. When the family wanted to send me abroad, I chose to see America first, toured our country with a friend from Smith." She was married briefly to a boy she met in school, then three years ago met and married Larry Dobkin.

"Larry loves working and acting as much as I do," Joanna said. "He acts, directs, writes, and is often on the producing end. At Yale Drama school he learned to design and build sets and lighting; this is great when it comes to repairs around the house. But he did get a charleyhorse painting the dining room ceiling. Other people buy houses which once belonged to Garbo; ours goes back to Barney Oldfield. It's vaguely English, has magnificent hand-carved pillars and some antique bathrooms which had to be ripped out, including pipes."

Of sports: "Every sport should have a spectator — I'm it." She's had one experience in legitimate theater: "I did 'Antigone' at U.C.L.A. this year — unfortunately, it was awful." I said, "Do you paint" "No, I'm strictly a buyer of art," she said. "Larry and I bought two sculptures of Roger Koontz. Of course, we're full of the usual things by Bracque, Picasso, and so on. We love antique furniture and modern paintings. Our Boston house was built in 1634 and all Barnes lived, wed, and died there. Last time I was home I snagged a Queen Anne highboy from the basement.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

BUSIEST BEE IN FILMLAND

HOLLYWOOD — Busiest bee in Hollywood, both lovely and delightful to talk to, is Joanna Barnes. "I'm work - oriented," she says, and it's no idle remark. She finished a role in "Goodbye Charlie" in time for a comedy for Bob Hope's TV show, writes a weekly column on interior decoration for the Chicago Tribune - New York News Syndicate, and for the last six years has reviewed a couple of books a month for the Los Angeles Times. You can also add Junior League chores, the Los Angeles Chamber Symphony society, and auxiliary work for Cedars of Lebanon-Mount Sinai. In between she's redoing a Beverly Hills house which she and her husband, Larry Dobkin, recently bought, admits she's handy with a paint brush, and always manicures her own nails.

"How do you find time:" I asked, for this green - eyed ash blonde is groomed to a fine finish and chic as any in the top ten. "Easy," she said. "If you want something done, ask the busiest person you know." Like all socialites in show business (Dina Merrill, Julie Harris, Katherine Hepburn, etc.), she prefers to be judged by performances rather than birthright. Launched at the Boston Cotillion a decade ago, she attended Milton academy, sacred to top notchers; won a Phi Beta Kappa key at Smith where she was editor of Review, the college literary magazine.

Joanna didn't plan an acting careeer. She asked Carmel Myers to introduce her to an editor, but Carmel sent her to Columbia Studios instead. They rushed her to Hollywood for a screen test. She learned to act by working at it, and during her first year in films did many notable TV shows.

I asked if she had a list of the things she'd been in. "Heavens, no! I don't even keep photos of myself or save film clippings or records. But I've been on every top TV, so many I can't remember them, and try never to make the same mistake twice. I was under contract to Warner's, did 'Home Before Dark' and 'Auntie Mame,' then they dropped me with a thud. After 'Mame,' my salary was tripled, as they learned when they called me in for another picture."

Of actresses, Joanna says: "Good grooming is part of the job of being a woman as well as actress. Too many stars dress like slobs. People don't see your beautiful soul and remarkable intellect when they meet you — they notice how you look. If they want to see the girl next door, they can look out the window." Travel? "I've never been to Europe and am not the kind to zip off to Hong Kong. When the family wanted to send me abroad, I chose to see America first, toured our country with a friend from Smith." She was married briefly to a boy she met in school, then three years ago met and married Larry Dobkin.

"Larry loves working and acting as much as I do," Joanna said. "He acts, directs, writes, and is often on the producing end. At Yale Drama school he learned to design and build sets and lighting; this is great when it comes to repairs around the house. But he did get a charleyhorse painting the dining room ceiling. Other people buy houses which once belonged to Garbo; ours goes back to Barney Oldfield. It's vaguely English, has magnificent hand-carved pillars and some antique bathrooms which had to be ripped out, including pipes."

Of sports: "Every sport should have a spectator — I'm it." She's had one experience in legitimate theater: "I did 'Antigone' at U.C.L.A. this year — unfortunately, it was awful." I said, "Do you paint" "No, I'm strictly a buyer of art," she said. "Larry and I bought two sculptures of Roger Koontz. Of course, we're full of the usual things by Bracque, Picasso, and so on. We love antique furniture and modern paintings. Our Boston house was built in 1634 and all Barnes lived, wed, and died there. Last time I was home I snagged a Queen Anne highboy from the basement.

Labor, Business, Both Think LBJ On Their Side

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Both management and labor spokesmen have expressed belief that President Johnson seems to be on their side. And some political observers say that probably both are right, within limits.

Management spokesmen are pleased that he calls again for stability in wages and prices. Management is inclined to interpret holding the price line as largely dependent on wage stability. But labor is inclined to think that wages don't influence prices as much as does the desire for higher profits.

Labor spokesmen are pleased that the State of the Union message seemed to put the President on their side as against right-to-work laws and also as wanting unemployment benefits and minimum wage coverage extended.

But at least one hard-headed group — those who purchase materials for their companies — are on record as believing that the government guidelines as to what labor should ask and what managment should then do about prices may not work in one basic industry, steel.

The steel committee of the National Association of Purchasing Agents says that 75 percent of its members polled predict that steel union demands will be stiffened in coming weeks. They see the companies balking and look for a strik after May 1, lasting anywhere from four to six weeks.

The men who purchase steel products for their companies say they are more convinced than ever that they should build up the steel stocks of their companies as fast as possible, so plants won't be shut down soon after such a strike would start.

The government's guidelines have run into trouble off and on for more than a year now. The proposal is that labor should keep its wage increases, and management its price boosts, to an average of 3.2 per cent. This is the rate that the government figures manufacturing efficiency is growing, and that such an advance in wages or prices wouldn't upset the growth of the economy.

One trouble with this lies in the word average. Many industries claim their productivity isn't expanding at any such rate, and that therefore they can't absorb any 3.2 per cent rise in labor costs.

Other industries say they are more efficient than that and can settle on a different basis with the union. The auto labor pact is a case in point. The unions got a contract well above the 3.2 per cent guideline. They said company cost cutting programs were well above the average. And the car makers did hold fairly close to the previous price line. Record profits helped them absorb higher labor costs. The average didn't apply.

Steel and other industries say they have no such cushion, and that any big boost in labor costs must mean higher prices.

Red China Charges India With Intrusion

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China Wednesday accused India of "new and grave intrusions" of Red-held Tibet. The Chinese demanded the immediate dismantling of Indian military installations and withdrawal of Indian troops from the region.

The charges were made in a note delivered to the Indian Embassy in Peking, the official Communist New China News agency (NCNA) reported in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

Peking accused Indian troops of making reconnaissance and harassment raids in the Chading Gompa area along the border between Tibet and the Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim. Sikkim is the tiny Indian protectorate between Nepal and Bhutan.

During one raid, the protest said, the Indians seized 59 yaks from a Chinese herder.

The Chinese charged that India "is obviously attempting to create tension and disturb the tranquility along the China-Sikkim border." Peking made similar accusations before launching the border war against India in the fall of 1962. The Chinese occupied thousands of square miles of territory claimed by India in Ladakh on the western end of the border and in the Northeast frontier Agency on the other end.

Most of the more than 451.8 million pounds of black tea exported by Ceylon in 1962 went to Great Britain and the United States.

Crowds in India Demand Food Ration Cards

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Huge crowds of worried men and weeping women besiege government offices in Calcutta every day to demand food ration cards.

Rationing of food grains, the staple of every table in eastern India, started Tuesday in Calcutta but the government was not able to issue ration cards fast enough to supply everyone.

That means misery for thousands among Calcutta's 6.5 million persons. No one without a ration card will be sold food grain from government stores. Private trade in rice and wheat has been banned.

Calcutta has known hunger many times. Food was so short after World War II that a wartime rationing system was extended until 1952. In recent years, private traders have done a thriving business in food grains.

Acute shortages that struck all of India, plus hoarding among Calcutta merchants, prompted the government to step in with another rationing plan.

The government blames "unscrupulous traders" for Calcutta shortages even though the government's own figures show that nationwide food grain production has been static for three years while the population has increased 30 million to a total of 480 million.

Huge amounts of American wheat have been shipped to Calcutta but not even this was enough.

By conservative estimates, 180,000 men will be thrown out of work by the rationing program — 100,000 food grain traders and 80,000 employes of shops and hotels that sell boiled rice.

Calcutta is notorious in India as a potentially explosive center of political, economic and social content. Riots break out frequently and political agitation occurs daily.

Crowds in India Demand Food Ration Cards

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Huge crowds of worried men and weeping women besiege government offices in Calcutta every day to demand food ration cards.

Rationing of food grains, the staple of every table in eastern India, started Tuesday in Calcutta but the government was not able to issue ration cards fast enough to supply everyone.

That means misery for thousands among Calcutta's 6.5 million persons. No one without a ration card will be sold food grain from government stores. Private trade in rice and wheat has been banned.

Calcutta has known hunger many times. Food was so short after World War II that a wartime rationing system was extended until 1952. In recent years, private traders have done a thriving business in food grains.

Acute shortages that struck all of India, plus hoarding among Calcutta merchants, prompted the government to step in with another rationing plan.

The State of Mr. Johnson

President Lyndon Baines Johnson has delivered his "state of the union" message. His outline for the "great society" is nothing more than a blue print for total American socialism. We are clearly approaching the goal announced by Walter Reuther some years ago, when he stated in a letter to his brother that "we should all work for a Soviet America." The only thing lacking was the complete adoption of the Leninist terminology. The "great society" could be viewed as the U.S.S.A. (the United States of Soviet America).

Mr. Johnson has once again demonstrated that he can completely be-dazzle the American people. His proposals, as well as his view of the "state of the union," are so contradictory and so aggressive, that normally intelligent people should be aghast. But the pundits are leaping on the band wagon, letting everyone know that they are "buying" the Johnson syndrome. It's a melancholy example of the effects of election-type psychological conditioning.

Mr. Johnson says that we are the most prosperous nation on earth; that we have wealth virtually running out of our auditory appendages; that we can afford just about anything he can think of. In the same breath he advises that we are carrying a tremendous burden of poverty. There are thousands of "poor" people who are to be assauged by looting the wealthy so that this loot can be distributed.

In the next paragraph he tells us that we have a "passion" for peace. He invites the Russian leaders to come to this country and to make use of American television. But before the echo dies, he tells us that he plans to get tough in Viet Nam and that he will, if necessary, redouble our folly in the far east by waging an aggressive campaign against the Viet Cong in an effort to stamp out communist tactics there.

He tells us further that he is going to mastermind a frugal and an accountable regime. Waste is to be eliminated and expenses cut. While we are seeking to digest this pleasant idea, he tells us of his new spending programs, how tax money must be channeled into the "right" areas ("right" relating to his own political point of view).

He professes an interest and a concern for the individual. Individual living is to take on new meaning. But next, he advises us that we live in a world community and that the state of the individual is going to have to give way to the exigencies of world dominion.

Then he points out that our first concern is to be our own prosperity and safety. But as we gulp in this unexpected news, he reminds us that we cannot be isolated, that our job is to intervene in the affairs of all men so that all men can be "free." Apparently he means that everyone is to be free of all influences save the kind that is manufactured in Washington.

In a very real sense, the full tenor of his talk was a declaration of war against independence and freedom for every American living here. If we understand the meaning of his emotional outpouring, it is that he proposes that the federal government shall take over the country; make the decisions; confiscate the wealth, and plan the future for us all. Nothing is to be left to be privately and independently chosen. He will choose.

He confides that no president knows all the answers. Then he goes on to state that he does know them.

Here are the areas for federal management, financing, control and intervention: Education; health services; landscaping; city building; beauty; depressed areas; crime; delinquency; voting opportunity; art; literature; racial problems; waste; inefficiency; all business and industry (our economy); new opportunities; prosperity; tax cuts; increased government income; war; peace; labor; agriculture; technical training; minimum wages; unemployment compensation; communications; transportation; railroading; the elderly; the poor; research; medical and dental activities; housing; urban renewal; security; parks; playgrounds; recreation; electoral college revision; money.

Here is a man, clad with the brief robes of power, who contradicts himself flatly again and again. He proposes to be all things to all men. He knows no boundaries to his ambition, and certainly he refuses to recognize the boundaries of any personal property or personal rights.

Socialism, here we are.

ON SUNDAY

To the Editor:

Thank you for printing my article wherein I suggested that all Christians unite in passing a protective law forbidding the sale of any goods except drugs, food prepared and served in the same establishment, gasoline and oil. I also wish to express my appreciation for the line of thought offered in the editorial commenting on my article.

As stated in my original article, I know it would be impossible to discuss all of the reasons why, if such a protective law was passed, the day should be Sunday. I mean it would be impossible to discuss all of these reasons in one or two articles in this newspaper. Therefore, I would suggest that we pass over that subject and see if we can't come to agreement among the overwhelming number of Christians of all Christian religions that it truly is the will of God that man "keep holy the Sabbath Day" by refraining frorn unnecessary worldly transactions of business on Sundays.

Please note that it is my interpretation of "the inspired word" that all unnecessary transactions of business should be refrained from, and that Jesus Christ told us that He did not expect us to refrain from doing necessary work or business on the Sabbath when He related to us the story of the man whose ass fell into the pit on the Sabbath and how He suggested that the man free it. Therefore, as for the closing of all businesses that are needed for the welfare and enjoyment of most of the people, I feel that God would not expect that; but would be well pleased if we refrained from doing ordinary business and shopping on one day in the week and particularly on the day He has set aside for us through His Church which He founded while He was here on this earth. At least, it would be doing something to show Him we wish to keep His day holy.

It is my opinion that each state would have to pass their own laws and I know that some states have "Blue Sky" laws now that would probably have to be amended to permit passing such a law as I suggest. But, where there is a will, there is a way!

Let's get together as Christians to get a law passed in Colorado that would forbid the sale of any merchandise on Sunday except drugs, food prepared and served in the same establishment, gasoline and oil and forget all of the trivial things about which volumes could be written. Let's say we are doing it for the general improvement of the society in which we live. If we could and would do this, I feel sure that other states would follow and that we would be happier as a community for it.

The recent SAVE OUR SUNDAYS committee failed in their attempt to pass a Sunday closing law. I don't know why they failed, but maybe if we would ask God for His help in this, we might have better luck.

NATIONAL DEBT

To the Editor:

The national debt of 315 billion dollars is really a lot of money.

Suppose a right strike of gold were made up in Cripple Creek, and it is mined, milled, and hauled out.

Three hundred and fifteen billion dollars with gold worth $35 per ounce takes 9 billion ounces, or 750 million pounds, or 375,000 tons of pure gold. At 25 tons to the truck it would take 15,000 truckloads or 41 truckloads of 25 tons each per day every day for one whole year plus an extra 35 truckloads on one day during the year (April 1st would be a good day).

If the strike, instead of gold, were made in silver at $1.25 per ounce, then it would take 1,148 truckloads of 25 tons each, per day, for a whole year.

This is just on what the government owes. The current spending rate is 1-3 of the above or about 15 truckloads of gold per day or about 385 truckloads of silver per day.

Truly a lot of money, a lot of metal?

PROMISES AND RUMORS

To the Editor:

"Politicians are a set of men who have interests aside from the interests of the people, and who, to say the most of them, are at least one long step removed from honest men. I say this with greater freedom being a politician myself."

This quotation by Abraham Lincoln, an expert, declares that politicians are different from those who are not politicians, and he ought to know. I am not a politician. However, I did run for office a couple of times and I know that in order to be elected you must promise to do something, even though you know you cannot deliver what you promise. Then of course you have to keep promising in order to stay in office. An election is guaranteed to the candidate who can promise the most to the majority of the people.

Because I know this and because I am sure the past presidents and the present President of the United States knows this, they have my heartfelt sympathy and encouragement to do the best they can.

As a people and a nation we pay tribute to God on our coins, "In God We Trust"; in the Pledge of Allegiance, "One Nation under God"; and our elected officers take the oath of office wtih hands upon the Bible. Yet we seek the power of collectivist action to obtain most of the necessities and some of the luxuries of life, when the Bible says, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things will be added."

It is human to want an abundant life and security. Our President is talking about the grand society in which such conditions would prevail. I would like nothing better, but the Bible tells me that until the Son of God returns to this earth in person and in all His Glory, there will be wars and rumors of wars. The Bible also says that no one knows when Christ will return and when wars will be no more, but we certainly know that there are wars and rumors of wars in which many of the nations of the world are involved today.

BUS SERVICE

To the Editor:

Smoking should not be allowed on buses at any time, and something ought to be done about the gas fumes. It is very unhealthy for anyone who might be sick. The city should take over the transit line for a great many reasons.

Better service for everyone who rides to and from work or shopping or a pleasure trip. Some bus stops are very hard to make out where the stop is because the yellow mark on posts is worn out from the weather. We don't need an eastern firm to run our lines.

EASIEST ROUTE

To the Editor:

A recent statement by John E. Harmon, manpower training director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, to the Wall Street Journal about "the poor attitude of many students toward business" has been reported and commented upon by a number of news sources. It has been reported that not only the students are scorning business as a career, but that faculty members are even ridiculing business.

In 1959, 39 per cent of the Harvard graduates entered business as a career, but in 1964 only 14 per cent did so. The trend away from business is nearly matched by the trend to public and social service. More and more young people, who are spurning business, are turning to social work, teaching, research, government, law and the arts. According to the report this collegiate scorn of business is a disturbing trend which must be corrected by business. The report is implicit in placing the blame on business for the current collegiate image of business.

The most disturbing aspect of this event is that not one of the news sources that I read made any mention of the real causes of the collegiate scorn of business. The ATTITUDE OF GOVERNMENT TOWARD BUSINESS is the culprit which was not mentioned. The attitudes of the Kennedy - Johnson administration and the Johnson administration have been and are anti - business. Kennedy even used profane language in public in condemning the actions of the steel industry a few years ago. Government dictates to business what it may or may not do. Taxes on business are exorbitant. Government controls and regulates business. Government allows taxes, labor, and other operating costs of business to increase, but it does not willingly allow prices to increase to effect an adequate profit. Government attempts to squeeze the profits out of business.

With the government "riding herd" on business, how is it possible for students and faculty to form any image of business other than one of scorn and ridicule? The ridiculous attitude of government toward business removes many if not all incentives for young people to choose business as a career.

Yet it was business and industry, with only a slight amount of governmental interference, that made the United States the great power that it is today. It is the profits of private enterprise that keeps the government in power: yet the government does almost everything within its power to place the stigma of scorn and ridicule on profits and to discourage and curtail trade and industrial growth. The aim of government is malignant; it wants only power and more power, control and more control, regulation and more regulation — in short, it wants the cancer of socialism.

Since the government is dominating business, the chances of success in business are no longer favorable, and our young people, on the advice of their counsellors, are rapidly becoming aware of it. It's a losing battle for an individual to fight the government and our young people are becoming aware of this, so they join forces with the government by entering the occupational fields of public and social service. They are choosing what appears to them to be the easiest and most profitable route; yet, they are not aware that in so doing they are promoting socialism.

The reports imply that Mr. Harmon says it is the obligation of business to alter the collegiate image of business. He is only partly right, but not in the manner he implied. If we could correct the cause of this difficulty, then its image would automatically be corrected. The solution is or should be obvious: the American people should take the government out of business and curtail its powers.

Need more be said?

Aged in the Good

Bad advice arises from the inexperienced. Most good advice comes from those who are too old to set a bad example.

Christian Observance—by Force

Reader Ernst is nothing if not persistent.

In his recent letter he says that we should not discuss any of the "trivial" things about which a great deal could be said; we should not discuss why Sunday is the day that ought to be made sacrosanct by law; we should simply get together and force everyone to do what the "overwhelming number of Christians" want done.

We would like to point out to Mr. Ernst that during the early days of the Christian epoch, so-called, Christianity made its major gains because it was gentle and permissive as a belief. It called for an humble and contrite spirit, self-discipline, devotion to principle and so on.

So long as this theme pervaded the movement, it proved attractive to men in all walks of life. The high and the low, the rich and the poor, were enchanted and came into the fold, gladly putting aside all inclination to control their fellows, and concentrating on living the good life and waiting out that period of time before the "Lord would return again."

But then, in the third century, the Roman government officially recognized Christianity and began to spread it by political and military means. This union of church and state at this early period brought on the most shameful and bloody wars, persecutions, tyrannies, tortures and viciousness to be found in history. Men, claiming to be Christians, became so imbued with religious fervor that they tortured, maimed and made war upon any and all who resisted them.

And this has always been the temptation of the zealot, Christian or otherwise. Convinced of the rightness of his cause, he calls the government to his aid to compel everyone to do what is right as he interprets the right. Even assuming that such a fervid devotee of right may be correct, when rightness is advanced at the point of the sword, by the passing of laws, by jails and fines and imprisonments and confiscations and deprivations. . .WHICH IS PRECISELY WHAT MR. ERNST IS CALLING FOR. . .then whatever rightness might have existed in the objective, perishes in the method employed.

George Ernst means no harm. But he is wrong, dreadfully, terribly wrong. His wish to create conformity on the Sabbath is an atavistic throwback to the days of inquisition and persecution. Nor is Mr. Ernst's approach a reasoned and persuasive one. He as much as admits that he doesn't want to discuss the matter; he wants to hear no dissenting voice; he wants no one to point out the folly of his procedure. George Ernst has made up his mind. The Lord has spoken. Mr. Ernst is to carry out the will of the Lord as he believes it, though economic collapse ensue, though thousands are thrown out of work; through heartbreak and misery follow in the wake of his demand.

Of course the SAVE OUR SUNDAYS committee failed. The men in the committee discovered that they were not of one mind. And perhaps they were also touched with the recognition of the fact that goodness and moral behavior cannot be forced.

But let us not descend to the non-reason of Mr. Ernst's position. Let us consider this matter of working six days and resting on the seventh. Behold, this is what nearly all of us do. No law is required to compel this behavior. It has been a custom of human kind for about four millenia.

Some work from Monday through Saturday and take Sunday off. Some (like most ministers of the gospel) work from Tuesday through Sunday and take Monday off. Some work from Sunday through Friday and take Saturday off. Each is fulfilling the idea of six days of labor and a seventh day of rest. The only schism relates to which day is to be the special day.

Now, in order to compel conformity on a given day, satisfactory to Mr. Ernst, he is prepared to invoke the law, intrude upon the private affairs of millions, increase taxes, call out the police, investigate, arrest, fine and imprison. By so doing, he will not advance respect for the Sabbath one whit. Rather, he will induce hostility toward what he calls Christianity, and in the end, the program will either fail or we will be enslaved in a kind of petty tyranny respecting our personal choices on one day of the week.

We trust Mr. Ernst will consider the merits of early Christianity and stop seeking to invoke his ideas of Christianity by force and violence.

Right to Work

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

This short discussion on the right to work will not include the subject of right to work laws since I hold that the right of a human being to work to sustain his life without paying tribute to anybody, union, government or what have you, is absolute. In my book, a right to work law is just as ridiculous as a right to live law.

One of my correspondents, Loftus Jackson, claims he has a right to work for what he calls a living wage but what he really means is that somebody must be compelled to find employment for him and pay him a salary, regardless. Mr. Jackson insists that this idea is his own but I prefer to believe that Mr. Jackson is capable of better thinking.

One way or another, human beings labor to sustain life. The act of putting food into your mouth requires the expenditure of some energy. Obtaining food requires the expenditure of energy even if you just hold out your hand. If you just wait for another person to drop food into your mouth, you must expend the energy required to open your mouth, even if you swallow the food without chewing. Oddly enough, it is impossible to permit another person to open your mouth unless you expend some energy directed to that purpose, while conscious, and at the moment I am not concerned with unconscious humans other than those who move around appearing, at least, to be conscious.

I contend, then, that human beings possess the absolute right to expend energy, the right to work, to sustain their lives by virtue of their very existence. I also insist they have a right to expend energy for purposes not basically involved with sustaining life, since that energy is theirs by virtue of their existence. They possess the right to sell, barter, exchange or give away the product of their labor, without let or hindrance, or they possess no right at all, in fact. Any act, committed by another person, which interferes with the right of a man to work, is a violation of natural law. Mr. Jackson believes he can force others to labor for his benefit without negating his own right to work but I believe Mr. Jackson is capable of greater understanding than he exhibits when he insists that others must provide him with a job or contribute to his welfare, anyway.

Now, if Mr. Jackson owns or can borrow a knife, he has a right to work and whittle at a piece of wood and if the results please me, I may wish to purchase that which Mr. Jackson creates by the expenditure of his energy. Mr. Jackson, however, is not really concerned with his right to work. His concern is with forcing others to employ him whether he produces something or not. If others do not have a job for him, they must make work for him, dedicate themselves to his support.

In far off Africa, a naked, backward native knew he had a right to work and he labored with his strong hands at carving out carefully detailed, sculptured heads from amazingly hard, tough wood. He added a polish by rubbing them with his hands. I don't know how much the friend who sent them to us paid for the two sculptured pieces but I do know I place a high value on them. To me, they represent the absolute right of a man to expend his own energy, for his own purposes. They add emphasis to my belief that human beings will work and expend boundless energy to create something they may not be able to eat or drink, simply for the joy of creating, or, less simply, for the sake of earning, whether to buy another wife or to purchase something for the wife he has, for himself or for others.

Sure, you have a right to work, Mr. Jackson. Carve out the story of your life and times on the walls of a cave, the rock wall of a mountain. You told me you are smarter than an ignorant savage and I agree; you don't need to prove it. On the other hand, I disagree with your contention that you deserve a living or any other wage, at my expense, that you have the right to force me to support you. You say you have a right to a living, not to charity. Charity does not include the use of force, Mr. Jackson, but you want force to prevail for your support.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 635: "Is foreign aid in the form of an outright gift or a loan?

"Has our nation any control over foreign aid once it leaves our hands?

"Who decides which nations are to receive foreign aid and in what amount?

"What size vote is needed in Congress to pass a foreign aid bill?"

Answer: Some foreign aid is in outright grants. Some is in the form of long-term loans at low interest rates.

There appears to be no control exercised over the aid funds, once they are authorized.

The administration submits its budget to the Congress for approval, listing specific items. Congress then approves or rejects the budget. Sometimes it attempts to set conditions on the grants and loans, but these seem to be broad enough that the administration dispenses the funds as it wishes.

As with most other legislation, foreign aid bills and appropriations are passed by majority votes in both houses of Congress.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—How did the Jimson weed get its name?

A—The name "Jimson" is a shortening of the name of the early Virginia settlement of Jamestown.

Q—Who gave the channel entrance to San Francisco Bay its name of Golden Gate?

A—Sir Francis Drake may have, but J. C. Fremont, one of the first Americans to explore California, claimed he did.

Q—In World War II, how long a time lapsed between Gen. Douglas MacArthur's departure from the Philippines and his return?

A—Two and one-half years.

Q—How fast would a space ship have to travel in order to overcome the force of gravity and leave the earth?

A — The earth's escape velocity is about 7 miles a second, or about 25,000 miles an hour.

A Banner Year

By RUFUS L. PORTER

There can be no doubt that 1964 was a banner year for Colorado Springs and its environs. The population continued to grow as more businesses and industries moved into the area. The city itself was expanded horizontally by nearly 4,000 acres of newly annexed suburban developments. It also expanded vertically by the erection of several new "high rise" buildings, the finest example of which stands at the old "Busy Corner."

Although '64 was expected to be a banner year insofar as new construction was concerned, it exceeded all expectations three months ahead of schedule, and then went on to establish a record that will certainly be something to keep the new year a-humping to equal.

Many old records were broken in 1964, some of them of long standing. More tourists visited the region than ever before in history. More of them drove and rode up Pikes Peak. More people turned out for the Peak races, and even several of the racing records were broken. More money was spent by the tourists for more things. More people were employed in the tourist business. And, from what I gather, we have had more fall and winter visitors than ever before. All this is good.

But it is the new businesses and industries that have moved, or have decided to move, into the area that are the most important advances made during the year. The Springs has long been in need of this type of improvement. Good substantial, year-round payrolls are the chief requirement of any stabilized, forward-looking community. They are also an insurance against the decline and devastation that would ensue without them should the government ever decide to pull out its various military installations, which can never be regarded as permanent, regardless of the protestations of the politicians to the contrary. Tourist business is good, but it is too seasonal to build a solid foundation under a thriving city.

Records were also broken in other fields, as in the number of spectators who attended the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo. And the rodeo itself was called the greatest of them all by many who have seen most of them. And I believe the Range Riders set some kind of a new record — they always do.

And the Pikes Peak Marathon in mid-summer was another record breaker. This is becoming one of the major sports events in the region. It attracts world-wide attention and even pulls participants from many states and a few foreign countires. It is good publicity for the Pikes Peak Region. Maybe we have become a nation of softies, but we can take pride in the large number of men and women who turn out yearly to run a foot-race up the world's most famous mountain. There are higher mountains that are easier to climb than the Peak.

There are probably hundreds of records that were broken in the area during '64. I have listed a few of the more obvious ones.

The city council tried hard to set a record of its own — a record tax take. So far, they have been stymied in their attempt to put over a city sales tax, or something that will bring in another quarter-million over and above the natural tax increase due to the rapid expansion and increased size of the tax base, or, as they say, assessed valuation. I will refrain from mentioning here the record crime rates, the record highway and street accidents, not because I think they should be swept under the rug, but because this is not the proper place to bring them up. Tonight, I am an optimist.

With a year of record growth in all directions behind us, you might ask, "What do we do now, what can we do in 1965?" The answer is simple. We don't relax and rest on our laurels. We don't sit on our hands and say smugly, "Look at what we did last year." We just get busy and break last year's records. The area is on the move, all we have to do is keep pushing. If anybody tries to block the wheels of progress, it will be the politicians. They always think it lies in the other direction.

There is no reason why 1965 can't become a greater year than '64 — unless it could be that the taxing agencies, state and local, scare off the tourists, the new businesses and new industries and, perhaps, force many of the older ones to seek greener fields, where the tax climate is more favorable. Nothing can wither new growth faster than increasing taxes.

The State of Mr. Johnson

President Lyndon Baines Johnson has delivered his "state of the union" message. His outline for the "great society" is nothing more than a blue print for total American socialism. We are clearly approaching the goal announced by Walter Reuther some years ago, when he stated in a letter to his brother that "we should all work for a Soviet America." The only thing lacking was the complete adoption of the Leninist terminology. The "great society" could be viewed as the U.S.S.A. (the United States of Soviet America).

Mr. Johnson has once again demonstrated that he can completely be-dazzle the American people. His proposals, as well as his view of the "state of the union," are so contradictory and so aggressive, that normally intelligent people should be aghast. But the pundits are leaping on the band wagon, letting everyone know that they are "buying" the Johnson syndrome. It's a melancholy example of the effects of election-type psychological conditioning.

Mr. Johnson says that we are the most prosperous nation on earth; that we have wealth virtually running out of our auditory appendages; that we can afford just about anything he can think of. In the same breath he advises that we are carrying a tremendous burden of poverty. There are thousands of "poor" people who are to be assauged by looting the wealthy so that this loot can be distributed.

In the next paragraph he tells us that we have a "passion" for peace. He invites the Russian leaders to come to this country and to make use of American television. But before the echo dies, he tells us that he plans to get tough in Viet Nam and that he will, if necessary, redouble our folly in the far east by waging an aggressive campaign against the Viet Cong in an effort to stamp out communist tactics there.

He tells us further that he is going to mastermind a frugal and an accountable regime. Waste is to be eliminated and expenses cut. While we are seeking to digest this pleasant idea, he tells us of his new spending programs, how tax money must be channeled into the "right" areas ("right" relating to his own political point of view).

He professes an interest and a concern for the individual. Individual living is to take on new meaning. But next, he advises us that we live in a world community and that the state of the individual is going to have to give way to the exigencies of world dominion.

Then he points out that our first concern is to be our own prosperity and safety. But as we gulp in this unexpected news, he reminds us that we cannot be isolated, that our job is to intervene in the affairs of all men so that all men can be "free." Apparently he means that everyone is to be free of all influences save the kind that is manufactured in Washington.

In a very real sense, the full tenor of his talk was a declaration of war against independence and freedom for every American living here. If we understand the meaning of his emotional outpouring, it is that he proposes that the federal government shall take over the country; make the decisions; confiscate the wealth, and plan the future for us all. Nothing is to be left to be privately and independently chosen. He will choose.

He confides that no president knows all the answers. Then he goes on to state that he does know them.

Here are the areas for federal management, financing, control and intervention: Education; health services; landscaping; city building; beauty; depressed areas; crime; delinquency; voting opportunity; art; literature; racial problems; waste; inefficiency; all business and industry (our economy); new opportunities; prosperity; tax cuts; increased government income; war; peace; labor; agriculture; technical training; minimum wages; unemployment compensation; communications; transportation; railroading; the elderly; the poor; research; medical and dental activities; housing; urban renewal; security; parks; playgrounds; recreation; electoral college revision; money.

Here is a man, clad with the brief robes of power, who contradicts himself flatly again and again. He proposes to be all things to all men. He knows no boundaries to his ambition, and certainly he refuses to recognize the boundaries of any personal property or personal rights.

Socialism, here we are.

ON SUNDAY

To the Editor:

Thank you for printing my article wherein I suggested that all Christians unite in passing a protective law forbidding the sale of any goods except drugs, food prepared and served in the same establishment, gasoline and oil. I also wish to express my appreciation for the line of thought offered in the editorial commenting on my article.

As stated in my original article, I know it would be impossible to discuss all of the reasons why, if such a protective law was passed, the day should be Sunday. I mean it would be impossible to discuss all of these reasons in one or two articles in this newspaper. Therefore, I would suggest that we pass over that subject and see if we can't come to agreement among the overwhelming number of Christians of all Christian religions that it truly is the will of God that man "keep holy the Sabbath Day" by refraining from unnecessary worldly transactions of business on Sundays.

Please note that it is my interpretation of "the inspired word" that all unnecessary transactions of business should be refrained from, and that Jesus Christ told us that He did not expect us to refrain from doing necessary work or business on the Sabbath when He related to us the story of the man whose ass fell into the pit on the Sabbath and how He suggested that the man free it. Therefore, as for the closing of all businesses that are needed for the welfare and enjoyment of most of the people, I feel that God would not expect that; but would be well pleased if we refrained from doing ordinary business and shopping on one day in the week and particularly on the day He has set aside for us through His Church which He founded while He was here on this earth. At least, it would be doing something to show Him we wish to keep His day holy.

It is my opinion that each state would have to pass their own laws and I know that some states have "Blue Sky" laws now that would probably have to be amended to permit passing such a law as I suggest. But, where there is a will, there is a way!

Let's get together as Christians to get a law passed in Colorado that would forbid the sale of any merchandise on Sunday except drugs, food prepared and served in the same establishment, gasoline and oil and forget all of the trivial things about which volumes could be written. Let's say we are doing it for the general improvement of the society in which we live. If we could and would do this, I feel sure that other states would follow and that we would be happier as a community for it.

The recent SAVE OUR SUNDAYS committee failed in their attempt to pass a Sunday closing law. I don't know why they failed, but maybe if we would ask God for His help in this, we might have better luck.

NATIONAL DEBT

To the Editor:

The national debt of 315 billion dollars is really a lot of money.

Suppose a right strike of gold were made up in Cripple Creek, and it is mined, milled, and hauled out.

Three hundred and fifteen billion dollars with gold worth $35 per ounce takes 9 billion ounces, or 750 million pounds, or 375,000 tons of pure gold. At 25 tons to the truck it would take 15,000 truckloads or 41 truckloads of 25 tons each per day every day for one whole year plus an extra 35 truckloads on one day during the year (April 1st would be a good day).

If the strike, instead of gold, were made in silver at $1.25 per ounce, then it would take 1,148 truckloads of 25 tons each, per day, for a whole year.

This is just on what the government owes. The current spending rate is 1-3 of the above or about 15 truckloads of gold per day or about 385 truckloads of silver per day.

Truly a lot of money, a lot of metal?

PROMISES AND RUMORS

To the Editor:

"Politicians are a set of men who have interests aside from the interests of the people, and who, to say the most of them, are at least one long step removed from honest men. I say this with greater freedom being a politician myself."

This quotation by Abraham Lincoln, an expert, declares that politicians are different from those who are not politicians, and he ought to know. I am not a politician. However, I did run for office a couple of times and I know that in order to be elected you must promise to do something, even though you know you cannot deliver what you promise. Then of course you have to keep promising in order to stay in office. An election is guaranteed to the candidate who can promise the most to the majority of the people.

Because I know this and because I am sure the past presidents and the present President of the United States knows this, they have my heartfelt sympathy and encouragement to do the best they can.

As a people and a nation we pay tribute to God on our coins, "In God We Trust"; in the Pledge of Allegiance, "One Nation under God"; and our elected officers take the oath of office wtih hands upon the Bible. Yet we seek the power of collectivist action to obtain most of the necessities and some of the luxuries of life, when the Bible says, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things will be added."

It is human to want an abundant life and security. Our President is talking about the grand society in which such conditions would prevail. I would like nothing better, but the Bible tells me that until the Son of God returns to this earth in person and in all His Glory, there will be wars and rumors of wars. The Bible also says that no one knows when Christ will return and when wars will be no more, but we certainly know that there are wars and rumors of wars in which many of the nations of the world are involved today.

BUS SERVICE

To the Editor:

Smoking should not be allowed on buses at any time, and something ought to be done about the gas fumes. It is very unhealthy for anyone who might be sick. The city should take over the transit line for a great many reasons.

Better service for everyone who rides to and from work or shopping or a pleasure trip. Some bus stops are very hard to make out where the stop is because the yellow mark on posts is worn out from the weather. We don't need an eastern firm to run our lines.

EASIEST ROUTE

To the Editor:

A recent statement by John E. Harmon, manpower training director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, to the Wall Street Journal about "the poor attitude of many students toward business" has been reported and commented upon by a number of news sources. It has been reported that not only the students are scorning business as a career, but that faculty members are even ridiculing business.

In 1959, 39 per cent of the Harvard graduates entered business as a career, but in 1964 only 14 per cent did so. The trend away from business is nearly matched by the trend to public and social service. More and more young people, who are spurning business, are turning to social work, teaching, research, government, law and the arts. According to the report this collegiate scorn of business is a disturbing trend which must be corrected by business. The report is implicit in placing the blame on business for the current collegiate image of business.

The most disturbing aspect of this event is that not one of the news sources that I read made any mention of the real causes of the collegiate scorn of business. The ATTITUDE OF GOVERNMENT TOWARD BUSINESS is the culprit which was not mentioned. The attitudes of the Kennedy - Johnson administration and the Johnson administration have been and are anti - business. Kennedy even used profane language in public in condemning the actions of the steel industry a few years ago. Government dictates to business what it may or may not do. Taxes on business are exorbitant. Government controls and regulates business. Government allows taxes, labor, and other operating costs of business to increase, but it does not willingly allow prices to increase to effect an adequate profit. Government attempts to squeeze the profits out of business.

With the government "riding herd" on business, how is it possible for students and faculty to form any image of business other than one of scorn and ridicule? The ridiculous attitude of government toward business removes many if not all incentives for young people to choose business as a career.

Yet it was business and industry, with only a slight amount of governmental interference, that made the United States the great power that it is today. It is the profits of private enterprise that keeps the government in power: yet the government does almost everything within its power to place the stigma of scorn and ridicule on profits and to discourage and curtail trade and industrial growth. The aim of government is malignant; it wants only power and more power, control and more control, regulation and more regulation — in short, it wants the cancer of socialism.

Since the government is dominating business, the chances of success in business are no longer favorable, and our young people, on the advice of their counsellors, are rapidly becoming aware of it. It's a losing battle for an individual to fight the government and our young people are becoming aware of this, so they join forces with the government by entering the occupational fields of public and social service. They are choosing what appears to them to be the easiest and most profitable route; yet, they are not aware that in so doing they are promoting socialism.

The reports imply that Mr. Harmon says it is the obligation of business to alter the collegiate image of business. He is only partly right, but not in the manner he implied. If we could correct the cause of this difficulty, then its image would automatically be corrected. The solution is or should be obvious: the American people should take the government out of business and curtail its powers.

Need more be said?

Christian Observance—by Force

Reader Ernst is nothing if not persistent.

In his recent letter he says that we should not discuss any of the "trivial" things about which a great deal could be said; we should not discuss why Sunday is the day that ought to be made sacrosanct by law; we should simply get together and force everyone to do what the "overwhelming number of Christians" want done.

We would like to point out to Mr. Ernst that during the early days of the Christian epoch, so-called, Christianity made its major gains because it was gentle and permissive as a belief. It called for an humble and contrite spirit, self-discipline, devotion to principle and so on.

So long as this theme pervaded the movement, it proved attractive to men in all walks of life. The high and the low, the rich and the poor, were enchanted and came into the fold, gladly putting aside all inclination to control their fellows, and concentrating on living the good life and waiting out that period of time before the "Lord would return again."

But then, in the third century, the Roman government officially recognized Christianity and began to spread it by political and military means. This union of church and state at this early period brought on the most shameful and bloody wars, persecutions, tyrannies, tortures and viciousness to be found in history. Men, claiming to be Christians, became so imbued with religious fervor that they tortured, maimed and made war upon any and all who resisted them.

And this has always been the temptation of the zealot, Christian or otherwise. Convinced of the rightness of his cause, he calls the government to his aid to compel everyone to do what is right as he interprets the right. Even assuming that such a fervid devotee of right may be correct, when rightness is advanced at the point of the sword, by the passing of laws, by jails and fines and imprisonments and confiscations and deprivations. . .WHICH IS PRECISELY WHAT MR. ERNST IS CALLING FOR. . .then whatever rightness might have existed in the objective, perishes in the method employed.

George Ernst means no harm. But he is wrong, dreadfully, terribly wrong. His wish to create conformity on the Sabbath is an atavistic throwback to the days of inquisition and persecution. Nor is Mr. Ernst's approach a reasoned and persuasive one. He as much as admits that he doesn't want to discuss the matter; he wants to hear no dissenting voice; he wants no one to point out the folly of his procedure. George Ernst has made up his mind. The Lord has spoken. Mr. Ernst is to carry out the will of the Lord as he believes it, though economic collapse ensue, though thousands are thrown out of work; through heartbreak and misery follow in the wake of his demand.

Of course the SAVE OUR SUNDAYS committee failed. The men in the committee discovered that they were not of one mind. And perhaps they were also touched with the recognition of the fact that goodness and moral behavior cannot be forced.

But let us not descend to the non-reason of Mr. Ernst's position. Let us consider this matter of working six days and resting on the seventh. Behold, this is what nearly all of us do. No law is required to compel this behavior. It has been a custom of human kind for about four millenia.

Some work from Monday through Saturday and take Sunday off. Some (like most ministers of the gospel) work from Tuesday through Sunday and take Monday off. Some work from Sunday through Friday and take Saturday off. Each is fulfilling the idea of six days of labor and a seventh day of rest. The only schism relates to which day is to be the special day.

Now, in order to compel conformity on a given day, satisfactory to Mr. Ernst, he is prepared to invoke the law, intrude upon the private affairs of millions, increase taxes, call out the police, investigate, arrest, fine and imprison. By so doing, he will not advance respect for the Sabbath one whit. Rather, he will induce hostility toward what he calls Christianity, and in the end, the program will either fail or we will be enslaved in a kind of petty tyranny respecting our personal choices on one day of the week.

We trust Mr. Ernst will consider the merits of early Christianity and stop seeking to invoke his ideas of Christianity by force and violence.

Right to Work

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

This short discussion on the right to work will not include the subject of right to work laws since I hold that the right of a human being to work to sustain his life without paying tribute to anybody, union, government or what have you, is absolute. In my book, a right to work law is just as ridiculous as a right to live law.

One of my correspondents, Loftus Jackson, claims he has a right to work for what he calls a living wage but what he really means is that somebody must be compelled to find employment for him and pay him a salary, regardless. Mr. Jackson insists that this idea is his own but I prefer to believe that Mr. Jackson is capable of better thinking.

One way or another, human beings labor to sustain life. The act of putting food into your mouth requires the expenditure of some energy. Obtaining food requires the expenditure of energy even if you just hold out your hand. If you just wait for another person to drop food into your mouth, you must expend the energy required to open your mouth, even if you swallow the food without chewing. Oddly enough, it is impossible to permit another person to open your mouth unless you expend some energy directed to that purpose, while conscious, and at the moment I am not concerned with unconscious humans other than those who move around appearing, at least, to be conscious.

I contend, then, that human beings possess the absolute right to expend energy, the right to work, to sustain their lives by virtue of their very existence. I also insist they have a right to expend energy for purposes not basically involved with sustaining life, since that energy is theirs by virtue of their existence. They possess the right to sell, barter, exchange or give away the product of their labor, without let or hindrance, or they possess no right at all, in fact. Any act, committed by another person, which interferes with the right of a man to work, is a violation of natural law. Mr. Jackson believes he can force others to labor for his benefit without negating his own right to work but I believe Mr. Jackson is capable of greater understanding than he exhibits when he insists that others must provide him with a job or contribute to his welfare, anyway.

Now, if Mr. Jackson owns or can borrow a knife, he has a right to work and whittle at a piece of wood and if the results please me, I may wish to purchase that which Mr. Jackson creates by the expenditure of his energy. Mr. Jackson, however, is not really concerned with his right to work. His concern is with forcing others to employ him whether he produces something or not. If others do not have a job for him, they must make work for him, dedicate themselves to his support.

In far off Africa, a naked, backward native knew he had a right to work and he labored with his strong hands at carving out carefully detailed, sculptured heads from amazingly hard, tough wood. He added a polish by rubbing them with his hands. I don't know how much the friend who sent them to us paid for the two sculptured pieces but I do know I place a high value on them. To me, they represent the absolute right of a man to expend his own energy, for his own purposes. They add emphasis to my belief that human beings will work and expend boundless energy to create something they may not be able to eat or drink, simply for the joy of creating, or, less simply, for the sake of earning, whether to buy another wife or to purchase something for the wife he has, for himself or for others.

Sure, you have a right to work, Mr. Jackson. Carve out the story of your life and times on the walls of a cave, the rock wall of a mountain. You told me you are smarter than an ignorant savage and I agree; you don't need to prove it. On the other hand, I disagree with your contention that you deserve a living or any other wage, at my expense, that you have the right to force me to support you. You say you have a right to a living, not to charity. Charity does not include the use of force, Mr. Jackson, but you want force to prevail for your support.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 635: "Is foreign aid in the form of an outright gift or a loan?

"Has our nation any control over foreign aid once it leaves our hands?

"Who decides which nations are to receive foreign aid and in what amount?

"What size vote is needed in Congress to pass a foreign aid bill?"

Answer: Some foreign aid is in outright grants. Some is in the form of long-term loans at low interest rates.

There appears to be no control exercised over the aid funds, once they are authorized.

The administration submits its budget to the Congress for approval, listing specific items. Congress then approves or rejects the budget. Sometimes it attempts to set conditions on the grants and loans, but these seem to be broad enough that the administration dispenses the funds as it wishes.

As with most other legislation, foreign aid bills and appropriations are passed by majority votes in both houses of Congress.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—How did the Jimson weed get its name?

A—The name "Jimson" is a shortening of the name of the early Virginia settlement of Jamestown.

Q—Who gave the channel entrance to San Francisco Bay its name of Golden Gate?

A—Sir Francis Drake may have, but J. C. Fremont, one of the first Americans to explore California, claimed he did.

Q—In World War II, how long a time lapsed between Gen. Douglas MacArthur's departure from the Philippines and his return?

A—Two and one-half years.

Q—How fast would a space ship have to travel in order to overcome the force of gravity and leave the earth?

A — The earth's escape velocity is about 7 miles a second, or about 25,000 miles an hour.

A Banner Year

By RUFUS L. PORTER

There can be no doubt that 1964 was a banner year for Colorado Springs and its environs. The population continued to grow as more businesses and industries moved into the area. The city itself was expanded horizontally by nearly 4,000 acres of newly annexed suburban developments. It also expanded vertically by the erection of several new "high rise" buildings, the finest example of which stands at the old "Busy Corner."

Although '64 was expected to be a banner year insofar as new construction was concerned, it exceeded all expectations three months ahead of schedule, and then went on to establish a record that will certainly be something to keep the new year a-humping to equal.

Many old records were broken in 1964, some of them of long standing. More tourists visited the region than ever before in history. More of them drove and rode up Pikes Peak. More people turned out for the Peak races, and even several of the racing records were broken. More money was spent by the tourists for more things. More people were employed in the tourist business. And, from what I gather, we have had more fall and winter visitors than ever before. All this is good.

But it is the new businesses and industries that have moved, or have decided to move, into the area that are the most important advances made during the year. The Springs has long been in need of this type of improvement. Good substantial, year-round payrolls are the chief requirement of any stabilized, forward-looking community. They are also an insurance against the decline and devastation that would ensue without them should the government ever decide to pull out its various military installations, which can never be regarded as permanent, regardless of the protestations of the politicians to the contrary. Tourist business is good, but it is too seasonal to build a solid foundation under a thriving city.

Records were also broken in other fields, as in the number of spectators who attended the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo. And the rodeo itself was called the greatest of them all by many who have seen most of them. And I believe the Range Riders set some kind of a new record — they always do.

And the Pikes Peak Marathon in mid-summer was another record breaker. This is becoming one of the major sports events in the region. It attracts world-wide attention and even pulls participants from many states and a few foreign countires. It is good publicity for the Pikes Peak Region. Maybe we have become a nation of softies, but we can take pride in the large number of men and women who turn out yearly to run a foot-race up the world's most famous mountain. There are higher mountains that are easier to climb than the Peak.

There are probably hundreds of records that were broken in the area during '64. I have listed a few of the more obvious ones.

The city council tried hard to set a record of its own — a record tax take. So far, they have been stymied in their attempt to put over a city sales tax, or something that will bring in another quarter-million over and above the natural tax increase due to the rapid expansion and increased size of the tax base, or, as they say, assessed valuation. I will refrain from mentioning here the record crime rates, the record highway and street accidents, not because I think they should be swept under the rug, but because this is not the proper place to bring them up. Tonight, I am an optimist.

With a year of record growth in all directions behind us, you might ask, "What do we do now, what can we do in 1965?" The answer is simple. We don't relax and rest on our laurels. We don't sit on our hands and say smugly, "Look at what we did last year." We just get busy and break last year's records. The area is on the move, all we have to do is keep pushing. If anybody tries to block the wheels of progress, it will be the politicians. They always think it lies in the other direction.

There is no reason why 1965 can't become a greater year than '64 — unless it could be that the taxing agencies, state and local, scare off the tourists, the new businesses and new industries and, perhaps, force many of the older ones to seek greener fields, where the tax climate is more favorable. Nothing can wither new growth faster than increasing taxes.

Wired Windows Monument to Joe Namath

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The windows of the neighborhood laundry on Fourth Avenue in Beaver Falls, Pa., are carefully guarded by strong steel wire.

The wiring is Beaver Falls' monument to Joe Namath, who spent a good part of his errant youth smashing the glass panes with well-aimed footballs but went on to become the town's most famous and one of its richest citizens.

Now the towns people—the proprietors of the laundry most of all—look at the wired windows with pride, and say:

"Little Joe, he was a card, wasn't he?"

"When Joe was a boy he busted every window in the place," recalls Joe's mother, Mrs. Rose Szolnoki, who divorced Namath's steel-worker father and remarried several years ago.

"The laundry people were very mad and they kept coming around to make us pay damages. Finally, they put up this steel wiring, and it's still there."

Today Joe not only is in a position to pay for all the broken windows but could buy the laundry and half the town. Star quarterback of the national champion Alabama football team, he signed a week ago the largest contract ever offered a football rookie—$400,000 salary and bonuses for three years with the New York Jets of the American Football League. He plays his last college game Saturday in the Senior Bowl here.

The contract, which also reportedly included a $5,000-a-year pension for life, staggered the professional football world.

Only Beaver Falls, a bustling little steel community of 30,000 thirty miles from Pittsburgh, took the news in stride.

Joe, whose parents are Hungarian, was the youngest of five children—John, now 33, a career soldier in Germany; Robert, 30, a mill hand; Frank, 27, a life insurance salesman, and Rita, 26, a sister living in Philadelphia.

"Joe was throwing a football when he was big enough to walk," the mother recalled. "Bobby and Franklin always got up football games in the front yard. Joe was just five and too little to play, but the boys needed a quarterback. So Joe was it.

"Bobby and Franklin taught Joe to throw the ball over the telephone wires. They agreed he shouldn't be tackled. Joe got so he could throw the ball out of sight and he could hit a stump from 40 yards away."

Namath was outstanding as a high school athlete, playing football, basketball and baseball. When he finished high school, the Baltimore Orioles tried to sign him to a baseball contract.

Joe liked football and wanted to go to college. Scores of big schools sent scouts to court him. His first choice was Notre Dame.

"Joe was flying out so much, I found myself washing and packing and shooing him out the door every day," Mrs. Sznolnoki said.

Namath failed to get into Notre Dame and finally chose Alabama. "I was responsible for that," his mother said. "I made him go to Alabama, and he never quit thanking me."

Alabama assistant coach Howard Schnellenberger, who coached Joe's brother Robert at Kentucky, was responsible for closing the deal.

Paul (Bear) Bryant, head coach of the Crimson Tide, said he hardly got to see Namath as a freshman.

"That was 1961 when we had our championship unbeaten team and I was kept pretty busy," Bryant recalled. "But the coaching staff kept telling me we had a fine prospect in Namath."

This was borne out the next year when, as a sophomore, Namath completed 76 of 146 passes for 1,192 yards and 12 touchdowns. In 1963, he hit 63 of 128 for 765 yards although he was booted off the team before the last game of the season for breaking training.

"I knew Joe wasn't a bad boy," Bryant said. "I talked to him and he admitted he had broken training. He promised never to do it again, and he has been perfect—an inspirational leader—ever since."

A knee injury kept Namath on the sidelines most of the 1964 season and a recurrence in practice five days before the Orange Bowl game made it appear he would not see action against Texas.

"He asked to play and when the trainer said there was no danger I put him in," Bryant said.

Namath, wearing sneakers to dull the pain, proved the outstanding player although Alabama lost a heartbreaker to Texas 21-17.

"This is not only the greatest athlete I have ever coached, he's the greatest I have ever seen," the Alabama coach said. "He is a big, strong boy (6-foot-2, 194 pounds). He is quick as a cat with lightning hands. He is perfectly coordinated, and has a trigger mind. He should be a great pro."

Bryant says Namath reminds him of Babe Parilli, his former quarterback at Kentucky. "He is just like Babe the way he breaks out of huddle and flaps his wings. I've called him 'Babe' by mistake many times."

Namath didn't mix well at first with his teammates but soon became the most popular player on the squad. "When the 18 seniors marched out on the field before the Orange Bowl game," Bryant said, "the boys shoved Joe forward to call the toss. It was a gesture of respect."

Coaching Posts Are Filled For New Mitchell School

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Jim Hartman, assistant football coach at Wasson High for the past six season, has been named head girdiron coach for the new Billy Mitchell High School which will open next fall, the Gazette Telegraph has learned.

Hartman is one of six coaches who have been assigned to Mitchell, according to information which has not yet been officially confirmed by School District 11 officials. However, it has been reliably reported that Dick Powell, Bill Gordon, and Bill Wright, currently on the staff at Palmer High, will also make the switch as will Bob Gill, a member of the Wasson staff at present. Bill Westbay, football coach at Palmer since 1959, has already resigned that job to take the head track and cross country coaching positions at Mitchell.

The Gazette has reliable information that Powell will be assigned as head basketball coach at the new school and

Wright will assist in that sport. Gordon, presently assistant in three sports at Palmer, will be head wrestling coach and the top assistant in football. Hartman will assist in wrestling in addition to his football duties and Gill will be assigned as head baseball coach.

Hartman, a graduate of Colorado Springs High School and Colorado State University at Fort Collins, joined the Wasson staff when the school opened in 1959. He has served as one of Gib Funk's top three varsity assistants with a primary assignment as end coach. In addition he has been head track coach at the northside school and has assisted in wrestling.

Gordon has been the top assistant to Westbay at Palmer High in football and has also been the assistant in wrestling and track. Powell moved onto the Palmer staff just two years ago as the basketball assistant and Wright and Gill are recent additions to the staffs of their respective schools. All three moved up from District 11 junior highs.

Hartman, a former Air Force pilot, will be assuming his first head football job when he moves to Mitchell next fall. The new school will enter competition in the AAA South Central League in all sports. That conference currently includes Palmer, Wasson, Trinidad, and Centennial, East, Central, and South of Pueblo.

District 11 officials were unavailable for comment early this morning but it was understood that the coaches were to be notified of their appointments today.

One other change that has already been announced, in addition to the switch of Westbay from Palmer, concerns Tom Falgien, currently an assistant in three sports at Wasson. He will move to Billy Mitchell as head of the Physical Education department next fall.

Several other jobs, including that of head football coach at Palmer, remain open. Those positions are expected to be filled in the next few weeks, however.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ed Hogan, public relations man for Philadelphia Eagles from 1947 to his resignation last September, has joined the Liberty Bell harness racing track in a similar capacity. Hogan will be associated with the track's Publicity Director Mort Berry.

Morton, Rhome Set For Passing Duel

HONOLULU (AP) — A passing duel between Craig Morton and Jerry Rhome is expected to highlight Honolulu's 19th annual Hula Bowl football game Friday night.

Morton, of the University of California, will start at quarterback for the South All-Stars, while Tulsa's all-time passing great, Rhome, will share the signal calling duties for the North with Bob Berry of Oregon.

"I can't figure how they put Tulsa in the North," Rhome said, "but I'm looking forward to playing against Morton."

Rhome was switched from the South stars to the North two weeks ago to set up the battle between two of the nation's top passers.

The two quarterbacks have both signed with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Morton has an explosive backfield behind him with Gale Sayers of Kansas at halfback, Larry Elkins of Baylor at the flanker spot and either Harold Philipp of Texas or Jim Grisham of Oklahoma at fullback.

The status of Grisham and Sooner tackle Ralph Neely for the Hula Bowl has not been announced.

Both players had invitations to the All-Star game revoked last weekend when it was learned they had been dropped from Oklahoma's Gator Bowl squad for signing pro contracts.

Grisham and Neely later were told they could come here and both worked out with the South Wednesday afternoon. Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas had no comment when asked if they would play Friday night.

The North will start either Rhome or Berry at quarterback, Kent McCloughan of Nebraska at halfback, Junior Coffey of Washington at fullback and Jim Jones of Wisconsin at flanker.

Washington State running star Clarence Williams has been working at defensive back but will be available for duty on offense if needed by North coaches Wayne Hardin and Len Casanova.

Both squads sharpened their passing attacks Wednesday afternoon after visiting the Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor on a morning sightseeing tour.

Top-Ranked Minnesota Put to Test

By United Press International

Minnesota puts its first place ranking in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association on the line this weekend when it clashes with Michigan State in a two-game series.

Minnesota will be after its fourth win in five starts. It will be the first league game for Michigan Tech.

Elsewhere in the conference, the four-way tie for second place among Denver, North Dakota, Michigan and Michigan Tech is expected to become unscrambled. The teams all have .500 percentage records. Tech, Michigan and North Dakota are 2-2. Denver is 1-1.

North Dakota will meet Michigan in the only other league action with the winner taking over sole possession of second place.

All other games will be nonconference.

Denver hosts the University of Saskatchewan, Tech entertains the University of Minnesota, Duluth; and last place Colorado College takes on Wisconsin. All of the teams meet in double-headers over the weekend.

Two Gridders to Direct North in Senior Bowl Tilt

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The North squad came through its first real head-knocking session with two big 10 quarterbacks expected to alternate at the helm for Saturday's 16th annual Senior Bowl All-Star game.

North Coach George Wilson, formerly of the Detroit Lions, put his charges through an unusually rugged scrimmage Wednesday. Rich Badar of Indiana and Tom Myers of Northwestern did most of the passing during the offensive drills.

Outside end Jim Whalen of Boston College and deep flanker Jerry Smith of Arizona State were a favorite target on long pass plays by Badar and Myers. Big Bill Cronin of Boston College was worked on short passes, operating from tight end.

Most of the ball carrying was done by Dick Gordon of Michigan State, Bill Symons of Colorado and Tom Nowatzke of Indiana, along with Missouri's Gus Otto.

Lance Rentzel, Oklahoma back, alternated both with Smith and Whalen, and Len Frketich of Oregon State moved in at tight end on several plays.

The North squad was a day behind the South in putting on pads, but caught up in a hurry. Both squads will be out again today for two workouts, but that will be the end of the tough duty.

South Coach Tom Landry appeared to have settled on quarterback Steve Tensi, the hero of the Gator Bowl victory over Oklahoma, for down the middle work. However, Alabama's Joe Namath, who recently signed with the New York Jets for $400,000, is likely to see action.

Alabama trainer Jim Goostree, who also is trainer for the South, says Namath is doing just fine and he is "capable of putting on the same performance or better than he put on last week."

Namath completed 18 of 37 passes for 255 yards and two touchdowns in the 21-17 loss to Texas in the Orange Bowl, and was voted most valuable player in the New Year's Night game.

Other likely starters on Landry's offensive line-up:

Center Bill Curry of Georgia Tech, guards Frank McLendon of Alabama and Justin Canale of Mississippi State, tackles Jim Wilson of Georgia and Harry Schuh of Memphis State, split end Ray Ogden of Alabama and tight end Allen Brown of Mississippi.

Halfback Jimmy Sidle of Auburn, flanker Bob Hayes of Florida A&M and fullback Larry Dupree of Florida.

Kickoff for the national televisied (NBC) game is 1 p.m., CST., in the 40,605 capacity Ladd Stadium.

T-Bird, Tribe Wrestlers Resume SCL Chase

Wasson and Palmer wrestlers resume the South Central League race today with the Thunderbirds hosting Trinidad at 3:30 at the Wasson Gymnasium and Palmer traveling to Pueblo Central tonight for a meeting with the Wildcats.

Wasson, undefeated in dual competition and winner of a 4 team tournament last weekend, will be favored to upend the Miners.

The T-Birds are 1-0 in league action as they defeated Palmer before the holidays. That loss was also the Terrors only SCL start.

In tonight's other South Central action Centennial and East tangle in Pueblo. Over the weekend Grand Junction makes a two-match swing through the Steel City, meeting Central Friday and Centennial Saturday. Other non-conference competition will see Palmer host Fruita's defending state champions Saturday afternoon and Pueblo South at home to Air Academy High the same day.

The Will Rogers League also swings back into action this weekend. In conference competition Friday Cheyenne Mountain travels to Harrison and Canon City to the Air Academy. Widefield hosts Pueblo County the same day. The WRL opens the weekend stand today with Harrison traveling to Mapleton. Saturday Widefield will be at Castle Rock as the only other action in addition to the Academy High-Pueblo South match.

Tulane, Falcons Set for '67 Tilt

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tulane University said its football team would tangle with Air Force Academy in an Oct. 21, 1967, game at New Orleans and that it was negotiating for another game with the Falcons in 1968.

It was only the second game announced by Tulane for the 1967 season. The Green Wave will play the University of Tennessee Nov. 11 in Knoxville.

Lions Deny Report

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit Lions' spokesman has denied a published report that Sonny Grandelius, recently fired as an assistant coach, would be named head coach of the professional football team next Sunday.

"But he's not the No. 1 candidate," Anderson told the Associated Press.

"He will be given every consideration — but the chances are someone else will get it."

In Hollywood, Fla., where he is vacationing, Grandelius also expressed surprise over the report published in the Detroit News. He said no one had talked to him about the head coaching job with the National Football League team.

"This is the first I've heard about it," he commented, adding that he would take the job if it were offered.

Anderson said no Sunday announcement was planned "at the moment."

But he said a successor to former coach George Wilson probably would be named within a week.

Wilson resigned last month shortly after all five assistant lion coaches were fired.

First Fight Highlights Cheyenne Hockey Win

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The first full-scale fight of the City Hockey League season threatened to erase the usual harmony found around the Broadmoor World Arena during and after games, but coaches of Cheyenne Mountain and Wasson quickly explained it was "just one of those things."

The short but crowded fight occurred after two periods of intense play Wednesday night, occurred after 2 periods of intense play Wednesday night, after Cheyenne center Jeff Thatcher tripped skating down ice at 8:22. For a reason not immediately apparent, players on the ice from both teams suddenly converged at the southwest corner of the rink and began some extra-curricular sticking.

Cheyenne coach Bill MacDonald feared more than anything for the condition of wing Doug Heyliger, carrying 12 stitches in his face from a Sunday car wreck, who was caught in the battle. But all hands escaped without additional injury.

Two minor penalties were awarded to Wasson for tripping and roughing and the game continued. Cheyenne building on its then 4-1 lead to take a 6-1 victory and its fifth straight game. Wasson fell to its second loss in five starts, tying for second place with Palmer.

The condition of the Heyliger twins, Doug and Don, was in doubt as late as Wednesday afternoon. Don had been nursing an injured leg. But both started and it was the firm of Heyliger, Thatcher and Heyliger which laid down the law to the Thunderbirds.

The Indian blue line started slow, its passing "just a hair off," according to MacDonald. Wasson scored first as second-line center Tom Braun snapped a pass left to Brian Thomson, standing on the crease. The first period goal was as much as Wasson could muster as Cheyenne's defense began getting stingy with T-Bird shots.

Cheyenne moved ahead in the second period as Don Heyliger assisted on two goals. The first followed a drop pass after a faceoff and Mark Hays sent the puck home. Over a minute later Heyliger skated down ice on the right, pulling goalie Rick Spencer over. The league's leading scorer then snapped a pass to Ray Bruce on the right. Bruce put it through the unprotected net.

A penalty shot was awarded Cheyenne after officials judged a hockey stick had been thrown on Thatcher's all-alone drive. Thatcher tested Spencer with a short snap in the middle, but the Bird tender tapped it away.

A minute later Thatcher flipped a faceoff to Doug Heyliger for a fourth and conclusive goal. Then the fight another minute later.

Cheyenne added two more goals as the blue line finally found its former sharpness. The Don Heyliger to Thatcher combination clicked again on a two-man drive and reserve Chuck Fuller, making his first shot of the season, tallied unassisted to close the scoring.

Fountain Valley sees its first action of the new year against winless Widefield tonight. Widefield will travel Friday to play Denver's Pioneer Juniors at 6 p.m. as a preliminary to the Denver University game in the DU Arena.

Arkansas Named Rice Awardee

HONOLULU (AP) — "I'm prouder than I've ever been in my life," said Coach Frank Broyles Wednesday on learning that his unbeaten, untied Arkansas Razorbacks will receive the Grantland Rice Award.

The memorial to the late sports writing great goes to the team rated No. 1 in the United States by a five-man committee represeting the Football Writers Association of America.

"This is something I know the people of Arkansas have dreamed about for a long time," he said. "I know that this has to be the proudest moment in the athletic history of Arkansas—for the players, the university and our fans.

"They all rank No. 1," Broyles said.

Arkansas, the Southwest Conference champion, defeated Nebraska 10-7 in the Cotton Bowl game for an 11-0 record—the only major college football team without a loss.

The Razorbacks finished second in the final Associated Press football poll, which was released before the bowl games. Alabama, No. 1 in the last poll, lost in the Orange Bowl to Texas, which was defending national champion and No. 1 when it lost by a point to Arkansas.

The Razorbacks received four first-place botes and one for third. Notre Dame was runner-up with five second-place votes. Texas had one first-place vote and one third-place vote for four points and Michigan received three third-place votes for three.

Alabama received no votes for first, second or third place.

The five-man committee was composed of Si Burick, Dayton News; Fred Russell, Nashville Banner; Blackie Sherrod, Dallas Times-Herald; Steve Weller, Buffalo Evening News, and Paul Zimmerman, Los Angeles Times.

Broyles is here to coach the South squad in the Hula Bowl game which has been won every year by the North.

"It is a great reward for this Razorback team," he said. "The players dedicated themselves to this end after our victory over Texas.

"It required hard work, tremendous leadership and unselfishness," Broyles said. "They improved steadily each week and climaxed the season with a championship drive in the Cotton Bowl against an outstanding Nebraska team."

"We received the greatest support of any team in America from our students and fans throughout the state," he said. "I think it's wonderful for our squad and the state. We had such great effort all year long. I'm as excited as everybody in Arkansas is."

Wired Windows Monument to Joe Namath

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The windows of the neighborhood laundry on Fourth Avenue in Beaver Falls, Pa., are carefully guarded by strong steel wire.

The wiring is Beaver Falls' monument to Joe Namath, who spent a good part of his errant youth smashing the glass panes with well-aimed footballs but went on to become the town's most famous and one of its richest citizens.

Now the towns people—the proprietors of the laundry most of all—look at the wired windows with pride, and say:

"Little Joe, he was a card, wasn't he?"

"When Joe was a boy he busted every window in the place," recalls Joe's mother, Mrs. Rose Szolnoki, who divorced Namath's steel-worker father and remarried several years ago.

"The laundry people were very mad and they kept coming around to make us pay damages. Finally, they put up this steel wiring, and it's still there."

Today Joe not only is in a position to pay for all the broken windows but could buy the laundry and half the town. Star quarterback of the national champion Alabama football team, he signed a week ago the largest contract ever offered a football rookie—$400,000 salary and bonuses for three years with the New York Jets of the American Football League. He plays his last college game Saturday in the Senior Bowl here.

The contract, which also reportedly included a $5,000-a-year pension for life, staggered the professional football world.

Only Beaver Falls, a bustling little steel community of 30,000 thirty miles from Pittsburgh, took the news in stride.

Joe, whose parents are Hungarian, was the youngest of five children—John, now 33, a career soldier in Germany; Robert, 30, a mill hand; Frank, 27, a life insurance salesman, and Rita, 26, a sister living in Philadelphia.

"Joe was throwing a football when he was big enough to walk," the mother recalled. "Bobby and Franklin always got up football games in the front yard. Joe was just five and too little to play, but the boys needed a quarterback. So Joe was it.

"Bobby and Franklin taught Joe to throw the ball over the telephone wires. They agreed he shouldn't be tackled. Joe got so he could throw the ball out of sight and he could hit a stump from 40 yards away."

Namath was outstanding as a high school athlete, playing football, basketball and baseball. When he finished high school, the Baltimore Orioles tried to sign him to a baseball contract.

Joe liked football and wanted to go to college. Scores of big schools sent scouts to court him. His first choice was Notre Dame.

"Joe was flying out so much, I found myself washing and packing and shooing him out the door every day," Mrs. Sznolnoki said.

Namath failed to get into Notre Dame and finally chose Alabama. "I was responsible for that," his mother said. "I made him go to Alabama, and he never quit thanking me."

Alabama assistant coach Howard Schnellenberger, who coached Joe's brother Robert at Kentucky, was responsible for closing the deal.

Paul (Bear) Bryant, head coach of the Crimson Tide, said he hardly got to see Namath as a freshman.

"That was 1961 when we had our championship unbeaten team and I was kept pretty busy," Bryant recalled. "But the coaching staff kept telling me we had a fine prospect in Namath."

This was borne out the next year when, as a sophomore, Namath completed 76 of 146 passes for 1,192 yards and 12 touchdowns. In 1963, he hit 63 of 128 for 765 yards although he was booted off the team before the last game of the season for breaking training.

"I knew Joe wasn't a bad boy," Bryant said. "I talked to him and he admitted he had broken training. He promised never to do it again, and he has been perfect—an inspirational leader—ever since."

A knee injury kept Namath on the sidelines most of the 1964 season and a recurrence in practice five days before the Orange Bowl game made it appear he would not see action against Texas.

"He asked to play and when the trainer said there was no danger I put him in," Bryant said.

Namath, wearing sneakers to dull the pain, proved the outstanding player although Alabama lost a heartbreaker to Texas 21-17.

"This is not only the greatest athlete I have ever coached, he's the greatest I have ever seen," the Alabama coach said. "He is a big, strong boy (6-foot-2, 194 pounds). He is quick as a cat with lightning hands. He is perfectly coordinated, and has a trigger mind. He should be a great pro."

Bryant says Namath reminds him of Babe Parilli, his former quarterback at Kentucky. "He is just like Babe the way he breaks out of huddle and flaps his wings. I've called him 'Babe' by mistake many times."

Namath didn't mix well at first with his teammates but soon became the most popular player on the squad. "When the 18 seniors marched out on the field before the Orange Bowl game," Bryant said, "the boys shoved Joe forward to call the toss. It was a gesture of respect."

Coaching Posts Are Filled For New Mitchell School

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Jim Hartman, assistant football coach at Wasson High for the past six season, has been named head girdiron coach for the new Billy Mitchell High School which will open next fall, the Gazette Telegraph has learned.

Hartman is one of six coaches who have been assigned to Mitchell, according to information which has not yet been officially confirmed by School District 11 officials. However, it has been reliably reported that Dick Powell, Bill Gordon, and Bill Wright, currently on the staff at Palmer High, will also make the switch as will Bob Gill, a member of the Wasson staff at present. Bill Westbay, football coach at Palmer since 1959, has already resigned that job to take the head track and cross country coaching positions at Mitchell.

The Gazette has reliable information that Powell will be assigned as head basketball coach at the new school and

Wright will assist in that sport. Gordon, presently assistant in three sports at Palmer, will be head wrestling coach and the top assistant in football. Hartman will assist in wrestling in addition to his football duties and Gill will be assigned as head baseball coach.

Hartman, a graduate of Colorado Springs High School and Colorado State University at Fort Collins, joined the Wasson staff when the school opened in 1959. He has served as one of Gib Funk's top three varsity assistants with a primary assignment as end coach. In addition he has been head track coach at the northside school and has assisted in wrestling.

Gordon has been the top assistant to Westbay at Palmer High in football and has also been the assistant in wrestling and track. Powell moved onto the Palmer staff just two years ago as the basketball assistant and Wright and Gill are recent additions to the staffs of their respective schools. All three moved up from District 11 junior highs.

Hartman, a former Air Force pilot, will be assuming his first head football job when he moves to Mitchell next fall. The new school will enter competition in the AAA South Central League in all sports. That conference currently includes Palmer, Wasson, Trinidad, and Centennial. East, Central, and South of Pueblo.

District 11 officials were unavailable for comment early this morning but it was understood that the coaches were to be notified of their appointments today.

One other change that has already been announced, in addition to the switch of Westbay from Palmer, concerns Tom Falgien, currently an assistant in three sports at Wasson. He will move to Billy Mitchell as head of the Physical Education department next fall.

Several other jobs, including that of head football coach at Palmer, remain open. Those positions are expected to be filled in the next few weeks, however.

GETS NEW JOB

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ed Hogan, public relations man for Philadelphia Eagles from 1947 to his resignation last September, has joined the Liberty Bell harness racing track in a similar capacity. Hogan will be associated with the track's Publicity Director Mort Berry.

Morton, Rhome Set For Passing Duel

HONOLULU (AP) — A passing duel between Craig Morton and Jerry Rhome is expected to highlight Honolulu's 19th annual Hula Bowl football game Friday night.

Morton, of the University of California, will start at quarterback for the South All-Stars, while Tulsa's all-time passing great, Rhome, will share the signal calling duties for the North with Bob Berry of Oregon.

"I can't figure how they put Tulsa in the North," Rhome said, "but I'm looking forward to playing against Morton."

Rhome was switched from the South stars to the North two weeks ago to set up the battle between two of the nation's top passers.

The two quarterbacks have both signed with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Morton has an explosive backfield behind him with Gale Sayers of Kansas at halfback, Larry Elkins of Baylor at the flanker spot and either Harold Philipp of Texas or Jim Grisham of Oklahoma at fullback.

The status of Grisham and Sooner tackle Ralph Neely for the Hula Bowl has not been announced.

Both players had invitations to the All-Star game revoked last weekend when it was learned they had been dropped from Oklahoma's Gator Bowl squad for signing pro contracts.

Grisham and Neely later were told they could come here and both worked out with the South Wednesday afternoon. Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas had no comment when asked if they would play Friday night.

The North will start either Rhome or Berry at quarterback. Kent McCloughan of Nebraska at halfback, Junior Coffey of Washington at fullback and Jim Jones of Wisconsin at flanker.

Washington State running star Clarence Williams has been working at defensive back but will be available for duty on offense if needed by North coaches Wayne Hardin and Len Casanova.

Both squads sharpened their passing attacks Wednesday afternoon after visiting the Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor on a morning sightseeing tour.

Top-Ranked Minnesota Put to Test

By United Press International

Minnesota puts its first place ranking in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association on the line this weekend when it clashes with Michigan State in a two-game series.

Minnesota will be after its fourth win in five starts. It will be the first league game for Michigan Tech.

Elsewhere in the conference, the four-way tie for second place among Denver, North Dakota, Michigan and Michigan Tech is expected to become unscrambled. The teams all have .500 percentage records. Tech, Michigan and North Dakota are 2-2. Denver is 1-1.

North Dakota will meet Michigan in the only other league action with the winner taking over sole possession of second place.

All other games will be nonconference.

Denver hosts the University of Saskatchewan, Tech entertains the University of Minnesota, Duluth; and last place Colorado College takes on Wisconsin. All of the teams meet in double-headers over the weekend.

Two Gridders to Direct North in Senior Bowl Tilt

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The North squad came through its first real head-knocking session with two big 10 quarterbacks expected to alternate at the helm for Saturday's 16th annual Senior Bowl All-Star game.

North Coach George Wilson, formerly of the Detroit Lions, put his charges through an unusually rugged scrimmage Wednesday. Rich Badar of Indiana and Tom Myers of Northwestern did most of the passing during the offensive drills.

Outside end Jim Whalen of Boston College and deep flanker Jerry Smith of Arizona State were a favorite target on long pass plays by Badar and Myers. Big Bill Cronin of Boston College was worked on short passes, operating from tight end.

Most of the ball carrying was done by Dick Gordon of Michigan State, Bill Symons of Colorado and Tom Nowatzke of Indiana, along with Missouri's Gus Otto.

Lance Rentzel, Oklahoma back, alternated both with Smith and Whalen, and Len Frketich of Oregon State moved in at tight end on several plays.

The North squad was a day behind the South in putting on pads, but caught up in a hurry. Both squads will be out again today for two workouts, but that will be the end of the tough duty.

South Coach Tom Landry appeared to have settled on quarterback Steve Tensi, the hero of the Gator Bowl victory over Oklahoma, for down the middle work. However, Alabama's Joe Namath, who recently signed with the New York Jets for $400,000, is likely to see action.

Alabama trainer Jim Goostree, who also is trainer for the South, says Namath is doing just fine and he is "capable of putting on the same performance or better than he put on last week."

Namath completed 18 of 37 passes for 255 yards and two touchdowns in the 21-17 loss to Texas in the Orange Bowl, and was voted most valuable player in the New Year's Night game.

Other likely starters on Landry's offensive line-up:

Center Bill Curry of Georgia Tech, guards Frank McLendon of Alabama and Justin Canale of Mississippi State, tackles Jim Wilson of Georgia and Harry Schuh of Memphis State, split end Ray Ogden of Alabama and tight end Allen Brown of Mississippi.

Kickoff for the national televisied (NBC) game is 1 p.m., CST., in the 40,605 capacity Ladd Stadium.

Lions Deny Report

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit Lions' spokesman has denied a published report that Sonny Grandelius, recently fired as an assistant coach, would be named head coach of the professional football team next Sunday.

"But he's not the No. 1 candidate," Anderson told the Associated Press.

"He will be given every consideration — but the chances are someone else will get it."

In Hollywood, Fla., where he is vacationing, Grandelius also expressed surprise over the report published in the Detroit News. He said no one had talked to him about the head coaching job with the National Football League team.

"This is the first I've heard about it," he commented, adding that he would take the job if it were offered.

Anderson said no Sunday announcement was planned "at the moment."

But he said a successor to former coach George Wilson probably would be named within a week.

Wilson resigned last month shortly after all five assistant lion coaches were fired.

T-Bird, Tribe Wrestlers Resume SCL Chase

Wasson and Palmer wrestlers resume the South Central League race today with the Thunderbirds hosting Trinidad at 3:30 at the Wasson Gymnasium and Palmer traveling to Pueblo Central tonight for a meeting with the Wildcats.

Wasson, undefeated in dual competition and winner of a 4 team tournament last weekend, will be favored to upend the Miners.

The T-Birds are 1-0 in league action as they defeated Palmer before the holidays. That loss was also the Terrors only SCL start.

In tonight's other South Central action Centennial and East tangle in Pueblo. Over the weekend Grand Junction makes a two-match swing through the Steel City, meeting Central Friday and Centennial Saturday. Other non-conference competition will see Palmer host Fruita's defending state champions Saturday afternoon and Pueblo South at home to Air Academy High the same day.

The Will Rogers League also swings back into action this weekend. In conference competition Friday Cheyenne Mountain travels to Harrison and Canon City to the Air Academy. Widefield hosts Pueblo County the same day. The WRL opens the weekend stand today with Harrison traveling to Mapleton. Saturday Widefield will be at Castle Rock as the only other action in addition to the Academy High-Pueblo South match.

Tulane, Falcons Set for '67 Tilt

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tulane University said its football team would tangle with Air Force Academy in an Oct. 21, 1967, game at New Orleans and that it was negotiating for another game with the Falcons in 1968.

It was only the second game announced by Tulane for the 1967 season. The Green Wave will play the University of Tennessee Nov. 11 in Knoxville.

Arkansas Named Rice Awardee

HONOLULU (AP) — "I'm prouder than I've ever been in my life," said Coach Frank Broyles Wednesday on learning that his unbeaten, untied Arkansas Razorbacks will receive the Grantland Rice Award.

The memorial to the late sports writing great goes to the team rated No. 1 in the United States by a five-man committee represeting the Football Writers Association of America.

"This is something I know the people of Arkansas have dreamed about for a long time," he said. "I know that this has to be the proudest moment in the athletic history of Arkansas—for the players, the university and our fans.

"They all rank No. 1," Broyles said.

Arkansas, the Southwest Conference champion, defeated Nebraska 10-7 in the Cotton Bowl game for an 11-0 record—the only major college football team without a loss.

The Razorbacks finished second in the final Associated Press football poll, which was released before the bowl games. Alabama, No. 1 in the last poll, lost in the Orange Bowl to Texas, which was defending national champion and No. 1 when it lost by a point to Arkansas.

The Razorbacks received four first-place botes and one for third. Notre Dame was runner-up with five second-place votes. Texas had one first-place vote and one third-place vote for four points and Michigan received three third-place votes for three.

Alabama received no votes for first, second or third place.

The five-man committee was composed of Si Burick, Dayton News; Fred Russell, Nashville Banner; Blackie Sherrod, Dallas Times-Herald; Steve Weller, Buffalo Evening News, and Paul Zimmerman, Los Angeles Times.

Broyles is here to coach the South squad in the Hula Bowl game which has been won every year by the North.

"It is a great reward for this Razorback team," he said. "The players dedicated themselves to this end after our victory over Texas.

"It required hard work, tremendous leadership and unselfishness," Broyles said. "They improved steadily each week and climaxed the season with a championship drive in the Cotton Bowl against an outstanding Nebraska team."

"We received the greatest support of any team in America from our students and fans throughout the state," he said. "I think it's wonderful for our squad and the state. We had such great effort all year long. I'm as excited as everybody in Arkansas is."

First Fight Highlights Cheyenne Hockey Win

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The first full-scale fight of the City Hockey League season threatened to erase the usual harmony found around the Broadmoor World Arena during and after games, but coaches of Cheyenne Mountain and Wasson quickly explained it was "just one of those things."

The short but crowded fight occurred after two periods of intense play Wednesday night, occurred after 2 periods of intense play Wednesday night, after Cheyenne center Jeff Thatcher tripped skating down ice at 8:22. For a reason not immediately apparent, players on the ice from both teams suddenly converged at the southwest corner of the rink and began some extra-curricular sticking.

Cheyenne coach Bill MacDonald feared more than anything for the condition of wing Doug Heyliger, carrying 12 stitches in his face from a Sunday car wreck, who was caught in the battle. But all hands escaped without additional injury.

Two minor penalties were awarded to Wasson for tripping and roughing and the game continued, Cheyenne building on its then 4-1 lead to take a 6-1 victory and its fifth straight game. Wasson fell to its second loss in five starts, tying for second place with Palmer.

The condition of the Heyliger twins, Doug and Don, was in doubt as late as Wednesday afternoon. Don had been nursing an injured leg. But both started and it was the firm of Heyliger, Thatcher and Heyliger which laid down the law to the Thunderbirds.

The Indian blue line started slow, its passing "just a hair off," according to MacDonald. Wasson scored first as second-line center Tom Braun snapped a pass left to Brian Thomson, standing on the crease. The first period goal was as much as Wasson could muster as Cheyenne's defense began getting stingy with T-Bird shots.

Cheyenne moved ahead in the second period as Don Heyliger assisted on two goals. The first followed a drop pass after a faceoff and Mark Hays sent the puck home. Over a minute later Heyliger skated down ice on the right, pulling goalie Rick Spencer over. The league's leading scorer then snapped a pass to Ray Bruce on the right. Bruce put it through the unprotected net.

A penalty shot was awarded Cheyenne after officials judged a hockey stick had been thrown on Thatcher's all-alone drive. Thatcher tested Spencer with a short snap in the middle, but the Bird tender tapped it away.

A minute later Thatcher flipped a faceoff to Doug Heyliger for a fourth and conclusive goal. Then the fight another minute later.

Cheyenne added two more goals as the blue line finally found its former sharpness. The Don Heyliger to Thatcher combination clicked again on a two-man drive and reserve Chuck Fuller, making his first shot of the season, tallied unassisted to close the scoring.

Fountain Valley sees its first action of the new year against winless Widefield tonight. Widefield will travel Friday to play Denver's Pioneer Juniors at 6 p.m. as a preliminary to the Denver University game in the DU Arena.

St. Mary's Hosts Regis Friday Nite

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

With a successful non-league campaign and two Denver Parochial League wins to their advantage, Dan Wright's defensive-minded Buccaneers are scheduled for a rugged two-game home stand this weekend.

The St. Mary's cagers, who were figured for a lower berth in DPL standings this basketball season, have compiled a respectable 7-1 won-loss record thus far, including two loop wins over Cthedral and Mt. Carmel.

However, the Pirates are slated for an acid test on the hardwood court as DPL pennant seekers as the St. Mary's five goes against defending co-champion Regis and the loop's top challenger this season, Mullen.

Wright's chargers kick-off their weekend stand against the league powers Friday when they face the perennial kingpins Regis, and the Bucs tangle with Mullen the following night. Both games are scheduled for the Pirates Gymnasium beginning at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday night.

Behind the shooting of their ace gunner, guard Tom McCarthy, who paces the Pirates via a 17.8-points per game clip, the Bucs picked up two DPL victories this week as they shot past Cathedral last Sunday and followed with an overwhelming 64-29 triumph over lowly Mt. Carmel on Tuesday.

The Pirates enter Friday's outing against Regis with several key victories to their credit, including a win over the State AA defending champion Salida and last year's Pikes Peak champion and State AA semi-finalist Cheyenne Mountain. Wright's small-but-aggressive Pirates also knocked off the pre-season challenger to the State Paroke title, Pueblo Catholic.

Harrison's Panthers of the newly formed Triple-A Will Rogers League, which are rated a solid choice to sew up the WRL championship, is the lone team to topple the St. Mary's cagers this season. Harrison slipped past the smaller Pirates, 75-72, in the Bucs' third outing.

Since then, the Pirates have swept to five successive wins.

In addition to McCarthy, the St. Mary's aggregation has three other players picking up in the scoring department, including the Pirates mainstay on the backboards 6-2 junior pivot Tom Socha who has pumped in 74 points in eight games. Sam Zavatti has 66 points while John Van Horn, in addition to his defensive play and rebounding, has 55 points.

HARD AT STUDIES — Jay Wilkinson, star halfback at Duke during 1963, studies in his room at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass. The 22-year-old son of the former Oklahoma coach thus qualifies as a first-hand expert on big-time football and a second-hand authority on sin. Jay Wilkinson Deplores Premature Football Signings

By TIM HORGAN

BOSTON (AP) — Jay Wilkinson, the star halfback at Duke in 1963, is now a student at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge. Thus the 22-year-old son of the former Oklahoma coach qualifies as a first-hand expert on big-time football and a second-hand authority on sin.

It's significant that young Jay remains in favor of the one and staunch against the other despite recent headlines.

"I find no correlation between big-time college football and the unfortunate behavior of a few players," he reported. "I think these cases of boys turning pro prematurely or signing with two clubs are isolated instances.

"I'd hate to see the whole sport of football condemned because of them. I'd be very upset if Duke or any other college cut out big-time football now.

"Yes, I'm definitely in favor of big time football, provided the college doesn't lower its academic standards to have it. I believe that competition breeds excellence, so boys should have the opportunity to compete against the best.

"Remember, a player has to work very hard to make it in the big-time. Only the ones with talent, determination, courage and desire do so."

Then where do these paragons go astray.

"First of all, when so many players are involved, you're bound to have a few bad apples," Jay reasoned. "It's the law of averages."

Besides, Wilkinson suspects it's more a case of stupidity than cupidity.

"I don't know why any boy would want to sign a pro contract quickly," he said. "If he's smart, he'll listen to the offers from both teams that drafted him, negotiate for a while and then make his choice. He'll do much better. But some boys don't seem to realize this, in which case they need good counseling."

They could also use a good bodyguard.

Yet Wilkinson doesn't blame the pros too much, either. In fact, he's seriously thinking of becoming one himself, and he's likely to leap into the clutches of mammon.

"I talked to my dad about it when I was home for the holidays," he revealed. "Of course, I've been out of football for a year, but dad said it's possible for me to come back. I didn't turn pro after college because I always wanted to study theology, which is why I'm here. But I'm not certain yet whether I want to remain and become a minister. I miss football very much.

"The Chicago Bears and Kansas City Chiefs drafted me and I presume they still have the rights to me. Yes, I talked to them last year, which gave me some insight into the pressure a pro club can put on a boy.

"The thing that really surprises me now is the amount of money they're paying the boys, if what I read about Dick Butkus and Gale Sayers is true. I know the Bears didn't offer me anywhere near $200,000.

"I guess the pros are going all out this year, and I don't blame them. After all, it's a business with them and they have to sign these prospects in order to survive. It's not realistic to expect the pro teams to stay away from college players."

Then is it realistic to expect the players to steer clear of the pros until it's legal?

"Yes," Jay said. "I never knew a player who was that tempted by money to turn pro while he was still playing for his college. Every player I knew was dedicated to his school. Of course, when he was eligible to sign, then money became a factor. But why not It's just like any student taking a job interview."

So all in all, football isn't on the road to perdition.

"I don't mean to sound idealistic," Jay replied, "but the answer is no."

It's Coloring Time Again In NHL Pennant Race

Get out the drawing board ane sharpen your crayons. It's coloring time around the National Hockey League.

Let's start with Montreal Canadiens Coach Toe Blake. Color him purple for furious after his league-leading Habs blew a two goal lead and finally lost to Detroit 5-4 on Norm Ullman's goal in the last 20 seconds Wednesday night.

Switch to New York Coach Red Sullivan. Color him — what else but red — for being bright enough to take some between periods advice from Ranger General Manager Emile Francis. It was the GM's suggestion that led Sully to give Lou Angotti a full turn in the third period and the rookie responded by scoring the go-ahead goal in what became a 5-2 New York victory over Boston.

Now for Toronto Maple Leaf rookie Britt Selby. Color him green — but not very. The youngster, playing in his second NHL game, scored his second goal and it turned out to be the winner in a 3-1 Leaf victory over Chicago.

And as for Detroit left wing Ted Lindsay, color him blue since he's $75 lighter in the wallet after sitting out the shortest suspension in NHL history.

Blake turned every color in your crayon box after the Canadiens charged to a 3-1 first period bulge and then blew it against the Red Wings.

Ron Murphy scored two power play goals in Detroit's comeback and then Ullman, who had two assists earlier in the game, whipped in the winning goal at 19:42 of the third period.

When reporters approached Blake after the game, he moved away, saying "go away, leave me alone."

Sullivan was in a talkative mood after the Rangers had recovered from two mediocre periods against the Bruins with three goals in the final 20 minutes. Angotti, who spent most of the game on the bench, scored the lead goal breaking a 2-2 tie in the first three minutes of the third period.

"Credit Emile Francis with that one," Sully smiled. "He suggested using Angotti to pip up our third line and he sure got the job done." Francis' suggestion came between the second and third periods and sprung Angotti from the end of the bench to play a key role in New York's first victory at home since Nov. 25.

The Leafs, strapped by injuries to George Armstrong, Andy Bathgate, Dave Keon and Ron Ellis, were a bit shy on manpower but Selby, an amateur on a five-game trial with Toronto, came through.

Lindsay's Suspension by NHL Is Short-Lived

MONTREAL (AP) — Volatile Ted Lindsay was suspended from the National Hockey League Wednesday and reinstated in record time after he paid $75 in fines and apologized in writing for his public criticism of the league, its president and its referees.

The veteran left-winger, making a comeback this season with the Detroit Red Wings, said Wednesday night he signed "under protest" a letter an NHL spokesman said was drafted by Clarence Campbell, president of the league.

Suspended shortly before 6 p.m., Lindsay was reinstated in time to join a pre-game practice session at the Forum at 7:30 p.m. The NHL said this was its shortest suspension ever.

Lindsay later took part in Detroit's 5-4 victory over Montreal.

Lindsay was called on the carpet for remarks he made following Detroit's 3-1 loss to the Maple Leafs in Toronto last Saturday night.

He drew a misconduct and a game misconduct penalty in that contest and threatened later to withhold the $75 in automatic fines that go with the penalties. He said he would not "sit for Campbell's kangaroo court" and described NHL referees as "nothing."

The letter of apology, which accompanied Lindsay's personal check for $75, covered five points Campbell said were essential conditions for reinstatement.

Payment of the fines was one of the conditions. Lindsay also withdrew his "challenge to the league's disciplinary powers," acknowledged Campbell's disciplinary authority and integrity and apologized for any embarrassment caused.

This satisfied the NHL. A league spokesman said later that "the case against Lindsay now is closed."

The fiery left-winger spent 20 minutes in Campbell's office Wednesday and Detroit Coach Sid Abel conferred with the league president for 1½ hours.

Campbell disclosed that Lindsay had written him two letters intended to provide a retraction and apology, but neither was suitable. He declined to release them for publication.

Lindsay first decided to appeal Wednesday's suspension as well, but apparently changed his mind.

He wasn't talking about it after Wednesday night's game, except to say he had signed under protest. "I didn't want to hurt the club."

Air Force Has Busy Slate Topped by Cagers' Return

An extremely busy winter sports schedule for Air Force Academy teams gets started in earnest this weekend, although only two of the varsity teams will be on home grounds.

Those at home will be the AFA basketball squad, facing the University of Denver at 8 p.m. this Saturday, and the Air Force wrestling team which will be in action against a strong Colorado Mines lineup at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Cadet Gymnasium.

Otherwise, five other varsity teams will be on the road as the Cadets resume their schedule following a break for the holidays. The slate has the fencing team at Madison, Wis., gymnastics squad at Champaign, Ill., rifle team at Tempe, Ariz., skiers at Crested Butte, Colo., and the swimmers in Denver.

Freshman teams will also be busy with the yearling basketball squad playing a prelim to the varsity contest against Denver at 6 p.m. Saturday, and the Frosh wrestlers meeting Mines at noon the same day.

WRESTLING — Still smarting from a 29-3 defeat at Michigan State in their first meet of the season, the Air Force wrestling team will be out to even the record this Saturday, when they host Colorado School of Mines.

This will be one of the only three home-stands scheduled for the Falcon grapplers this year. The other two will come in February, when the Falcons host Montana State College on Feb. 6, and New Mexico University on Feb. 13.

Forming the nucleus of coach Karl Kitt's squad, this year, are seniors Howard Thompson (130-pounds), John Angell, Mark Mutchler and Lee Hollingsworth (157), and Al Pfeltz, who is competing this season in the 177-pound category.

FENCING—The fencing team will open its 1965 season on Saturday, as the Falcons journey to Madison, Wis., and a rugged four-way match with the Uni-State and Detroit. The Cadet versity of Wisconsin, Wayne will be out to avoid a season opening loss they suffered last year before going on to recording 10 straight wins. The loss last year snapped a 38-meet win skein, the longest in Academy history.

If the Falcons could emerge victorious this week they just night be on their way to another long streak, as Saturday's opponents are rated among the strongest in the nation.

Coach Nick Toth will be counting on veterans Eugene Pottenger, Jim Heisz and Ray Salzarulo in the foil; John Prenez and John Cunningham in the sabre; and returning All-American Jock Patterson in the epee.

SKIING — The Air Force ski team managed a seventh place finish last weekend in the New Year's Intercollegiate Meet at Steamboat Springs, in the first competition of the season for the Falcons.

Said Coach Jim Halvorson, "Our performance was real encouraging. Several of our skiers showed extremely well for this early in the season. Actually, a couple of untimely falls in the slalom and downhill were the only things to keep us out of sixth place in the 10 team field."

The meet was won by Colorado, with Denver, Utah, Wyoming and Ft. Lewis finishing in that order ahead of the Falcons.

Hoping to eliminate the costly miscues, the Cadets go back into action again this week, participating in the Western State Invitational to be held at Crested Butte.

SWIMMING — With head coach Bob Nugent beached with an illness, the Academy swim team will tangle with a star-studded cast, this Saturday, when they compete in the Denver Invitational Relays at Denver University.

The Falcons take a 1-1 dual meet record into the Relays, having lost their opener to Cincinnati, 55-39, before posting a 66-28 win over Colorado. Other teams slated to compete in the Denver Invitational are Colorado, Wyoming and Ft. Lewis A&M.

GYMNASTICS — The gymnastics team will engage in its first dual meet, this Saturday, when it journeys to Champaign, Ill., and a clash with powerful Illinois.

In their only other team appearance this year, the Falcons competed in the Colorado University Invitational held Dec. 7 in Boulder, but found the going tough and finished third behind Denver and Colorado.

Two members of the Air Force Academy won Gold Medals over the Holidays while attending the Western Gymnastics Clinic held in Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 26-31. Lt. Greg Weiss, Falcon freshman gymnastics coach, and Cadet Terry Higgins, a standout member of the varsity gym team, each won gold medals during the East-West Gymnastics Meet held Dec. 28 in conjunction with the Clinic.

Weiss, a former American Olympic competitor, took first place on the parallel bars, while Higgins took similar honors on the horizontal bar. Two days later, in the all-around competition, Weiss placed third behind two other Olympians, and Higgins placed 14th. More than 30 top-notch gymnasts from across the country competed in this event.

By virtue of his wins, Weiss is now a member of the six-man national team, scheduled to compete in Mexico City sometime in late January.

PISTOL — Already the winner of 12 postal matches, the Falcons pistol team will continue shooting-up the mail until Jan. 16, when they'll make their only road trip of the season — to New York — and a shoulder-to-shoulder with arch-enemy West Point.

With only three shoulder-to-shoulder meets scheduled for the season, the squad will play host on Jan. 23 to Ohio State, and again on Jan. 27 to Villanova.

RIFLE — The rifle team makes the first of its three road trips, this Saturday, to meet Arizona State in Tempe, Ariz., in what is also the season opener. The team will also join the pistol squad in a Jan. 16 meeting with Army at West Point, and in early February will be on hand in Laramie, Wyo., for the Rocky Mountain Sectional.

U.S. Team Winless In Tournament

TORONTO (AP) — The United States had the only winless team Wednesday night after three more rounds in the tournament of champions curling championships.

The U.S. foursome from Duluth, Minn., skipped by Bob Magie, lost in the second round to Ontario 7-6, then dropped a 17-5 decision to Manitoba in the third round and fell 9-6 to Northern Ontario in the fourth round.

Howell's Field Goal Streak Ends at Sixteen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston and San Francisco maintained their streaks, but Baltimore's Bailey Howell couldn't keep his going.

The Celtics trounced St. Louis 138-106 for their ninth straight National Basketball Association Wednesday night while San Francisco suffered its 10th consecutive defeat 121-102 at the hands of Philadelphia.

Howell, though, failed to gain an NBA record for consecutive field goals made as the Bullets downed Detroit 129-121. In the other game Cincinnati stopped New York 116-102.

Howell had connected on 16 straight field goals going into the game. Wilt Chamberlain holds the record of 19. The first shot the Bullets' ace tried, however, was blocked. Still, he went on to put in 10 of 17 tries and led all scorers with 28 points.

The victory moved the Bullets to within one game of second-place St. Louis in the Western division. Howell helped Baltimore pull away from the Pistons in the last quarter with two quick baskets at the start of the period.

Coach Red Auerbach used his second stringers for more than half of Boston's 16th victory in 17 games, but St. Louis never got closer than 23 points in the second half. Rookies Ron Bonham, with 19 points, and Mel Counts, with 18, topped the Celtics' scorers.

Bob Pettit, coaching the Hawks in the absence of the flu-ridden Richie Guerin, was held to six points, one of the lowest outputs in his career.

The Warriors continued along their hapless path, falling before the 76ers' 46-point outburst in the fourth quarter. Johnny Kerr scored 13 points and Larry Costello 10 as Philadelphia pulled away from a three-point lead at the end of three quarters.

The Warriors, who are lodged in last place in the west, haven't won since Dec. 18 when they defeated the 76ers. The Celtics, on the other hand, haven't lost since Dec. 17.

Cincinnati nearly blew a big lead built in the first quarter. The Knicks tied the game 89-89 early in the fourth quarter on Len Chappell's push shot, but the Royals whipped in 10 points in the next couple of minutes while holding New York to two.

Oscar Robertson sparked the Royals with 28 points, 20 rebounds and 16 assists.

St. Mary's Hosts Regis Friday Nite

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

With a successful non-league campaign and two Denver Parochial League wins to their advantage, Dan Wright's defensive-minded Buccaneers are scheduled for a rugged two-game home stand this weekend.

The St. Mary's cagers, who were figured for a lower berth in DPL standings this basketball season, have compiled a respectable 7-1 won-loss record thus far, including two loop wins over Cthedral and Mt. Carmel.

However, the Pirates are slated for an acid test on the hardwood court as DPL pennant seekers as the St. Mary's five goes against defending co-champion Regis and the loop's top challenger this season, Mullen.

Wright's chargers kick-off their weekend stand against the league powers Friday when they face the perennial kingpins Regis, and the Bucs tangle with Mullen the following night. Both games are scheduled for the Pirates Gymnasium beginning at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday night.

Behind the shooting of their ace gunner, guard Tom McCarthy, who paces the Pirates via a 17.8-points per game clip, the Bucs picked up two DPL victories this week as they shot past Cathedral last Sunday and followed with an overwhelming 64-29 triumph over lowly Mt. Carmel on Tuesday.

The Pirates enter Friday's outing against Regis with several key victories to their credit, including a win over the State AA defending champion Salida and last year's Pikes Peak champion and State AA semi-finalist Cheyenne Mountain. Wright's small-but-aggressive Pirates also knocked off the pre-season challenger to the State Paroke title, Pueblo Catholic.

Harrison's Panthers of the newly formed Triple-A Will Rogers League, which are rated a solid choice to sew up the WRL championship, is the lone team to topple the St. Mary's cagers this season. Harrison slipped past the smaller Pirates, 75-72, in the Bucs' third outing.

Since then, the Pirates have swept to five successive wins.

In addition to McCarthy, the St. Mary's aggregation has three other players picking up in the scoring department, including the Pirates mainstay on the backboards 6-2 junior pivot Tom Socha who has pumped in 74 points in eight games. Sam Zavatti has 66 points while John Van Horn, in addition to his defensive play and rebounding, has 55 points.

HARD AT STUDIES — Jay Wilkinson, star halfback at Duke during 1963, studies in his room at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass. The 22-year-old son of the former Oklahoma coach thus qualifies as a first-hand expert on big-time football and a second-hand authority on sin. Wilkinson said, "I find no correlation between big-time college football and the unfortunate behavior of a few players. I think these cases of boys turning pro prematurely or signing with two clubs are isolated instances."

Jay Wilkinson Deplores Premature Football Signings

By TIM HORGAN

BOSTON (AP) — Jay Wilkinson, the star halfback at Duke in 1963, is now a student at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge. Thus the 22-year-old son of the former Oklahoma coach qualifies as a first-hand expert on big-time football and a second-hand authority on sin.

It's significant that young Jay remains in favor of the one and staunch against the other despite recent headlines.

"I find no correlation between big-time college football and the unfortunate behavior of a few players," he reported. "I think these cases of boys turning pro prematurely or signing with two clubs are isolated instances.

"I'd hate to see the whole sport of football condemned because of them. I'd be very upset if Duke or any other college cut out big-time football now.

"Yes, I'm definitely in favor of big time football, provided the college doesn't lower its academic standards to have it. I believe that competition breeds excellence, so boys should have the opportunity to compete against the best.

"Remember, a player has to work very hard to make it in the big-time. Only the ones with talent, determination, courage and desire do so."

Then where do these paragons go astray.

"First of all, when so many players are involved, you're bound to have a few bad apples," Jay reasoned. "It's the law of averages."

Besides, Wilkinson suspects it's more a case of stupidity than cupidity.

"I don't know why any boy would want to sign a pro contract quickly," he said. "If he's smart, he'll listen to the offers from both teams that drafted him, negotiate for a while and then make his choice. He'll do much better. But some boys don't seem to realize this, in which case they need good counseling."

They could also use a good bodyguard.

Yet Wilkinson doesn't blame the pros too much, either. In fact, he's seriously thinking of becoming one himself, and he's likely to leap into the clutches of mammon.

"I talked to my dad about it when I was home for the holidays," he revealed. "Of course, I've been out of football for a year, but dad said it's possible for me to come back. I didn't turn pro after college because I always wanted to study theology, which is why I'm here. But I'm not certain yet whether I want to remain and become a minister. I miss football very much.

"The Chicago Bears and Kansas City Chiefs drafted me and I presume they still have the rights to me. Yes, I talked to them last year, which gave me some insight into the pressure a pro club can put on a boy.

"The thing that really surprises me now is the amount of money they're paying the boys, if what I read about Dick Butkus and Gale Sayers is true. I know the Bears didn't offer me anywhere near $200,000.

"I guess the pros are going all out this year, and I don't blame them. After all, it's a business with them and they have to sign these prospects in order to survive. It's not realistic to expect the pro teams to stay away from college players."

Then is it realistic to expect the players to steer clear of the pros until it's legal?

"Yes," Jay said. "I never knew a player who was that tempted by money to turn pro while he was still playing for his college. Every player I knew was dedicated to his school. Of course, when he was eligible to sign, then money became a factor. But why not It's just like any student taking a job interview."

So all in all, football isn't on the road to perdition.

"I don't mean to sound idealistic," Jay replied, "but the answer is no."

Ron Murphy scored two power play goals in Detroit's comeback and then Ullman, who had two assists earlier in the game, whipped in the winning goal at 19:42 of the third period.

When reporters approached Blake after the game, he moved away, saying "go away, leave me alone."

Sullivan was in a talkative mood after the Rangers had recovered from two mediocre periods against the Bruins with three goals in the final 20 minutes. Angotti, who spent most of the game on the bench, scored the lead goal breaking a 2-2 tie in the first three minutes of the third period.

"Credit Emile Francis with that one," Sully smiled. "He suggested using Angotti to pip up our third line and he sure got the job done." Francis' suggestion came between the second and third periods and sprung Angotti from the end of the bench to play a key role in New York's first victory at home since Nov. 25.

The Leafs, strapped by injuries to George Armstrong, Andy Bathgate, Dave Keon and Ron Ellis, were a bit shy on manpower but Selby, an amateur on a five-game trial with Toronto, came through.

Lindsay's Suspension by NHL Is Short-Lived

MONTREAL (AP) — Volatile Ted Lindsay was suspended from the National Hockey League Wednesday and reinstated in record time after he paid $75 in fines and apologized in writing for his public criticism of the league, its president and its referees.

The veteran left-winger, making a comeback this season with the Detroit Red Wings, said Wednesday night he signed "under protest" a letter an NHL spokesman said was drafted by Clarence Campbell, president of the league.

Suspended shortly before 6 p.m., Lindsay was reinstated in time to join a pre-game practice session at the Forum at 7:30 p.m. The NHL said this was its shortest suspension ever.

Lindsay later took part in Detroit's 5-4 victory over Montreal.

Lindsay was called on the carpet for remarks he made following Detroit's 3-1 loss to the Maple Leafs in Toronto last Saturday night.

He drew a misconduct and a game misconduct penalty in that contest and threatened later to withhold the $75 in automatic fines that go with the penalties. He said he would not "sit for Campbell's kangaroo court" and described NHL referees as "nothing."

The letter of apology, which accompanied Lindsay's personal check for $75, covered five points Campbell said were essential conditions for reinstatement.

Payment of the fines was one of the conditions. Lindsay also withdrew his "challenge to the league's disciplinary powers," acknowledged Campbell's disciplinary authority and integrity and apologized for any embarrassment caused.

This satisfied the NHL. A league spokesman said later that "the case against Lindsay now is closed."

The fiery left-winger spent 20 minutes in Campbell's office Wednesday and Detroit Coach Sid Abel conferred with the league president for 1½ hours.

Campbell disclosed that Lindsay had written him two letters intended to provide a retraction and apology, but neither was suitable. He declined to release them for publication.

Lindsay first decided to appeal Wednesday's suspension as well, but apparently changed his mind.

He wasn't talking about it after Wednesday night's game, except to say he had signed under protest. "I didn't want to hurt the club."

Air Force Has Busy Slate Topped by Cagers' Return

An extremely busy winter sports schedule for Air Force Academy teams gets started in earnest this weekend, although only two of the varsity teams will be on home grounds.

Those at home will be the AFA basketball squad, facing the University of Denver at 8 p.m. this Saturday, and the Air Force wrestling team which will be in action against a strong Colorado Mines lineup at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Cadet Gymnasium.

Otherwise, five other varsity teams will be on the road as the Cadets resume their schedule following a break for the holidays. The slate has the fencing team at Madison, Wis., gymnastics squad at Champaign, Ill., rifle team at Tempe, Ariz., skiers at Crested Butte, Colo., and the swimmers in Denver.

Freshman teams will also be busy with the yearling basketball squad playing a prelim to the varsity contest against Denver at 6 p.m. Saturday, and the Frosh wrestlers meeting Mines at noon the same day.

WRESTLING — Still smarting from a 29-3 defeat at Michigan State in their first meet of the season, the Air Force wrestling team will be out to even the record this Saturday, when they host Colorado School of Mines.

This will be one of the only three home-stands scheduled for the Falcon grapplers this year. The other two will come in February, when the Falcons host Montana State College on Feb. 6, and New Mexico University on Feb. 13.

Forming the nucleus of coach Karl Kitt's squad, this year, are seniors Howard Thompson (130-pounds), John Angell, Mark Mutchler and Lee Hollingsworth (157), and Al Pfeltz, who is competing this season in the 177-pound category.

FENCING—The fencing team will open its 1965 season on Saturday, as the Falcons journey to Madison, Wis., and a rugged four-way match with the Uni- State and Detroit. The Cadet versity of Wisconsin, Wayne will be out to avoid a season opening loss they suffered last year before going on to recording 10 straight wins. The loss last year snapped a 38-meet win skein, the longest in Acad emy history.

If the Falcons could emerge victorious this week they just night be on their way to another long streak, as Saturday's opponents are rated among the strongest in the nation.

Coach Nick Toth will be counting on veterans Eugene Pottenger, Jim Heisz and Ray Salzarulo in the foil; John Prenez and John Cunningham in the sabre; and returning All-American Jock Patterson in the epee.

SKIING — The Air Force ski team managed a seventh place finish last weekend in the New Year's Intercollegiate Meet at Steamboat Springs, in the first competition of the season for the Falcons.

Said Coach Jim Halvorson, "Our performance was real encouraging. Several of our skiers showed extremely well for this early in the season. Actually, a couple of untimely falls in the slalom and downhill were the only things to keep us out of sixth place in the 10 team field."

The meet was won by Colorado, with Denver, Utah, Wyoming and Ft. Lewis finishing in that order ahead of the Falcons.

Hoping to eliminate the costly miscues, the Cadets go back into action again this week, participating in the Western State Invitational to be held at Crested Butte.

SWIMMING — With head coach Bob Nugent beached with an illness, the Academy swim team will tangle with a star-studded cast, this Saturday, when they compete in the Denver Invitational Relays at Denver University.

The Falcons take a 1-1 dual meet record into the Relays, having lost their opener to Cincinnati, 55-39, before posting a 66-28 win over Colorado. Other teams slated to compete in the Denver Invitational are Colorado, Wyoming and Ft. Lewis A&M.

GYMNASTICS — The gymnastics team will engage in its first dual meet, this Saturday, when it journeys to Champaign, Ill., and a clash with powerful Illinois.

In their only other team appearance this year, the Falcons competed in the Colorado University Invitational held Dec. 7 in Boulder, but found the going tough and finished third behind Denver and Colorado.

Two members of the Air Force Academy won Gold Medals over the Holidays while attending the Western Gymnastics Clinic held in Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 26-31. Lt. Greg Weiss, Falcon freshman gymnastics coach, and Cadet Terry Higgins, a standout member of the varsity gym team, each won gold medals during the East-West Gymnastics Meet held Dec. 28 in Weiss, a former American conjunction with the Clinic. Olympic competitor, took first place on the parallel bars, while Higgins took similar honors on the horizontal bar. Two days later, in the all-around competition, Weiss placed third behind two other Olympians, and Higgins placed 14th. More than 30 top-notch gymnasts from across the country competed in this event.

By virtue of his wins, Weiss is now a member of the six-man national team, scheduled to compete in Mexico City sometime in late January.

PISTOL — Already the winner of 12 postal matches, the Falcons pistol team will continue shooting-up the mail until Jan. 16, when they'll make their only road trip of the season — to New York — and a shoulder-to-shoulder with arch-enemy West Point.

With only three shoulder-to-shoulder meets scheduled for the season, the squad will play host on Jan. 23 to Ohio State, and again on Jan. 27 to Villanova.

RIFLE — The rifle team makes the first of its three road trips, this Saturday, to meet Arizona State in Tempe, Ariz., in what is also the season opener. The team will also join the pistol squad in a Jan. 16 meeting with Army at West Point, and in early February will be on hand in Laramie, Wyo., for the Rocky Mountain Sectional.

U.S. Team Winless In Tournament

TORONTO (AP) — The United States had the only winless team Wednesday night after three more rounds in the tournament of champions curling championships.

The U.S. foursome from Duluth, Minn., skipped by Bob Magie, lost in the second round to Ontario 7-6, then dropped a 17-5 decision to Manitoba in the third round and fell 9-6 to Northern Ontario in the fourth round.

Howell's Field Goal Streak Ends at Sixteen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston and San Francisco maintained their streaks, but Baltimore's Bailey Howell couldn't keep his going.

The Celtics trounced St. Louis 138-106 for their ninth straight National Basketball Association Wednesday night while San Francisco suffered its 10th consecutive defeat 121-102 at the hands of Philadelphia.

Howell, though, failed to gain an NBA record for consecutive field goals made as the Bullets downed Detroit 129-121. In the other game Cincinnati stopped New York 116-102.

Howell had connected on 16 straight field goals going into the game. Wilt Chamberlain holds the record of 19. The first shot the Bullets' ace tried, however, was blocked. Still, he went on to put in 10 of 17 tries and led all scorers with 28 points.

The victory moved the Bullets to within one game of second-place St. Louis in the Western division. Howell helped Baltimore pull away from the Pistons in the last quarter with two quick baskets at the start of the period.

Coach Red Auerbach used his second stringers for more than half of Boston's 16th victory in 17 games, but St. Louis never got closer than 23 points in the second half. Rookies Ron Bonham, with 19 points, and Mel Counts, with 18, topped the Celtics' scorers.

Bob Pettit, coaching the Hawks in the absence of the flu-ridden Richie Guerin, was held to six points, one of the lowest outputs in his career.

The Warriors continued along their hapless path, falling before the 76ers' 46-point outburst in the fourth quarter. Johnny Kerr scored 13 points and Larry Costello 10 as Philadelphia pulled away from a three-point lead at the end of three quarters.

The Warriors, who are lodged in last place in the west, haven't won since Dec. 18 when they defeated the 76ers. The Celtics, on the other hand, haven't lost since Dec. 17.

Cincinnati nearly blew a big lead built in the first quarter. The Knicks tied the game 89-89 early in the fourth quarter on Len Chappell's push shot, but the Royals whipped in 10 points in the next couple of minutes while holding New York to two.

Oscar Robertson sparked the Royals with 28 points, 20 rebounds and 16 assists.

Peterpat Show Given Good Critical Notice

There are just two performers in the show, which continues a recent Broadway trend to small casts. But they are Dick Shawn, a champion clown, and Joan Hackett, a winsome White Way debutante who makes a perfect foil in this merry, warm-hearted jest about the tribulations of marriage.

Enid Rudd hasn't wirtten anthing very novel or substantial into her script about a young couple who wed on the brink of parenthood, bust up after attaining affluence and then sentimentally go back together.

Her comic sense is keen, however, and Shawn distills the essence of ridiculous complacency with a non-stop assortment of visual gags. The charade winds up with an hilariously rowdy bedroom rumpus into which Miss Hackett leaps with comedic verve.

Joy Layton's direction is fluid and swift, utilizing to the hilt David Hays' prankishly gimmicked scenic assortment. Give a hand, too, to Louise Rush, who mischievously grins down like a benevolent pixie upon the audience from a stageside box as she plays oldtime song hits on an electirc organ.

"Peterpat" is a go-see show — just for fun.

Prisoner Kicks Hole in Jail Wall

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff's officers said James W. Baxley, 26, kicked a hole in his cell wall and went five floors down a cable in an elevator shaft to escape the county jail Wednesday.

Police recaptured him a few hours later in Fort Worth, 90 miles southwest of here.

Baxley, from Sulphur Springs, Tex., was jailed Dec. 10 on a charge of assault to murder.

Number Two Man Seeks Top Steelmen's Post

BY BOB VOELKER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I. W. Abel is trying to win control of a big union in a way that has rarely, if ever, succeeded in the history of American unionism.

The secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers Union is attempting to move up from the union's No. 2 spot by unseating President David McDonald in the union's election Feb. 9.

Traditionally, the leadership of major unions has changed mainly through death or retirement. High-level internal rebellions have been few.

Abel is confident of victory. "We never had any question about it," he said Wednesday.

Abel, 56, hopes to ride to the top on the strength of rank and file discontent which he says runs deep and wide in the million-member union. He claims the mill hand has lost his voice in union affairs and too much authority is now concentrated in the hands of "technicians, experts and lawyers."

In an interview in his Pittsburgh office, Abel said:

"The discontent has been evident throughout the country the past several years. It was evident in the last negotiations when some locals at first refused to sign because they felt there had not been proper consideration of the membership."

That 1963 contract was negotiated by the Joint Union-Management Human Relations Committee in a concept of bargaining that has been described as "mutual trusteeship." The contract was rewritten without a formal reopening, a first in the industry.

Some of McDonald's opponents have accused him of turning the USW into a "company union," meaning it has leaned too far in favor of the management viewpoint.

Abel also finds fault in the way the McDonald administration has handled local grievances. He said many have been merely pushed aside.

Abel, six years younger than McDonald, started as a volunteer union organizer and held three successive offices after his local was established.

He was elected a director in 1942 and 10 years later moved up to secretary-treasurer, a post that pays $35,000 a year.

McDonald started out as secretary of Philip Murray, founder of the USW, and was elected secretary treasurer when the union was organized. He moved up to the $50,000-a-year presidency in 1952 on Murray's death.

Battle Lines Drawn Over Water Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI)— New battle lines were marked out today as California and Arizona renewed hostilities in Congress over the waters of the Colorado River.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., prepared to fire the first shot in a Senate speech in which he declared he was again holding out the "hand of friendship" to Arizona.

The California Republican planned to introduce a bill to authorize the controversial $1.1 billion Central Arizona Project on the condition that any resulting water shortage be borne by the new project rather than existing works.

The measure was co-sponsored by newly elected Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Legislation calling for construction of the long-pending project also was expected to be introduced shortly by Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

The two states have long been at loggerheads over terms under which the huge water project may be built.

Rate to Go Up for Home Insurance

DENVER (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner J. Richard Barnes said today rates for home owners package insurance policies will go up 15 to 20 per cent on Feb. 1.

He said exceptionally large losses from wind and hail in recent years were responsible. It is the first revision in home owners insurance premiums since 1960.

Barnes said the increases were approved on the basis of requests from three insurance rating bureaus that represent companies writing at least half of such insurance in the state.

He said coverage that now costs $175 for three years with a $50 deductible clause for wind and hail losses will go up to $187 in eastern Colorado. Similar coverage in western Colorado will rise from $147 to $157 for three years.

In Denver the boost for a similar policy will be to $192 from $180.

OYSTERS AND PEARLS

Although clams, common oysters and other two-shelled mollusks sometimes may all grow pearls, most of our gem pearls come from "pearl oysters" found mainly on America's Pacific Coast, off northern Australia, in the East Indies and in the Persian Gulf.

Peterpat Show Given Good Critical Notice

There are just two performers in the show, which continues a recent Broadway trend to small casts. But they are Dick Shawn, a champion clown, and Joan Hackett, a winsome White Way debutante who makes a perfect foil in this merry, warm-hearted jest about the tribulations of marriage.

Enid Rudd hasn't wirtten anthing very novel or substantial into her script about a young couple who wed on the brink of parenthood, bust up after attaining affluence and then sentimentally go back together.

Her comic sense is keen, however, and Shawn distills the essence of ridiculous complacency with a non-stop assortment of visual gags. The charade winds up with an hilariously rowdy bedroom rumpus into which Miss Hackett leaps with comedic verve.

Joy Layton's direction is fluid and swift, utilizing to the hilt David Hays' prankishly gimmicked scenic assortment. Give a hand, too, to Louise Rush, who mischievously grins down like a benevolent pixie upon the audience from a stageside box as she plays oldtime song hits on an electirc organ.

"Peterpat" is a go-see show — just for fun.

Prisoner Kicks Hole in Jail Wall

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff's officers said James W. Baxley, 26, kicked a hole in his cell wall and went five floors down a cable in an elevator shaft to escape the county jail Wednesday.

Police recaptured him a few hours later in Fort Worth, 90 miles southwest of here.

Baxley, from Sulphur Springs, Tex., was jailed Dec. 10 on a charge of assault to murder.

Number Two Man Seeks Top Steelmen's Post

BY BOB VOELKER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I. W. Abel is trying to win control of a big union in a way that has rarely, if ever, succeeded in the history of American unionism.

The secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers Union is attempting to move up from the union's No. 2 spot by unseating President David McDonald in the union's election Feb. 9.

Traditionally, the leadership of major unions has changed mainly through death or retirement. High-level internal rebellions have been few.

Abel is confident of victory. "We never had any question about it," he said Wednesday.

Abel, 56, hopes to ride to the top on the strength of rank and file discontent which he says runs deep and wide in the million-member union. He claims the mill hand has lost his voice in union affairs and too much authority is now concentrated in the hands of "technicians, experts and lawyers."

In an interview in his Pittsburgh office, Abel said:

"The discontent has been evident throughout the country the past several years. It was evident in the last negotiations when some locals at first refused to sign because they felt there had not been proper consideration of the membership."

That 1963 contract was negotiated by the Joint Union-Management Human Relations Committee in a concept of bargaining that has been described as "mutual trusteeship." The contract was rewritten without a formal reopening, a first in the industry.

Some of McDonald's opponents have accused him of turning the USW into a "company union," meaning it has leaned too far in favor of the management viewpoint.

Abel also finds fault in the way the McDonald administration has handled local grievances. He said many have been merely pushed aside.

Abel, six years younger than McDonald, started as a volunteer union organizer and held three successive offices after his local was established.

He was elected a director in 1942 and 10 years later moved up to secretary-treasurer, a post that pays $35,000 a year.

McDonald started out as secretary of Philip Murray, founder of the USW, and was elected secretary treasurer when the union was organized. He moved up to the $50,000-a-year presidency in 1952 on Murray's death.

Battle Lines Drawn Over Water Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI)— New battle lines were marked out today as California and Arizona renewed hostilities in Congress over the waters of the Colorado River.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., prepared to fire the first shot in a Senate speech in which he declared he was again holding out the "hand of friendship" to Arizona.

The California Republican planned to introduce a bill to authorize the controversial $1.1 billion Central Arizona Project on the condition that any resulting water shortage be borne by the new project rather than existing works.

The measure was co-sponsored by newly elected Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Legislation calling for construction of the long-pending project also was expected to be introduced shortly by Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

The two states have long been at loggerheads over terms under which the huge water project may be built.

Rate to Go Up for Home Insurance

DENVER (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner J. Richard Barnes said today rates for home owners package insurance policies will go up 15 to 20 per cent on Feb. 1.

He said exceptionally large losses from wind and hail in recent years were responsible. It is the first revision in home owners insurance premiums since 1960.

Barnes said the increases were approved on the basis of requests from three insurance rating bureaus that represent companies writing at least half of such insurance in the state.

He said coverage that now costs $175 for three years with a $50 deductible clause for wind and hail losses will go up to $187 in eastern Colorado. Similar coverage in western Colorado will rise from $147 to $157 for three years.

In Denver the boost for a similar policy will be to $192 from $180.

OYSTERS AND PEARLS

Although clams, common oysters and other two-shelled mollusks sometimes may all grow pearls, most of our gem pearls come from "pearl oysters" found mainly on America's Pacific Coast, off northern Australia, in the East Indies and in the Persian Gulf.

Snow Continues To Fall Over Parts of State

By United Press International

Snow continued to fall Thursday over parts of the Colorado mountains and on the state's Western Slope.

Forecasters said there would be locally heavy snow in the southern mountains in Colorado during the day, and predicted gusty winds would whip much of the state Thursday afternoon and night.

Colder temperatures were forecast for western Colorado Thursday night, and for most of the state Friday.

Snow was reported early Thursday on Laveta, Poncha, Monarch, Red Mountain and Wolf Creek passes, and in parts of southwestern Colorado.

The State Patrol said all the passes were snowpacked or icy in spots. Roads also were snowpacked in the Gunnison Valley, Blue Mesa and Sulphur Springs areas.

La Junta's 71 degrees was the highest in Colorado Wednesday, compared to Fraser's three-below early Thursday.

Girl Injured In Fall From Car Wednesday

A girl was injured when she fell out of a car at N. Institute Street and 4th Street Wednesday, the State Patrol reported.

Colleen Cunningham, 13, 3506 Jon St., was taken to Penrose Hospital suffering from abrasions on her left wrist and left knee, according to the patrol.

According to the report, Miss Cunningham was riding in the right front seat of a car being driven by Joseph Straziscar, 16, 3509 N. Jon St., when the accident occurred. Straziscar was making a left turn onto 4th Street when the right door came open and Miss Cunningham fell from the car hands first.

Billfold, Cash Taken From Man's Pocket

A billfold containing $153 in cash was taken from a man's pocket while he was sitting in the Brass Rail Grill Wednesday, police reported.

Donald P. Higgins, Ft. Carson, told police he was sitting in the Grill, located at 133 E. Colorado Ave., when someone took his billfold from his right coat pocket. Higgins said the billfold was taken between 10:50 p.m. and 11:45 p.m. Wednesday, during which time he said he sat on the same stool at the bar.

The billfold was described as being light brown, leather, and containing seven $20 bills, one $10 bill, and three $1 bills.

Stolen Car Recovered Wednesday by Police

A car stolen from the curb between 8 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Wednesday was recovered at 1:20 p.m., police reported.

Ethan Rathbun, doing business at the Westside Body Shop, told police that a 1955 vehicle was taken from the curb in front of the shop, 1609 W. Vermijo Ave. Rathbun said the car, valued at $400 and owned by the body shop, was unlocked at the time of the theft, and police said it was undamaged when they recovered it.

Car Burglarized Of $80 Police Say

A car parked in the parking lot of a roller rink was burglarized of more than $80 Wednesday, police reported.

Gladys E. Nelson, 3221 W Colorado Ave., told police her car was parked in the parking lot of the Roll-O-Rena, 2903 N. Prospect St., when it was burglarized. She said the car was unlocked, and that the burglary occurred between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Wednesday.

A purse containing a $75 Kennedy savings bond and a $5 bill was taken from the car, according to the report.

Navy League To See Sixth Fleet Film

The Navy League Council of Colorado Springs will get an insight of the U.S. Navy's Sixth Fleet mission in the Mediterranean during their monthly meeting at the Swiss Chalet Restaurant, Friday noon.

Commander Eben Leavitt Jr., will present a 30 - minute color film that deals with the activities of the Fleet — from Marine Corps amphibious landings, submarine and destroyer hunter killer exercises, and carrier - based aircraft operations.

This unique film, made by Hughes Aircraft Company, shows the Fleet in operation in a newsreel style, and has been acclaimed as one of the top films depicting the U.S. Sixth Fleet at work.

In addition to this film, Leavitt will discuss the Fleet's mission, as well as point out the problems the Navy faces in cold war situations with various Mediterranean countries.

Leavitt, a former fighter squadron commanding officer, has seen duty with the Sixth Fleet. He reported to the Staff of the Commander Naval Forces in March, 1963. He is presently the Staff's Communications Officer.

Three Charged On Burglary Counts Here

Burglary charges were filed against three defendants in District Court Wednesday.

Herbert Lee Bragg, 23, 614 E. Dale St., and Donald Eugene Woods, 25, 617 E. Dale St. were charged with breaking into Tony's Market, 628 E. Monument St. Dec. 22.

Bond was set at $2,000 each by Judge William M. Calvert.

Frank Eloy Roybal, 23, 418 S. Nevada Ave. was accused of the Dec. 15 burglary of Steve's Sinclair Service, 130 E. Cucharras St.

Bond was fixed at $1,000.

Senior League Plans Landmark Preservation

The Senior League's committee for the preservation of local landmarks will meet for the first time at noon Wednesday in Ruth's Oven.

Invitations have been issued to individuals and groups believed to have an interest in the committee's purposes. Expected to participate, according to Harold T. Seely, committee chairman, are: the City Council, U.S. Forest Service, local chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Historical Society, Senior League, Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames and Pioneer Association.

Seely said the objective of the committee will be to preserve scenic cultural and historic landmarks.

Polaroid Camera Stolen From Store

A camera and flash bulbs valued at $163.55 were taken from a local camera shop at approximately 11 a.m. Wednesday, police reported.

Chris A. Deits, owner of Deits Cameras, 119 E. Pikes Peak Ave., told police the camera was sitting on the counter just inside the store's front door when it was taken. Deits said the camera, a Polaroid model, had been removed from the show window and placed on the counter while the display in the window was changed. He said he discovered the camera missing at approximately 11:30 a.m., when he began to replace some of the articles taken from the window.

Deits said the camera alone was valued at $150.95.

INCOME PROPERTY

A very exceptional opportunity for an employed or retired person to secure a large income from property which has enjoyed full occupancy for past 21 years, because it is ideally located and contains a large number of small highly improved units, each complete with kitchen and bath. These units are of the popular demand type and are moderately priced which is possible because of the large number of units in the property. Our experience proves that there is a constant, unsatisfied demand for this type of apartment. Will yield a high percentage on investment. 634-2706.

Honeymoon Drive Ends in Car Crash

CRASH HONEYMOON

HUMBOLDT, Kan. (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. SandyDaniels left the church after their marriage, friends formed an auto procession to start them on their honeymoon. One driver stopped suddenly, and three cars piled up. A few blocks further, one driver decided to turn left from the middle of the procession. Three cars behind him stopped, but a fourth did not and another pileup resulted. Back home after the honeymoon, Mrs. Daniels went to her parents' home to get some of her things. She failed to see her dad's truck in the driveway and ripped a hole in the side of her car as she was backing out.

ENGLISH ON NORWAY STAGE

NEW YORK (AP) — The American National Theater and Academy is helping out in establishment of an English-ing drama company that plans to start operating in Norway next summer.

The enterprise, currently raising $400,000, is to function on a year-round basis, dividing activities between a home theater in Oslo and on tour of other cities. The opening repertory is to include "The Importance of Being Earnest," "The Tempest," "The Rainmaker" and a program of one-actors by Arrabal, Fry and Shaw.

The California condor can survive sudden changes of atmospheric pressure that would kill other creatures.

Phone Company to Reduce Some Rates

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado Public Utilities Commission announced today that Mountain States Telephone Co. would reduce some ofitslong would reduce some of its long distance telephone charges.

The reduction will save telephone users an estimated $1.3 million.

The present three - minute station rate in effect after 9 p.m. daily will now be effective at 8 p.m. and will apply all day Sunday. In addition, night rates in effect between 6 and 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday will now apply all day Saturday.

The new rates are effective Feb. 1.

Frontier Airlines Discloses Sale of Stock

DENVER (AP) Frontier Airlines announced today the sale of an additional 16,341 shares of stock to RKO General Inc.

The Florida-based firm had bought controlling interest in the airline last Nov. 11. The latest purchase gives it 55.5 per cent of all shares.

The original sale to RKO General by the Consolidated Goldfield Corp. and the latest sale were at the same price — $10 per share.

Lewis W. Dymond, Frontier president and second largest shareholder, said no change in management was planned.

"That a corporation the size of RKO General should put almost $7 million in Frontier — paying above the present market value — shows real confidence in our company," Dymond said.

He said the stock has been selling for $8.50 per share on the American Exchange.

RKO General now owns 667,649 of Frontier's 1,203,160 shares. The company, a subsidiary of the General Tire Co., has holdings in motion picture theaters, radio, television and outdoor advertising facilities.

Patent Office Issues 200,000th Permit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Patent Office today issued the 200,000th "design patent."

A "dispensing container for tablets" became No. 200,000 in a 125-year-old line which includes — among other things— the Statue of Liberty, the Trylon and Perisphere from the 1939 New York World's Fair, the Blue Eagle of New Deal days, and the zip-top beer can.

Jack Williams and Howard Richard of Waukegan, Ill., designed the tablet dispenser. They received the patent in a brief ceremony at Patent Commissioner Edward J. Brenner's office.

Design patents protect products that are unique in shape or decoration but not in function.

WHO'S IN BORGE'S LIMOUSINE?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ellen Beamish, treasurer at Broadway's Golden Theater for 50 years, is going home nightly in a chauffeured limousine.

Victor Borge, whose "Comedy in Music" entertainment is now at the theater, gave Miss Beamish the unusual gift on her 75th birthday. The service continues until her retirement next August.

Patent Office Issues 200,000th Permit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Patent Office today issued the 200,000th "design patent."

A "dispensing container for tablets" became No. 200,000 in a 125-year-old line which includes — among other things— the Statue of Liberty, the Trylon and Perisphere from the 1939 New York World's Fair, the Blue Eagle of New Deal days, and the zip-top beer can.

Jack Williams and Howard Richard of Waukegan, Ill., designed the tablet dispenser. They received the patent in a brief ceremony at Patent Commissioner Edward J. Brenner's office.

Design patents protect products that are unique in shape or decoration but not in function.

WHO'S IN BORGE'S LIMOUSINE?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ellen Beamish, treasurer at Broadway's Golden Theater for 50 years, is going home nightly in a chauffeured limousine.

Victor Borge, whose "Comedy in Music" entertainment is now at the theater, gave Miss Beamish the unusual gift on her 75th birthday. The service continues until her retirement next August.

Opinions Shaded In Regard to Pound Sterling

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Banker, what of the pound? Sterling, that is.

As the world phases out one year and goes into another, there remain several shades of opinion on what will happened to one of the free world's basic currencies, Britain's pound sterling.

Conjecture as to whether it will be devalued — fixed at a lower level—or will be maintained at present rates seems to have come to the point that most quarters agree on: On immediate devaluation.

But the possibility of devaluation sometime in the future seems more a matter for debate; also the question: If it comes to pass, when will it occur?

Some prominent observers have very much a wait-and-see attitude. These believe that the Labor government in Britain inherited a really untidy situation and was forced to take extreme measures to attempt to bring its foreign trade and payments into balance. While it may have acted in such fashion as to cause alarm, it has bought some time in which to bolster the pound while attempting to set its house in order at home.

The Chase Manhattan Bank, which has widespread international commitments, said in a "comment" issued on the last day of the old year that many people "still view Britain's financial outlook with undue pessimism." It said one reason was "unusual drama" in the troubles that the pound has been having in international markets. The other might have been that the government's recent policy measures were underated.

It concluded that the $3 billion credit which was furnished to Britain, plus the Bank of England's own $2 billion reserves and another $1 billion from the International Monetary Fund would put Britain in an excellent position to maintain the present value of the pound "by pursuing a policy of strict monetary restraint."

Now, it said, Britain has been able to turn its attention to the job of improving the (international) competitive position of its industries.

A research report from Dean Witter & Co., New York Stock Exchange member firm, came to roughly the same conclusions. It said odds are "definitely against" devaluation in the next 6 to 12 months, according to most monetary experts; but it found that devaluation over a longer term was possible, depending upon how Britain moves "to get its house in order."

"Devaluation should not be taken for granted (over the longer term), but neither can it be ruled out," the research report said.

Young Demos Blast UnAmerican Probers

DENVER (UPI)—The Young Democrats of Denver said today it had sent letters to Colorado's Democratic congressmen, urging them to support moves to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activites (HUAC).

The letter said the Young Democrats objected to the committee because it "perpetuates McCarthyism at a time when we should be doing everything in our power to eliminate this blight from our national life.

"The right wing in this country, though repudiated this time at the polls, is not giving up, and the HUAC continues to be a powerful weapon in their hands. Countless are the number of individuals who have been smeared by this committee, without a public forum in which to fight back."

The letter pointed out that all 20 of those congressmen who opposed the committee were victorious in the past general election.

Flood Victims Told To Watch Rattlers

BLUE LAKE, Calif. (AP) — Disaster authorities had another warning today for flood victims alerted to evacuate the area:

"Beware of rattlesnakes!"

Officials said the floods had routed out the hibernating rattlers and extreme caution was urged when approaching piles of logs and debris.

QUESTION: Every one in my Sunday School class goes to church regularly. But we have heated debates over theology, and some of them actually get angry. I though Christians were to be peaceful and loving. How can you reconcile this with the Christian ideal —S. P.

ANSWER: It is so easy to see Christians at their worst rather than at their best. Your observation remind me of a picture of a respectable citizen I once saw, taken of him standing by a garbage can. We are not to assume that this was his normal environment.

True, Christians at times get carried away — just like other people. But, I dare say, that this group you have pictured as belligerent and cantankerous, are not always quarreling and bickering. They doubtless have virtues as well as vices, and to display the one side is hardly fair.

But on the other hand, it is true that Christian people sometimes get into a rut and as Paul said; "Behave unseemly." Paul spoke of carnal Christians, "babes in Christ". These Christians, in the developmental stage, have not yet come into maturity, and just as people make allowances for immature people, allowances should be made for them. Since you seem to be in this group, perhaps you can, by precept and example, help these growing, maturing ones to grow up.

QUESTION: I am a respectable, law-abiding citizen. I can't for the life of me see why I need to go to church or be saved, as they say. God gave us a will and we can do right if we will, and what else does God require —I. L.

ANSWER: It so happens, in the economy of God, that good works in themselves are not a condition of salvation. And, if they were, you and I would fall short of measuring up to God's standard of righteousness. We think we are good, but even the best of us, are evil on the inside. We are proud, rebellious and sinful. And pople like you who have hypotized themselves into thinking they don't need Christ or the church, are the most miserable of all. It must take a lot of pride and ego to think you can dispense with the sacrifice of God's Son upon the cross, when God thought it the only way to be saved. To put our opinion against the Almighty's is the epitome of egotism.

Yes, God gave you a will, and it is capable of being exercised for good or ill. You can use it to defend your own respectable and righteousness, or you can use it to confess that you, like thousands of others, need the help of God in living the way you should. The Bible says: "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God."

Research in Teaching English Is Proposed

LOVELAND (UPI)— The Thompson R-2J school board Monday was asked to approve a $61,000 research budget to develop a way to teach high school English and history to students on an individual basis.

Approximately one-third of the budget would come from the school district, which controls Loveland and Berthoud area schools. The remainder would come from federal funds.

Nick Wilson, a Loveland high school teacher who has done preliminary experiments on the program for the past three years, said many of the students who would benefit would be potential dropouts or students with language barriers.

Wilson said an experimental group of sophomore students advanced an average of 15 months under the new program with just five months training last semester. He said an equal ability group taught by traditional methods for six months advanced only nine months.

Under the program, students remain grouped in a class, but the teacher works with students individually, providing them with different books and using different teaching aids.

Students are first tested to determine their interests and areas of weakness in the subjects.

Democrats Beef Up Control of House Groups

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats have beefed up their already substantial control of House committees, placing themselves in a stronger position to push President Johnson's legislative program.

The most sweeping revision of House committee makeup in 25 years especially brightens Democratic prospects for health care, education and immigration measures.

With the single exception of the Rules Committee, which continues to be made up of 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans, the Democrats in control of the House dealt themselves nigger shares of committee strength.

The outnumbered Republicans went along, grateful at least that none of their members who were re-elected will have to lose a committee assignment in the shakeup.

The decisions were made Tuesday at a bargaining session described by House Democratic and Republican leaders as amicable.

A key decision was to change the ratio of Ways and Means Committee from 15 Democratic and 10 Republican members to 17 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

This appeared virtually to ensure — if any further assurance should be necessary — that the committee will approve some sort of health care plan for the aged related to Social Security.

The committee had been the graveyard of Social Security health care plans, consistently opposed by all the Republicans, and by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and enough other Democrats to make up a majority.

Mills has indicated he would be amenable to a compromise version in which taxation for health care and for the traditional Social Security benefits would be kept separate.

The Appropriations Committee, divided 30-20 with Democrats in control since 1951, now will have a 34-16 ratio.

Book on Crime Is Written by Joseph Valachi

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has on its hands what might be considered a rare manuscript — but it can't figure out what to do with it.

The title is "The Real Thing" and the author of the 1,200-page book is Joseph Valachi, 60, new to the writing game.

The convicted murderer and narcotics pusher wrote his memoirs during long months in the District of Columbia Jail. He has resided there since September 1963, when he spilled to federal authorities and a Senate committee the secrets of the underworld syndicate he called the Cosa Nostra.

A Justice Department spokesman said department lawyers are scrutinizing the book to determine whether its contents may be made public and, if so, how.

While publication normally would violate prison regulations, he said, "this is rather a special case."

William G. Hundley, who heads the department's organized crime section and who shepherded Valachi during his revelations, said the Valachi book generally tends to confirm and amplify what he told the department and the Senate committee.

"There's nothing especially new in the thing," Hundley said. "But it's pretty interesting and fairly well written."

Hundley's boss, Asst. Atty. Gen. Herbert J. Miller, has a different view.

"I couldn't get through the thing," he said.

The department still has not decided whether to take Valachi from his solitary cell in the District jail. They still think it would be dangerous for him to mix with the population of federal prisons. It was reported in 1963 that the underworld had placed a $100,000 bounty on him for breaking its blood oath of secrecy.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Foreign Minister Fernando Gomez Martinez has welcomed the idea of a visit to South America by President Johnson. He said Tuesday night such a tour would strengthen the Alliance for Progress and familiarize the President with Latin American problems.

Reporter Finds New Arithmetic Too Difficult

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Having seen many times what happens to people who fall into an early anecdotage, we are generally very carefuly not to get too close to the edge. And we are only reciting the following out of exasperation:

It seems this sweet young girl was just coming home from a high school dance when a frog jumped into her path and said: "I am really a handsome young prince and have been trans formed into this ugly condition by a wicked witch. There is only one way to break the spell and return to my natural state. A pretty girl must take me home and put me on her pillow for one night. Will you help me'

So she did. And sure enough, when she awoke the next morning, there was a handsome young prince on the bed beside her. But to this very day su madre aun no cree ese cuento.

Well, you can see for yourself from this story how easy it is to arouse people's interest in learning a foreign language. And the same, we are certain, is true for arithmetic, geography, history and all the other subjects young people seem to have such a hard time learning in school nowadays.

There is probably something terribly wrong with that theory because nobody has mentioned it to us although we have been out for several days inquiring as to what new theories the U.S. education system will be trying out this year.

In fact, for all the Januarys we have been making this quest among the school yard sets, we have never yet heard anybody talk of school subjects as though they were in the slightest bit interesting or enlightening.

Last January, or maybe the one before, it was a new theory to try teaching economics to first graders. A January earlier it was either the new math or the new science. Before that it was audio-visual aids, algebra for the fifth grade, electronic laboratories, programmed instruction, teaching machines.

This year the new theories are to be found in the teachers colleges (less class study and more practice teaching) and in the high school (more class study and fewer years in college).

In any event, if there is any new hardware under the sun, or a new theory on the human digestion of information, it is to be found first in the American school house. Or at least in the adminstrator's office.

But for all their method and transistors, we are quite certain we would have a hard time getting through school today. In fact, we have tried to pass a third grade arithmetic test based on the new math and could not do it without help from a teacher.

Now, we do not mean this as a criticism of education methods by the lights of our own school days. That sort of thing is the first step toward falling into an early dotage.

Besides, as we recall it, we could not pass third grade arithmetic even in those days without the help of a teacher.

To our mind, learning has always been an obstacle in the path. And if somebody wants to try an overnight method for moving it into a handsome education, we certainly have no objection.

There is only one small problem we can see in teaching by magic, and that is you must keep your mind on your incantations and forget about everything else.

In that regard, we were struck by a news item from Paterson, N.J., the other week, where three bandits tied up four priests, ambushed two bank messengers and made off with $511,000.

In our Patterson school days, that would have been unthinkable. For today's school kids, it is doubtless the easiest kind of problem in short division.

Peter Pan Craze Grows In America

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONGON (NEA) — Americans may not know it, but they are in the grip of a Peter Pan craze, which is growing.

Millions of Americans have watched Peter Pan as a television musical starring Mary Martin.

In addition, Americans eat Peter Pan sundaes, sleep in Peter Pan motels and some of them wear Peter Pan bras. The Manhattan telephone directory alone has 20 listings under the name, including Peter Pan Prok Products, Peter Pan Swimwear, Peter Pan Hand Laundry and the Peter Pan Valet Service. There is even a Peter Pan Donut Shop near Times Square.

One man who is delighted with this trend is Gordon Piller, 6-foot-2 head of London's Great Ormond Street Hospital for Sick Children. The reason: Every time Peter Pan is performed anywhere in the world the hospital gets the royalities.

Peter Pan, the story of a little boy who never grew old, is currently celebrating its 60th birthday here in London, where it first saw light of day. And Piller feels that Americans will be interested in hearing about Peter Pan's magic healing powers.

"It may heighten their enjoyment of the show," he says, "to know that every time they see Peter Pan they are helping sick children onto the road to recovery.

"Last year the Great Ormond Street Hospital cared for 83,000 youngsters, 8,000 of them as bed patients. All of this was made possible by the proceeds from Peter Pan.

The story goes back to 1929 when Sir James Barrie, who wrote Peter Pan, gave the copyright to the play to the hospital as a token of his love for children. Barrie, himself, was the ninth child of a poor Scottish weaver, but his own marriage was childless. When Barrie died in 1937 the gift to the hospital was continued under the terms of his will.

As the children's hospital celebrates the 60th anniversary of Peter Pan, both staff and patients have reason to be grateful, for Peter Pan has accumulated more than $1.5 million in royalties over the years. There is, appropriately, a 20-bed Peter Pan ward in the hospital.

The hospital is not the only lasting monument Barrie left behind him. A charming statue of Peter Pan by Sir George Frampton stands in Kensington Gardens, where the fairy tale fantasy was born.

Barrie, a shy, pipe-smoking man, used to walk his St. Bernard dog in these gardens, and it was there that he met 10-year-old Peter Davies and his younger brothers to whom he used to spin fairy tales. Gradually the tales took shape as a play in Barrie's mind, with Peter Davies as the hero, Peter Pan.

The play was a hit when it opened in London and New York.

Since then Peter Pan has been translated into fourteen different languages. It has been performed on television, on ice, in puppet theatres, as a Walt Disney cartoon and as a Broadway musical.

A new film version of Peter Pan starring Audrey Hepburn and directed by George Cukor of "My Fair Lady" fame is planned for the future. At the moment production is being held up by a legal battle with Walt Disney Productions over use of the title.

Some of those connected with Peter Pan met with tragedy. Charles Frohman, who produced it originally in New York, went down with the Ti-.umuc. Peter Davies, the real life model for Peter Pan, died in 1960 at the age of 68 when he fell under a London subway train.

Talking Traffic Signal Installed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's here: the talking traffic signal.

"Don't walk" and "walk" it said Tuesday to county officials at an intersection in a southwest Los Angeles district. They agreed it performed well.

A built-in tape recorder provides amplified instructions to match those given by an electric sign which reads "Don't walk" and "Walk." "Don't walk" goes on when there isn't time left to cross the street on the green light.

"It may heighten their enjoyment of the show," he says, "to know that every time they see Peter Pan they are helping sick children onto the road to recovery.

"Last year the Great Ormond Street Hospital cared for 83,000 youngsters, 8,000 of them as bed patients. All of this was made possible by the proceeds from Peter Pan.

The story goes back to 1929 when Sir James Barrie, who wrote Peter Pan, gave the copyright to the play to the hospital as a token of his love for children. Barrie, himself, was the ninth child of a poor Scottish weaver, but his own marriage was childless. When Barrie died in 1937 the gift to the hospital was continued under the terms of his will.

As the children's hospital celebrates the 60th anniversary of Peter Pan, both staff and patients have reason to be grateful, for Peter Pan has accumulated more than $1.5 million in royalties over the years. There is, appropriately, a 20-bed Peter Pan ward in the hospital.

The hospital is not the only lasting monument Barrie left behind him. A charming statue of Peter Pan by Sir George Frampton stands in Kensington Gardens, where the fairy tale fantasy was born.

Barrie, a shy, pipe-smoking man, used to walk his St. Bernard dog in these gardens, and it was there that he met 10-year-old Peter Davies and his younger brothers to whom he used to spin fairy tales. Gradually the tales took shape as a play in Barrie's mind, with Peter Davies as the hero, Peter Pan.

The play was a hit when it opened in London and New York.

Since then Peter Pan has been translated into fourteen different languages. It has been performed on television, on ice, in puppet theatres, as a Walt Disney cartoon and as a Broadway musical.

A new film version of Peter Pan starring Audrey Hepburn and directed by George Cukor of "My Fair Lady" fame is planned for the future. At the moment production is being held up by a legal battle with Walt Disney Productions over use of the title.

Some of those connected with Peter Pan met with tragedy. Charles Frohman, who produced it originally in New York, went down with the Ti-.umuc. Peter Davies, the real life model for Peter Pan, died in 1960 at the age of 68 when he felt under a London subway train.

Talking Traffic Signal Installed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's here: the talking traffic signal.

"Don't walk" and "walk" it said Tuesday to county officials at an intersection in a southwest Los Angeles district. They agreed it performed well.

A built-in tape recorder provides amplified instructions to match those given by an electric sign which reads "Don't walk" and "Walk." "Don't walk" goes on when there isn't time left to cross the street on the green light.

"YES, SIR, MISS"—This teen-age Cuban girl is a member of the militia and stands guard in front of a downtown store in Havana.

Many Would Leave GOP, Official Says

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Many Republicans would leave the Republican party if national chairman Dean Burch were ousted, in the opinion of Mrs. William Addington of Wichita, Republican national committeewoman.

"Or so a lot of people who write me indicate," Mrs. Addington said here. "But I think they are forgetting that Dean Burch is not the only conservative available. I don't know, however, who might be considered."

Mrs. Addington said her mail was heavily in favor of retaining Burch, the choice of defeated Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

A vote of confidence is expected to be called for Burch when the national committee meets in Chicago Jan. 22-23. A number of Republicans have advocated his ouster.

Kansas national committeeman Sam Mellinger of Emporia said he believed Ray Bliss of Ohio "would make a fine chairman." He also mentioned the possible selection of Sen. Thruston Morton, R-Ky., Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr., R-Ohio, or Sen. Peter Dominik, R-Colo.

"I have said all along that we are not required to make a choice between Goldwater supporters on the one hand and Rockefeller people on the other," Mellinger said. "There is an area between where there are many good men and most of them live here in the Middle West."

Three Men Sentenced For Racial Explosion

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Three white men accused of setting off an explosion outside a Negro church pleaded guilty to reduced charges today and received the maximum sentence.

They were each fined $200 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail on charges of disturbing religious services, but they will be released after 10 days. The rest of the term will be served on probation.

Originally, the three—Henry Alexander, 35; James White, 31, and Donald Landers, 19, all of Montgomery—were charged with setting off an explosive device near an inhabited building, a capital offense in Alabama.

Circuit Solicitor Dave Crosland told Judge Eugene Loe that the state decided to reduce the charges because the explosion could not have injured Negroes in the church or damaged the property.

The explosion outside the First Baptist church during services last Dec. 13 was caused when a gas-filled balloon attached to the rear of a pickup truck was exploded by an electric spark.

MANEUVER SET

MANILA (UPI) — One thousand combat-ready American Marines will be airlifted 1,200 miles from Okinawa to Mactan Island in the Philippines on Friday for a combined Marine-Air Force training exercise.

The four-day maneuvers, called "Radish One," will emphasize the swift response capabilities of U.S. military forces in the Far East, a Navy announcement said.

RABAT—New telephones will be tried in Morocco.

English Mass Proves Popular With Catholics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The change from Latin to English in the Mass, which took effect Nov. 29, has been received enthusiastically by a large majority of America's Catholics, a liturgical expert said today.

"There has been some foot-dragging," acknowledged Fr. Frederick R. McManus. "But on the whole the transition has gone as smoothly as anyone could have hoped."

Fr. McManus is executive secretary of the Office of Liturgical Affairs established by the U.S. bishops to implement the reforms in public worship decreed by the Vatican Ecumenical Council. The Boston - born priest also served as an adviser to the Ecumenical Council.

He said spot checks around the country indicate that at least three - fourths of the priests and laity are very pleased with the new look in Catholic worship which includes a much greater emphasis on congregational participation as well as the introduction of vernacular languages.

"Some people are finding it difficult to adjust to the changes," he said in an interview with UPI. "But even they are benefiting. Catholic worship has become more meaningful for the participants, and that is a good thing for all of us.

"Many priests have told me that they can detect an entirely different spirit of worship in their parishes."

Fr. McManus said the innovations have been most warmly welcomed by young people, but also have had a surprisingly wide acceptance from those who are middle-aged or older.

"For some reason," he said, "the greatest resistance has been encountered among men and women in the 25-to-40 age bracket."

He said the introduction of congregational hymn singing appears to have been for some parishes, "a more radical change than the switch from one language to another."

"I think it's quite remarkable that there haven't been more complaints," he said. "It is not easy to change the worship habits of a lifetime.

"The biggest shock for the average layman has been the sudden realization that corporate worship depends on his taking an active part in the service.

"In the past the man in the pew often was just a silent spectator of liturgical acts performed by the priest. If a layman joined in worship, he did so on a private, isolated basis—as an individual in a group of individuals. But in the new 'dialogue' mass, public worship is a community action in which every layman has a personal part to play.

"This is the most fundamental and far-reaching change in the church's liturgical life in many centuries, and the response in this country, as in others, vindicates the wisdom of the council fathers in ordering it."

Americans Smoking Less, Report Says

chicago (AP) — Americans drank, gambled and played more in 1964, but they smoked less.

A study of federal excise tax collections by Commerce Clearing House shows they also traveled more by car, snapped more camera shutters and watched other people perform more often.

It all added up to a total excise take of $13.9 billion.

Taxes on liquor and beer accounted for $3.5 billion, up more than $100 million over 1963.

Wagering tax collections increased $358,000 making a total of more than $6 million.

Americans used less tobacco and these taxes fell $27 million during the period from an all-time high of almost $2.1 billion taken in 1963.

Clock Jumps Again In Eureka, Nevada

EUREKA, Nev. (AP)—Eureka County, Nev., residents gained an hour, like other folks, when Nevada reverted to standard time for the winter.

But they lost it again a couple weeks later. Eureka businessmen petitioned the county commission to put the east-central Nevada county on Mountain time. The commissioners approved.

The businessmen said they preferred to be on the same time as White Pine County to the east because of the amount of travel and communication between the two counties.

"This is the most fundamental and far-reaching change in the church's liturgical life in many centuries, and the response in this country, as in others, vindicates the wisdom of the council fathers in ordering it."

Americans Smoking Less, Report Says

CHICAGO (AP) — Americans drank, gambled and played more in 1964, but they smoked less.

A study of federal excise tax collections by Commerce Clearing House shows they also traveled more by car, snapped more camera shutters and watched other people perform more often.

It all added up to a total excise take of $13.9 billion.

Taxes on liquor and beer accounted for $3.5 billion, up more than $100 million over 1963.

Wagering tax collections increased $358,000 making a total of more than $6 million.

Americans used less tobacco and these taxes fell $27 million during the period from an all-time high of almost $2.1 billion taken in 1963.

Clock Jumps Again In Eureka, Nevada

EUREKA, Nev. (AP)—Eureka County, Nev., residents gained an hour, like other folks, when Nevada reverted to standard time for the winter.

But they lost it again a couple weeks later. Eureka businessmen petitioned the county commission to put the east-central Nevada county on Mountain time. The commissioners approved.

The businessmen said they preferred to be on the same time as Reno and Las Vegas for the east because of the amount of travel and communication between the two counties.

We've a guest today, an attractive, forthright university coed with a frightening experience to relate. Her remarks point up an important learning for all young girls.

"Most girls talk about sex a lot among themselves, and if you're inexperienced, you start wanting to find out what all the shouting's about. At least that's how it was in my high school. The other girls talked like they knew everything, and soon I decided I had to experiment to keep up with them..

"The next date I had was with a boy from our church youth group, so I figured he'd be safe to experiment on. I didn't really care about him as someone special, so I figured if things got embarrassing, I could cut him out of my life without regret. He was expendable.

"We went to the movies, and then we parked to 'watch the view.' I encouraged him. We necked for over an hour, and it was all I could do to keep from laughing out loud. I was completely unaffected, simply following the directions I'd heard the other girls discuss, and there he was breathing hard and trembling. Nothing happened though because he was a good guy.

I was vaguely aware that I'd been cruel to him.. I know I wasn't proud of myself, but I kept testing out the other guys I dated in a similar way.

"I was lucky until I reached 19, and then things blew up one night. I'd been dating this boy for a year, and I figured I could handle him without any trouble. Perhaps it was the fact that I'd tried to break off a week earlier, or maybe it was just a backlog of pressure. Anyhow we necked for an hour and half that night, and then suddenly he was pushing me to go all the way.

"I told him 'no.' Then I told him again 'NO! And still he kept at me. I tried to get out of the car, and he flipped and started beating me. I screamed and then he really rained blows on my stomach, face and arms.

"I guest he must have hit my windpipe then., because I blacked out. Have you ever done that? Well, it's the worst; I thought I was dying.

"The boy resusciated me then and after I stopped crying, he took me home.

Now, let me emphasize again that he was no thug. He was a church boy who planned to be a minister. The whole experience was horrible for him..

"Apparently he felt so terrible about it that he just blocked it out of his mind and refused to admit that it had ever happened. He couldn't understand why I wouldn't date him anymore. For myself, it was over two years before I could stand to let a guy get close to me again!"

"Girls need to realize that boys have a much lowerboiling point than we do. When it's still casual fun and games to us, it's already the main event for the boys.

"Some girls say, 'If the boy really loves you, he'll respect you enough to stop before — well, before . . .' but actually I believe many guys do push girls they love to go all the way. It's not because they want to exploit the girls, it's just because genuine caring results in lovemaking that continues far beyond the fellows' point of self-control.

"If I had to make my point in a single paragraph, I'd say this Grils, have respect for the power of your womanhood. Sure, it gives you a kick to see that you can affect a guy and make him want you, but have consideration for his feelings, too. If you're not willing to go all the way, don't give him the feeling that it's a free and easy road and then suddenly throw up a road block that may send him into an emotional tailspin. It's unfair and unsafe!"

Assassination Would Be Federal Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) A bipartisan group of 11 House members introduced bills today to make it a federal crime to attack or assassinate a president.

The sponsors included Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., a member of the Warren Commission which investigated the 1962 assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., leader of the group, said the bills also would cover the vice president, or other official next in line of succession to the presidency, a president-elect and a vice president-elect.

The legislation would give federal law enforcers power to investigate crimes of this sort.

Federal agencies, such as the FBI, now only take part unofficially in any investigation of this type at the invitation of local authorities.

Tough Looking Cons Get Facial Lift

LONDON (AP) — Tough-looking prisoners in British jails are being given new faces to help them make new starts in life.

A spokesman for the Home Office said that 214 prisoners have undergone plastic surgery since 1960.

The spokesman said he didn't know if the beautification had turned any ex-prisoners away from crime.

The operations are free.

Designation of Golden Spike Area Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said Monday he would again introduce legislation to redesignate the Golden Spike national historical site near Promontory, Utah, as a national monument.

The national monument would mark the site at which a golden spike was driven in 1869 to complete the first transcontinental railroad.

Bennett invited Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and Rep. Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah, to join him in sponsoring the measure.

The measure, differing from a bill introduced by Bennett in the previous Congress, calls for a 2,176-acre monument including the seven acres of the present historic site.

Bennett said passage of the bill at this time would give the National Park Service four years in which to carry out a development program prior to a centennial celebration to be held May 10, 1969.

Rocky Appeals To Legislature For More Money

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appealed to the legislature's new Democratic majorities today, to support a program that would boost state spending by more than $400 million, primarily for education and general state aid.

Approval of the far-reaching program, contained in Rockefeller's seventh annual message to the opening session of the legislature, would require substantial tax increases, perhaps a statewide sales tax.

It also would push the state's budget beyond $3 billion — to about $3.3 billion — for the first time in history.

Democrats have taken control of the legislature for the first time in 30 years. Rockefeller never before had faced a politically opposite legislative majority.

"The problems are enormous, the needs are urgent," he said in his message to a joint session. "We are confronted with the reality of the need for additional revenues."

In a reference to the curcial, legislative election next November, the governor said "the people will judge before this year has ended what is done here."

Along with spending proposals, Rockefeller also called for a tighter code of ethics for legislators and other state employes.

He urged specific consideration of a law to ban lawyer-legislators from representing clients in court trying to collect money from the state.

The governor asked the legislature to approve a $200-million expansion of the state's public-housing program — and send the proposal to the voters, who last November rejected a plan for a $165-million increase.

Rockefeller called for a mandatory, statewide system of personal permanent registration, and renewed his request for repeal of the state's railroad full crew laws.

FED PETS

COCKERWOOD, England (UPI)—John Hanson, inspector for the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said Wednesday two elderly spinsters, Miss Ellen Ware, 63, and Miss Gwenda Morgan, 7, nearly starved themselves to death but kept 40 cocker spaniels, four terriers, a St. Bernard, seven goats, a pony, four geese and a cat well fed. He found both women unconscious but reported they were responding to treatment.

Colorado Poverty War Being Planned

DENVER (UPI)—Lyle Lindesmith, state director of the national War on Poverty program, said Colorado's coordination of the program would cost about $75,000 in the coming fiscal year.

Lindesmith, former executive assistant to Gov. John A. Love, said the federal government would furnish all but $7,440 of the money needed for operation.

Lindesmith said Colorado's anti-poverty office would have a staff of five, including himself.

Assassination Would Be Federal Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) A bi-partisan group of 11 House members introduced bills today to make it a federal crime to attack or assassinate a president.

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., leader of the group, said the bills also would cover the vice president, or other official next in line of succession to the presidency, a president-elect and a vice president-elect.

The legislation would give federal law enforcers power to investigate crimes of this sort.

Federal agencies, such as the FBI, now only take part unofficially in any investigation of this type at the invitation of local authorities.

TO VISIT BERLIN

LONDON (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson will visit West Berlin Jan. 23, government sources said Wednesday.

Tough Looking Cons Get Facial Lift

LONDON (AP) — Tough-looking prisoners in British jails are being given new faces to help them make new starts in life.

A spokesman for the Home Office said that 214 prisoners have undergone plastic surgery since 1960.

The spokesman said he didn't know if the beautification had turned any ex-prisoners away from crime.

The operations are free.

Designation of Golden Spike Area Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said Monday he would again introduce legislation to redesignate the Golden Spike national historical site near Promontory, Utah, as a national monument.

The national monument would mark the site at which a golden spike was driven in 1869 to complete the first transcontinental railroad.

Bennett invited Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and Rep. Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah, to join him in sponsoring the measure.

The measure, differing from a bill introduced by Bennett in the previous Congress, calls for a 2,176-acre monument including the seven acres of the present historic site.

Bennett said passage of the bill at this time would give the National Park Service four years in which to carry out a development program prior to a centennial celebration to be held May 10, 1969.

Rocky Appeals To Legislature For More Money

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appealed to the legislature's new Democratic majorities today, to support a program that would boost state spending by more than $400 million, primarily for education and general state aid.

Approval of the far-reaching program, contained in Rockefeller's seventh annual message to the opening session of the legislature, would require substantial tax increases, perhaps a statewide sales tax.

It also would push the state's budget beyond $3 billion — to about $3.3 billion — for the first time in history.

Democrats have taken control of the legislature for the first time in 30 years. Rockefeller never before had faced a politically opposite legislative majority.

"The problems are enormous, the needs are urgent," he said in his message to a joint session. "We are confronted with the reality of the need for additional revenues."

In a reference to the curcial, legislative election next November, the governor said "the people will judge before this year has ended what is done here."

Along with spending proposals, Rockefeller also called for a tighter code of ethics for legislators and other state employes.

He urged specific consideration of a law to ban lawyer-legislators from representing clients in court trying to collect money from the state.

The governor asked the legislature to approve a $200-million expansion of the state's public-housing program — and send the proposal to the voters, who last November rejected a plan for a $165-million increase.

Rockefeller called for a mandatory, statewide system of personal permanent registration, and renewed his request for repeal of the state's railroad full crew laws.

FED PETS

COCKERWOOD, England (UPI)—John Hanson, inspector for the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said Wednesday two elderly spinsters, Miss Ellen Ware, 63, and Miss Gwenda Morgan, 7, nearly starved themselves to death but kept 40 cocker spaniels, four terriers, a St. Bernard, seven goats, a pony, four geese and a cat well fed. He found both women unconscious but reported they were responding to treatment.

Colorado Poverty War Being Planned

DENVER (UPI)—Lyle Lindesmith, state director of the national War on Poverty program, said Colorado's coordination of the program would cost about $75,000 in the coming fiscal year.

Lindesmith, former executive assistant to Gov. John A. Love, said the federal government would furnish all but $7,440 of the money needed for operation.

Lindesmith said Colorado's anti-poverty office would have a staff of five, including himself.

Wilson Begins New Year With Less Impact

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson began the new year at a more measured political pace than he may have planned.

With 80 of his "first 100 days" behind him, most of Wilson's basic aims—to remake Britain's industry and society in the image of the Labor party—remain the same. But Wilson and his supporters already have learned that they'll have to make haste more slowly than they may have bargained for.

Wilson came to power in the Oct. 15 election proclaiming his plans for a "first 100 days of dynamic action to get Britain moving again." It was a spirit that demanded fast progress. But applied to Britain's tradition-minded society, it caused perhaps more trouble than progress.

Two weeks after taking office, the Labor government moved to close Britain's trade gap by imposing a 15 per cent surcharge on imports. Her trading partners, who had not been told in advance of the move, complained loudly. In explanation the government stressed that Britain's economic situation was serious. This alarmed some foreign investors into starting a run on the pound. Rumors of devaluation flew before $3 billion in international credit poured in to shore up the currency.

Wilson unveiled a new model for Western defense only two months after taking office, but the haste produced a fuzzy outline. Until now it has gotten a cool reception everywhere among Britain's allies.

Wilson's press and political critics—and even some members of his own Labor party—have charged that, while his ideas may be sound, he stepped on too many toes in trying to go too fast.

There are signs now that the new prime minister is taking this criticism to heart. With a wispy majority of only five seats in the House of Commons, he must muster every ounce of parliamentary diplomacy to see his trail-blazing program become law.

The Wilson program includes such controversial items as the nationalization of steel, an anti-inflationary policy controlling all incomes and prices and the selective seizure of prime building land to keep it out of the hands of speculators.

In addition, the April budget will bring new capital gains and corporation taxes, and probable new measures for industrial and export expansion.

Any unforeseen circumstance —a revolt by Labor's left wing, the loss of three seats through by-elections (unlikely) or the departure of liberal party support—could throw this whole program into jeopardy.

This danger has spawned rumors of a snap election sometime this spring to give the government a more solid base. But government officials are spreading the word that Wilson plans no election unless forced to—and certainly, they said, not early this year.

Congratulations Were in Order

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Al Lopez received so many hand shakes during the winter baseball meetings here that a Texan might think his Chicago White Sox had won the World Series.

But congratulations were in order for a hole-in-one the manager made a few days previous at Tampa's Temple Terrace course.

Lopez aced the 162-yard 15th hole with a 6 iron.

"It was the second ace in my life," says the former chatcher. "The first one was 36 years ago at a Tampa course no longer in existence. It was at the old 9-hole Airport course."

Lopez's latest ace cost him $63 for refreshments but he had hole-in-one insurance which cost him $1.

He was playing with Tony Cuccinello, his third base coach; attorney John Gerry, Charley Gregory and pro Barney Rackley.

Reporter Finds Difficulty in Supermarket

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Modern supermarkets carry over 6,000 different articles, but I can never seem to find the items on my shopping list on the shelves.

Take the time I was looking for "habuns," for instance. Not a habun in the whole place. I really made a search for them, too, because they were underlined three times on my list, with an exclamation point. All indications were that we had been out of these necessities for some time and were likely to remain so.

It was only after I got home that my daughter wailed "Did you forget the hamburger buns again."

Early in life my kids learned to take advantage of their mother's short memory and long grocery lists. They became adept at imitating my handwriting and sandwiching such choice selections as cookies and soda pop among the green beans and lettuce. Occasionally, I would wonder why I had listed the desired flavor of ice cream as "choclit."

I know exactly what I mean when I jot items down on the pad I keep hanging in the kitchen, but the words always seem to lose a few letters or transfer themselves into a foreign tongue on the way to market.

The notation "B and E" seems self-explanatory when I scribble it upon discovery that we are out of both bacon and eggs. But its significance escapes me when I ponder over my shorthand in the grocery store.

Several times I have come home with pots, only to find we have plenty of cooking pans, but nothing in the way of potatoes. And a scrawled "pcs" can mean anything from pickles to peaches to pancakes.

Somehow I usually manage to muddle my way through, even though I may purchase soup bones or bananas, when the "bns" on the list really stands for beans. But one time all my imagination and ingenuity couldn't cope with the notation at the top of the slip of paper. The series of loops and swirls was undoubtedly "mdvpi." I finally gave up in despair.

That night I brought it to the attention of my husband, who can sometimes read my writing when I can't. "That looks for all the world like "mdvpi," I pointed out.

"It is," he agreed. "I wrote that on there just to give you something to puzzle about."

Denverites Continue War Against Pigeons

DENVER (UPI)— The declared war on Denver's pigeons continued unabated today as feathered bodies began to drop over parts of the city.

The Denver Department of Health and Hospitals began setting poisoned corn along railroad tracks Sunday in its five-day program to cut the number of pigeons infesting the city.

The birds, after eating the treated corn, were dropping over the downtown area and around the state capitol building—a favorite roosting place.

Dr. Douglas McCluskie, director of the Invironmental Sanitation Division, said an estimated 20,000 birds had died. Officials hope to kill about 100,000 before the program is ended.

Dr. McCluskie said the bodies of the dead pigeons were being examined to determine if they were carrying lice and mites, causes of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) in human beings.

Small Business Bureau Offices Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration plans to establish eight new area offices, including Denver.

Congressional sources said the step is part of a decentralization program designed to make the agency more responsive to needs of small business.

The agency estimates the setup also will bring annual savings of $1 million.

The Denver area office will supervise the agency's operations in Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Idaho and Wyoming.

The SBA also notified members of Congress that it's raising various of its branch offices to regional status to provide small businessmen with better service. The de-centralization program is to be completed by June 30.

Reporter Finds Difficulty in Supermarket

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Modern supermarkets carry over 6,000 different articles, but I can never seem to find the items on my shopping list on the shelves.

Take the time I was looking for "habuns," for instance. Not a habun in the whole place. I really made a search for them, too, because they were underlined three times on my list, with an exclamation point. All indications were that we had been out of these necessities for some time and were likely to remain so.

It was only after I got home that my daughter wailed "Did you forget the hamburger buns again."

Early in life my kids learned to take advantage of their mother's short memory and long grocery lists. They became adept at imitating my handwriting and sandwiching such choice selections as cookies and soda pop among the green beans and lettuce. Occasionally, I would wonder why I had listed the desired flavor of ice cream as "choclit."

I know exactly what I mean when I jot items down on the pad I keep hanging in the kitchen, but the words always seem to lose a few letters or transfer themselves into a foreign tongue on the way to market.

The notation "B and E" seems self-explanatory when I scribble it upon discovery that we are out of both bacon and eggs. But its significance escapes me when I ponder over my shorthand in the grocery store.

Several times I have come home with pots, only to find we have plenty of cooking pans, but nothing in the way of potatoes. And a scrawled "pcs" can mean anything from pickles to peaches to pancakes.

Somehow I usually manage to muddle my way through, even though I may purchase soup bones or bananas, when the "bns" on the list really stands for beans. But one time all my imagination and ingenuity couldn't cope with the notation at the top of the slip of paper. The series of loops and swirls was undoubtedly "mdvpi." I finally gave up in despair.

That night I brought it to the attention of my husband, who can sometimes read my writing when I can't. "That looks for all the world like "mdvpi," I pointed out.

"It is," he agreed. "I wrote that on there just to give you something to puzzle about."

Denverites Continue War Against Pigeons

DENVER (UPI)— The declared war on Denver's pigeons continued unabated today as feathered bodies began to drop over parts of the city.

The Denver Department of Health and Hospitals began setting poisoned corn along railroad tracks Sunday in its five-day program to cut the number of pigeons infesting the city.

The birds, after eating the treated corn, were dropping over the downtown area and around the state capitol building—a favorite roosting place.

Dr. Douglas McCluskie, director of the Invironmental Sanitation Division, said an estimated 20,000 birds had died. Officials hope to kill about 100,000 before the program is ended.

Dr. McCluskie said the bodies of the dead pigeons were being examined to determine if they were carrying lice and mites, causes of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) in human beings.

Small Business Bureau Offices Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration plans to establish eight new area offices, including Denver.

Congressional sources said the step is part of a decentralization program designed to make the agency more responsive to needs of small business.

The agency estimates the setup also will bring annual savings of $1 million.

The Denver area office will supervise the agency's operations in Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Idaho and Wyoming.

The SBA also notified members of Congress that it's raising various of its branch offices to regional status to provide small businessmen with better service. The de-centralization program is to be completed by June 30.

Branch offices being elevated to regional status included Casper, Wyo. and Helena, Montana.

Youth Corps Director Is Named for Region

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz Monday announced appointment of a neighborhood Youth Corps director in the mountain-plains states.

John Ekeberg, a career Department of Labor civil servant, will direct activities from Denver for Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Montana, the Dakotas, Utah

College Student Tax Deduction Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)— U.S. Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., joined with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., here in asking for passage of a Senate resolution to give college students or their parents a tax deduction.

Dominick said the proposal would give badly needed assistance to lower and middle income families who cannot afford to send their children to college. It would have no effect upon those in the upper tax brackets, he said.

Rusk Says Rebels Will Be Deprived of Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today he sees a "very good chance" that the supply of arms to rebel forces in the Congo will be brought under control.

He expressed the view at an impromptu news conference in a Capitol corridor after he had met for nearly three hours behind closed doors with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to brief its members on world problems.

"We think there is a very good chance that the attempts to send arms to the rebels in the Congo will be brought under control," Rusk told newsmen in response to questions. He declined to elaborate.

The government had indicated its concern before about the flow of arms to the rebels from Red China, Egypt and Algeria.

Rusk also expressed a hope that the South Viet Nam government will find a way to organize and demonstrate unity in its war with the Communist Viet Cong.

Hotel Detective Becoming Extinct

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — There's always plenty of activity on Taylor Avenue at Fort Snelling, with two families on that street having a dozen children apiece.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Moore of 173 Taylor Ave., have 10 boys and two girls, ranging in age from 3 to 20. Their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Tonozzi, of 153 Taylor Ave., have eight boys and four girls ages one to 21.

Both fathers are employed by the Veterans' Administration — Moore as chief of the administration division of the VA center at Fort Snelling, and Tonozzi as assistant chief of supply at the Minneapolis VA hospital.

Governor Names Lakewood Man As Assistant

DENVER (AP) — Gov. John A. Love shook up his staff today, naming Robert E. Waggoner of Lakewood as his executive secretary.

Waggoner, 46, has been administrative assistant to Republican Congressman Donald G. Brotzman, who was defeated for reelection.

He will be paid $14,800 yearly, the governor announced.

Carl Sisskind, who has been filling the post, will become an administrative assistant the governor said.

The governor said that Howard Propst, who has been on his staff for the past two years, will continue as his liaison man with the Legislature.

The shift completes a series of changes set in motion when Lyle Lindesmith, Jake Valdez, Jon Holm will move from Love's personal staff to direct the program combating poverty.

Waggoner is a former Army Air Corp veteran with 43 months of service and was a college instructor and a radio news editor in Iowa. He was administrative assistant to U.S. Sen. Thomas E. Martin, R-Iowa, from 1955 through 1957, was special assistant in President Eisenhower's executive office and was regional director for the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization before joining Brotzman.

American Drama Gets Top Award in London

LONDON (AP) An American drama, Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", won the Evening Standard's annual award for London's best play of 1964.

Japanese Premier To Visit Washington

ISE, Japan (AP Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said today he intends to have frank talks with President Johnson in order to deepen U.S.-Japanese understanding when they meet during his Washington visit Jan. 10-15.

"I will tell President Johnson straightforwardly what I think from the standpoint of an independent and peaceful foreign policy," Sato told a news conference.

He said he hoped there would be an unreserved exchange of views on U.S.-Japanese relations and the international situation.

1964 IN THE CAMERA'S EYE

LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON, 56, of Texas became the 36th president of the United States for a four-year term of his own after finishing out the term of the assassinated John F. Kennedy. Johnson defeated Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in a Democratic sweep, carrying 44 states with 486 electoral votes (270 needed to win) and reaping 61 per cent of the votes cast. LBJ's new right arm is Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, former Senate majority whip, elected to the vice presidency.

Once level, this three-tier Anchorage street typifies the damage caused throughout Alaska by the continent's greatest earthquake. Fishing fleets, industry, rails and thousands of private homes—60 per cent of the state's developed worth—were left in wreckage. Toll was 130. Tremors rocked West coast cities southward as far as northern California and huge 'quake-spawned tidal waves pounded across the Pacific to damage Hawaii.

SOVIET PREMIER KHRUSHCHEV vowed on his 70th birthday he would not retire but he was tossed out of office unceremoniously and replaced by two "pals," Leonid Brezhnev, here bestowing Hero Medal upon Mr. K, as the Communist party's chief, and Aleksei Kosygin as the new premier.

LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON, 56, of Texas became the 36th president of the United States for a four-year term of his own after finishing out the term of the assassinated John F. Kennedy. Johnson defeated Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in a Democratic sweep, carrying 44 states with 486 electoral votes (270 needed to win) and reaping 61 per cent of the votes cast. LBJ's new right arm is Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, former Senate majority whip, elected to the vice presidency.

Once level, this three-tier Anchorage street typifies the damage caused throughout Alaska by the continent's greatest earthquake. Fishing fleets, industry, rails and thousands of private homes—60 per cent of the state's developed worth—were left in wreckage. Toll was 130. Tremors rocked West coast cities southward as far as northern California and huge 'quake-spawned tidal waves pounded across the Pacific to damage Hawaii.

SOVIET PREMIER KHRUSHCHEV vowed on his 70th birthday he would not retire but he was tossed out of office unceremoniously and replaced by two "pals," Leonid Brezhnev, here bestowing Hero Medal upon Mr. K, as the Communist party's chief, and Aleksei Kosygin as the new premier.

THIS MUSHROOM CLOUD, the result of Red China's explosion of her first atom bomb, made Peking a member of the exclusive "nuclear club," strengthened her voice in world affairs.

State Medicare Plan Given Federal Okay

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John Love reported late Tuesday that the federal government had approved proposed changes in Colorado's expanded medicare program and thus averted a crisis.

Love said officials of the regional office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had informed State Welfare Director Thomas Bell of the approval.

It was revealed last month by Love that the federal government had refused to approve the medical assistance for the aged plan adopted by Colorado last year under the Federal Kerr Mills Law.

The refusal to approve by federal officials meant Colorado could not start receiving an expected $7.1 million in federal matching money.

Love said the required changes still will cost the state an additional $800,000 during the current fiscal year.

Federal officials said if Colorado adopts the changes, as promised, the government will recognize the program as of last July 1, the date it first went into effect.

The major changes required were to give recipients out of state on trips the same benefits as those in the state and to change the method of payment of a $10 monthly personal expense allowance.

Nepal Enters World Carpet Business

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Nepal has entered the carpet market of the world, thanks to the Tibetian refugees.

Four hundred refugees who fled Communist Chinese rule in Tibet have been producing woolen carpets which experts say can match the best from Persia or Kashmir.

This is part of the rehabilitation undertaken by Swiss association for Technical Assistance working in Nepal.

The carpets, being exported to Switzerland, earn for Nepal foreign exchange to the tune of 15,000 Swiss francs a month.

How to Cut Your Own Income Tax

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It's still possible to say that you can make (and keep) more money while being home sich and drawing your pay than it is by going to work every day.

But possibly because of abuses of the sick pay credit in former years, this is one area where Congress made drastic changes in 1964.

Before sick pay becomes a factor in your tax return there must be present these elements: You were absent from work because of sickness or injury in 1964 and during this period of enforced absence from work you received compensation from your employer. (If you received payments under an insurance contract, the amounts so received are not reportable on your return.)

If you were off the payroll while you were absent from work, you have no sick pay credit and none of the following applies in your case.

The new sick pay rules will probably become known as the 75 per cent-$75-$100 formula. Here's how it works:

You were absent from work because of sickness or injury and your employer paid you your full rate or more than 75 per cent of your full rate while you were away. After you were away 30 days you would take a sick pay credit of the actual amount received weekly up to a maximum of $100 a week for the balance of the time you were away.

Contrary to the old rules in this situation, it makes no difference whether you were hospitalized or not. If you received more than 75 per cent of your normal salary while you were absent, you get no credit until you have been away more than 30 days.

For example, an employe was absent because of illness for 60 days in 1964. His employer continued to pay him during this time his full salary of $600 a month. Since his payment was greater than 75 per cent of his pay he would receive no credit for the first 30 days. For the remaining 30 days he would take a credit of the $100 weekly maximum.

Now take the case of a worker whose employer paid him 75 per cent or less of his normal pay while he was absent because of sickness. Unless he was hospitalized at least one day during the period of absence there is no credit for the first seven consecutive days.

Thereafter, for the remainder of the 30 days, he would deduct his full pay up to a maximum of $75 a week. After the 30th day the maximum deduction would be $100 a week, assuming the employe received that much or more.

Assume the same facts but the employe was hospitalized at least one day. He received a sick pay credit for the full period of absence. His maximum credit was $75 a week for the first 30 days. At the end of the 30-day period the maximum credit advances to the actual pay or $100 a week, whichever is lesser.

Notice the attempt to equalize the tax break between the employe who receives full pay while he is sick and the one who receives a reduced rate during such time. The former must wait 30 days before the credit begins; the latter waits only seven days. And if he is hospitalized any time during his period of absence he starts to get instant credit.

Wherever sick pay credit applies it presents an opportunity to make a substantial tax savings.

Take the time to give a full explanation of the circumstances and attach this statement to your return. Your statement should recite the date you first missed work, the date you returned, the amount of pay received as contrasted to your normal wages, nature of the illness, the name of the hospital and the date you were hospitalized.

HOLLYWOOD TO BROADWAY

Senate Finds Viet Nam War Big Dilemma

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warily, often reluctantly, most of the senators ready to prescribe a course in South Viet Nam today chose current U.S. policy — but called for efforts to make American military backing more effective.

Many of them saw it as a temporary measure, a prologue to negotiations aimed at settling the guerrilla warfare in the Communist-beleaguered nation.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., offered this terse prescription:

"Continue present policy until we can negotiate from a position of strength."

"Our present policy," argued Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, "is leading us toward the same calamity as befell the French 10 years ago."

He called for negotiations now, pointing toward a neutrality that would be guaranteed by the United Nations or a special international commission.

There were conflicting undercurrents of Senate sentiment for outright U.S. withdrawal or for expansion of the U.S.-backed warfare. But those views came only from a handful of senators.

Most of the legislators who responded to an Associated Press survey shunned the idea of pulling out, of committing U.S. combat troops or of extending the war into Communist North Viet Nam.

One Republican, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, came up with a new formula. He suggested a U.S. call for Vietnamese elections within three or four months to choose a government supported by the people.

"Our future conduct in South Viet Nam would depend on whether or not the new government wanted us to keep up our assistance or to get out," he said.

Pending an election, Boggs said, the United States should continue its present military and economic assistance.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana spoke for the consensus when he offered this view of current U.S. policy:

"For the present, we have no other choice which in my judgment would fit the needs of the situation."

He added the United States should stand ready to negotiate for neutralization of South Viet Nam. "If it contains promise of a just and guaranteed solution, fine," Mansfield said. "If not, it can be discarded."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., suggested extension of the war into Communist North Viet Nam and held out at the same time hope for a negotiated settlement.

Tower said present policies are losing the war, and he declared it will take new initiatives to reverse the course of the guerrilla struggle.

That, he said, means action to choke off Communist supply support from the north.

"If a stalemate situation develops or the Vietnamese achieve a momentum toward victory, then meaningful negotiations might result in an acceptable settlement," he said.

All told, 86 of the 100 senators responded to the survey.

In general terms, 30 of them suggested that the United States stick to its present course, at least for the present. Many of them called at the same time for steps to improve the results, stressing government reforms and stability in South Viet Nam.

Three others talked of strengthening Democratic government in the Southeast Asian nation, but took no stand on U.S. military or diplomatic measures.

Ten senators called for a negotiated settlement now, some joining Church in a call for international supervision.

Three suggested the United States and South Viet Nam step up the struggle, moving it north into Communist territory.

Three spoke out for U.S. withdrawal.

Eight indicated they had no suggestions, and 24 refused to comment at all.

Those who did offer suggestions proposed them in varying terms which defied precise man-by-man cataloging. Many senators who responded to the survey insisted that their names not be used.

Some Republicans who declined to be quoted by name renewed an allegation voiced by Barry Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, during his campaign — that President Johnson has not told Congress for the nation what is going on in South Viet Nam and there should be a detailed accounting from the White House.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., insisted that Johnson and his advisers have "the best information available to anyone.

"I have confidence in their decisions," Sparkman said. "I think we should back them up."

The Senate itself is investigating the situation, through its Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees. Some legislators said they would await those inquiries before deciding what course they favor.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas and Richard B. Russell of Georgia, the committee chairmen, declined comment on the situation now.

Russell already has said "we made a terrible mistake getting involved in Viet Nam." But he added he does not know "just how we can get out now."

Some senators reflected the frustration of many Americans at the continuing struggle in Viet Nam. "I don't know how you get off a tiger's back," said a senator who asked that he not be identified.

Another said he shares with many citizens "the feeling that maybe we ought to say the hell with it and pull out," but realizes that would probably mean a Communist takeover.

Sen. Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo., put the dilemma in more formal terms:

"I do not know precisely what changes should be brought about in American policy in Viet Nam, but I do know that we can neither withdraw nor cling to the precarious status quo which ih causing us to lose the war in which so many Americans already have died."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., disagreed.

"There is no stable government," he said, "only chaos and disorder.

"Therefore, I am prone to withdraw without any ifs or ands," Ellender declared.

"I'd favor a settlement based on neutralization or to pull out," said Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va.

"The situation in Viet Nam is impossible unless a stable government can be established," Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said. "I don't know how long we can wait on this.

"If the South Vietnamese demonstrate an ability to govern themselves, of course we should continue to help them," he said.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, looked for evidence of new South Vietnamese determination. "U.S. combat units should be sent in only if the South Vietnamese make a dramatic show or a greater will to win," she said.

If they lack that will, she said, it is questionable whether the United States should stay there at all.

Republican Sens. Tower, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Wallace F. Bennett of Utah joined in calling for action to destroy Communist supply lines by moving against bases in North Viet Nam.

Thurmond took the stiffest line.

"Give the South Vietnamese all the supplies they need and whatever aid they need to bomb North Vietnamese supply bases," he said. "If necessary, bomb them with U.S. troops, planes and ammunition."

"We must adopt a policy to win the war and then build our strategy around that," Bennett said. "This may involve sending in combat units or it may involve crossing into the north using Vietnamese units."

Sparkman and Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, agreed that efforts to cut off Communist supplies might require aerial action over North Viet Nam.

Aiken counseled against commitment of U.S. combat troops or expansion of the war — unless the United States is prepared for all-out war including the use of nuclear weapons.

Inauguration Medal Designed by Sculptor

The medal bears a likeness of the President on one side. On the other, the presidential seal is superimposed on a map of the 50 states to signify a united country under the President's leadership.

The single gold medal struck from the design will go to Johnson himself. Cabinet members will receive the first 10 of 10,000 serially numbered silver medals, which will be sold to the public at $35, plus $3.50 excise tax, apiece. An unlimited number, plus tax, apiece. An unlimited number of bronze medals is being prepared for sale at $5 each.

"I'd favor a settlement based on neutralization or to pull out," said Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va.

"The situation in Viet Nam is impossible unless a stable government can be established," Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said. "I don't know how long we can wait on this.

"If the South Vietnamese demonstrate an ability to govern themselves, of course we should continue to help them," he said.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, looked for evidence of new South Vietnamese determination. "U.S. combat units should be sent in only if the South Vietnamese make a dramatic show or a greater will to win," she said.

If they lack that will, she said, it is questionable whether the United States should stay there at all.

Republican Sens. Tower, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Wallace F. Bennett of Utah joined in calling for action to destroy Communist supply lines by moving against bases in North Viet Nam.

Thurmond took the stiffest line.

"Give the South Vietnamese all the supplies they need and whatever aid they need to bomb North Vietnamese supply bases," he said. "If necessary, bomb them with U.S. troops, planes and ammunition."

"We must adopt a policy to win the war and then build our strategy around that," Bennett said. "This may involve sending in combat units or it may involve crossing into the north using Vietnamese units."

Sparkman and Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, agreed that efforts to cut off Communist supplies might require aerial action over North Viet Nam.

"This might necessitate the bombing of supply bases inside North Viet Nam," Sparkman said.

Aiken counseled against commitment of U.S. combat troops or expansion of the war — unless the United States is prepared for all-out war including the use of nuclear weapons.

Inauguration Medal Designed by Sculptor

The medal bears a likeness of the President on one side. On the other, the presidential seal is superimposed on a map of the 50 states to signify a united country under the President's leadership.

The single gold medal struck from the design will go to Johnson himself. Cabinet members will receive the first 10 of 10,000 serially numbered silver medals, which will be sold to the public at $35, plus $3.50 excise tax, apiece. An unlimited number of bronze medals is being prepared for sale at $5 each.

Denver Seeks Better Air Service Plans

DENVER (UPI)—Denver city officials have asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to reconsider orders issued last year in denying the city's request for improved air service between Denver, the Northwest and the Southwest.

The CAB refused to allow Denver so-called "go-around" flights between points along the path in August. The board reaffirmed its decision Dec. 21.

Denver, in its latest petition charged that the needs of cities located between the routes were being overlooked.

Atlanta Gives Little Thought to Baseball

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Atlanta, which will be the 1966 home of the Milwaukee Braves, apparently gave little thought to seeking the winter baseball meetings for 1965.

Eddie Glennon, new Atlanta general manager, said he didn't plan to bring up the subject while here.

"I'll have plenty to do next year as it is," said a man who has spent much of his lifetime guiding the fortunes of minor league teams.

LBJ Will Rush His Messages To Congress

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson will send four messages to Congress next week in an effort to get off to a fast start in the legislative drive toward his "Great Society."

The White House announced today that he will send special messages to the lawmakers on education, immigration, foreign aid and the space program on consecutive days starting next Tuesday.

The Chief Executive, who delivered his State of the Union address on the opening day of the 89th Congress, plans to send a comprehensive health message to the House and Senate Thursday.

He will ask for a $1.2 billion program of regional health centers to combat heart disease, cancer and stroke. He also wants Congress to provide medical care under Social Security for older persons, a plan which passed the Senate last year, but died in the House Ways & Means Committee.

Johnson has indicated he wants a new $1.5 billion education program to aid students in poor neighborhoods and help buy books for pupils in both private and public schools.

The Chief Executive also has indicated he wants to reform the immigration laws to remove restrictions based on national origins.

There was no advance word on contents of the foreign aid and space messages. But the President frequently has said he is determined that the United States will remain first in space.

Auto Industry Sees Second-Best Year

DETROIT (UPI)—The automotive industry, plagued by strikes by the United Auto Workers Union, was forced to settle for the second best production year in history during 1964.

Figures from the four major U.S. manufacturers showed they produced a total of 7,738,764 cars during the calendar year. The figures surpassed the 1963 total of 7,569,228 cars, but failed to top the record posted in 1955 of 7,942,132 cars.

The industry seemed sure to hit the eight million mark in car production for the first time in history until it ran into a series of crippling strikes. The UAW was on strike at General Motors for a total of 45 days and waged a two-week local strike against Ford that eventually stilled Ford's production lines.

However, the auto industry did manage to post its first eight million sales during 1964. An estimated 8.1 million cars, including imports, were sold during the calendar year. Import sales totaled more than 400,000.

Workman Flushes Through Storm Drain

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — A workman clearing debris from a drain cover fell into an underground storm sewer Tuesday night and was flushed a mile through the drain into San Francisco Bay.

He emerged virtually unhurt.

Police said the man, William John Selkirk, 54, fell into the rushing torrent of a two-thirds full 6-foot drainage pipe.

Selkirk was found later trying to clamber out of a deep ditch at the mouth of the drain exit to the bay.

Douglas Says He Helped Sen. Long

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas, a Northern liberal, says he helped a Southerner, Sen. Russell B. Long, win the job of assistant Democratic leader of the Senate because "we need an economic progressive here."

"We've differed frequently in the past," the white-thatched Illinois senator said in an interview. But Douglas recalled that he and the Louisianan also had teamed up in many Senate battles.

"If this election had come last year during the fight over the broad civil rights bill, I could not have supported Sen. Long," Douglas said.

He added that several other Democratic senators "whose views are closer to mine" could have had his support if they had tried for the post vacated after Hubert H. Humphrey was elected vice president.

"But Sen. Long is a man of character and his national attitude on many issues will be recognized," Douglas said.

Long was elected assistant party leader by the 68 Senate Democrats Monday in a contest with Sens. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island and A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma.

Long, the son of the late Huey Long, and Douglas, a former economics professor and World War II Marine combat hero, entered the Senate within a few days of each other 17 years ago.

Long was 30 and Douglas 55.

"We've always been close personal friends," Douglas said. "Any proposals to help the poor people have always touched a warm response from him."

Although they were in opposite camps in the long Senate battles over civil rights legislation, Douglas said "last session's thorough bill covers about all the civil rights legislation needed."

Douglas said that he and Long often stood together in favor of liberal competition in business and industry, against monopoly and for protection of the public on patents and inventions developed with public funds.

"Sen. Long is sympathetic to most health and social legislation," he added. "As a Senate conferee last year on the health care program under Social Security, he helped prevent a defeat of that principle in the Senate-House conference."

Douglas said he agreed with Long that election of a Southerner to the important Senate post finally marks the end of the Civil War.

"The thing that has prolonged the Civil War has been the abuse of the Negroes by some Southerners," he said. "I always maintained that effective civil rights legislation would liberate Southerners from their self-imposed chains."

Frozen Trees Begin Falling in Florida

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — A freeze in the winter of 1962 is making travel risky these days along Kings Highway, a Fort Pierce area feeder road for the Sunshine State Parkway turnpike.

Residents have complained that towering pine trees, killed by frost, have begun toppling across the road. Half a dozen already have crashed to earth, damaging two automobiles but causing no injuries.

COME ON IN!—Bobbing bonnies and bluch-eyed peas will herald the new year at Corpus Christi, Texas, Ghosts Mission, which is one of the most accurate in the southwest. Many visitors buy their tickets to the fiesta at the mission's ticket booth at each gate.

Old Checkbook Explodes Into Many Colors

BY PHIL KEUPER

NEW YORK (AP) — The checkbook, once black and solidly male, has exploded into more colors than a woman's hat.

Banks, wooing the ladies, are selling checkbooks cloaked in an increasingly wider array of colors and in plastic finishes made to look like everything from lace to leopard skin.

The checks themselves appear in more compatible colors than the rainbow.

The layer of glamor on the once-plain checkbook has followed the gradual emergence of the woman as the check-writer in a vast number of the nation's more than 46 million personal checking accounts. So fashion-conscious has the movement become that some checkbooks look as much like fashion accessories as handbags, gloves and shoes.

New York's Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. recently took part in a Manhattan fashion show that the bank said was inspired by its "chic and color-coordinated checkbooks."

Hit of the show, said a spokesman for the bank, was a rain suit patterned after the bank's imitation cobra check set.

"Since we started our fashion checkbooks in May 1963 we have shown our biggest gain in checking accounts," said Hugh Brennan, an advertising executive of the bank.

Cleveland's National City Bank offers its customers checkbooks in styles that range from leopard to lizard. Colors include "ledger red" and "currency green."

Bank of America, the nation's largest, will sell you checks perfumed with Chanel No. 5.

Chase Manhattan Bank offers checkbooks in colors with fancy names such as "ascot gray," "harlequin white," "patent green," and "cadet blue."

While banks have sold colored checks and checkbooks for years, the trend to wide variety and high fashion as represented by plaid, leopard and lizard is relatively new and growing.

The fancy checkbook usually costs extra.

Some banking sources say the customer continues to buy his color-coordinated checks instead of receiving them free, relieving the bank of that expense.

"But most of all," one bank official said, "the checkbooks represent a more liberal, aggressive stance by banks. If people today wanted left-handed checks they would get them."

Pope Renews Appeal For Christian Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) Pope Paul VI renewed his appeal for Christian unity on this Epiphany Day.

Appearing for the traditional noon blessing from the window of his studio overlooking St. Peter's Square, filled with 15,000 Romans and tourists, the pontiff said this day recalled his visit to Bethlehem on Jan. 6, 1964.

"The same thoughts of that day return to our spirit," he said.

"We wanted at the time to renew our profession in faith in Christ. We wanted to spread our arms and invite the separated brethren to recompose themselves in the unity of the Church of Christ. We wanted to offer to the world the Christian message as a token of friendship and salvation."

Police Academy Plan Is Urged in State

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John A. Love said he was giving serious consideration to proposals by his Committee on Respect for the Law to determine whether to include any of the suggestions in his "State of the State" message to the Legislature Friday.

The eight-member committee has completed a four-month study of growing disrespect for the law.

Among its recommendations was the establishment of a state police academy for training and improving the quality of law enforcement officers.

It also called for legislation which would make for stronger penalties for persons convicted of reckless driving or driving while intoxicated.

INVITED

ANKARA, Tudkey (AP) — Both Turkish President Cemal Gursel and Premier Ismet Inonu have been invited to visit the Soviet Union, informed sources said today.

U.S., Romania Will Discuss New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will open talks here next Tuesday with a group of Romanian legal experts on a consular pact.

The two nations reached broad agreement last June on that and other matters. Since then they have exchanged drafts of the agreement. The Jan. 12 conference is aimed at ironing out differences.

SPEEDY SHIPS

Clipper ships, developed primarily in the United States between 1830 and 1860, could sail from New York to San Francisco around South America in 89 days, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Douglas Says He Helped Sen. Long

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas, a Northern liberal, says he helped a Southerner, Sen. Russell B. Long, win the job of assistant Democratic leader of the Senate because "we need an economic progressive here."

"We've differed frequently in the past," the white-thatched Illinois senator said in an interview. But Douglas recalled that he and the Louisianan also had teamed up in many Senate battles.

"If this election had come last year during the fight over the broad civil rights bill, I could not have supported Sen. Long," Douglas said.

He added that several other Democratic senators "whose views are closer to mine" could have had his support if they had tried for the post vacated after Hubert H. Humphrey was elected vice president.

"But Sen. Long is a man of character and his national attitude on many issues will be recognized," Douglas said.

Long was elected assistant party leader by the 68 Senate Democrats Monday in a contest with Sens. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island and A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma.

Long, the son of the late Huey Long, and Douglas, a former economics professor and World War II Marine combat hero, entered the Senate within a few days of each other 17 years ago.

Long was 30 and Douglas 55.

"We've always been close personal friends," Douglas said. "Any proposals to help the poor people have always touched a warm response from him."

Although they were in opposite camps in the long Senate battles over civil rights legislation, Douglas said "last session's thorough bill covers about all the civil rights legislation needed."

Douglas said that he and Long often stood together in favor of liberal competition in business and industry, against monopoly and for protection of the public on patents and inventions developed with public funds.

"Sen. Long is sympathetic to most health and social legislation," he added. "As a Senate conferee last year on the health care program under Social Security, he helped prevent a defeat of that principle in the Senate-House conference."

Douglas said he agreed with Long that election of a Southerner to the important Senate post finally marks the end of the Civil War.

"The thing that has prolonged the Civil War has been the abuse of the Negroes by some Southerners," he said. "I always maintained that effective civil rights legislation would liberate Southerners from their self-imposed chains."

Frozen Trees Begin Falling in Florida

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — A freeze in the winter of 1962 is making travel risky these days along Kings Highway, a Fort Pierce area feeder road for the Sunshine State Parkway turnpike.

Residents have complained that towering pine trees, killed by frost, have begun toppling across the road. Half a dozen already have crashed to earth, damaging two automobiles but causing no injuries.

CORNS ON ICE—Bulldog hamsters and bleach-eyed pets will herald the annual pets of Corpus Christi, Texas. Gloria Miller, above, will be one of the young owners in the parade with Rebecca the goat. Hundreds of cats and dogs will also participate in the parade.

Old Checkbook Explodes Into Many Colors

BY PHIL KEUPER

NEW YORK (AP) — The checkbook, once black and solidly male, has exploded into more colors than a woman's hat.

Banks, wooing the ladies, are selling checkbooks cloaked in an increasingly wider array of colors and in plastic finishes made to look like everything from lace to leopard skin.

The checks themselves appear in more compatible colors than the rainbow.

The layer of glamor on the once-plain checkbook has followed the gradual emergence of the woman as the check-writer in a vast number of the nation's more than 46 million personal checking accounts. So fashion-conscious has the movement become that some checkbooks look as much like fashion accessories as handbags, gloves and shoes.

New York's Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. recently took part in a Manhattan fashion show that the bank said was inspired by its "chic and color-coordinated checkbooks."

Hit of the show, said a spokesman for the bank, was a rain suit patterned after the bank's imitation cobra check set.

"Since we started our fashion checkbooks in May 1963 we have shown our biggest gain in checking accounts," said Hugh Brennan, an advertising executive of the bank.

Cleveland's National City Bank offers its customers checkbooks in styles that range from leopard to lizard. Colors include "ledger red" and "currency green."

Bank of America, the nation's largest, will sell you checks perfumed with Chanel No. 5.

While banks have sold colored checks and checkbooks for years, the trend to wide variety and high fashion as represented by plaid, leopard and lizard is relatively new and growing.

The fancy checkbook usually costs extra.

Some banking sources say the customer continues to buy his color-coordinated checks instead of receiving them free, relieving the bank of that expense.

"But most of all," one bank official said, "the checkbooks represent a more liberal, aggressive stance by banks. If people today wanted left-handed checks they would get them."

Pope Renews Appeal For Christian Unity

Appearing for the traditional noon blessing from the window of his studio overlooking St. Peter's Square, filled with 15,000 Romans and tourists, the pontiff said this day recalled his visit to Bethlehem on Jan. 6, 1964.

"The same thoughts of that day return to our spirit," he said.

"We wanted 'at the time to renew our profession in faith in Christ. We wanted to spread our arms and invite the separated brethren to recompose themselves in the unity of the Church of Christ. We wanted to offer to the world the Christian message as a token of friendship and salvation."

Police Academy Plan Is Urged in State

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John A. Love said he was giving serious consideration to proposals by his Committee on Respect for the Law to determine whether to include any of the suggestions in his "State of the State" message to the Legislature Friday.

The eight-member committee has completed a four-month study of growing disrespect for the law.

Among its recommendations was the establishment of a state police academy for training and improving the quality of law enforcement officers.

It also called for legislation which would make for stronger penalties for persons convicted of reckless driving or driving while intoxicated.

INVITED

ANKARA, Tudkey (AP) — Both Turkish President Cemal Gursel and Premier Ismet Inonu have been invited to visit the Soviet Union, informed sources said today.

U.S., Romania Will Discuss New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will open talks here next Tuesday with a group of Romanian legal experts on a consular pact.

The two nations reached broad agreement last June on that and other matters. Since then they have exchanged drafts of the agreement. The Jan. 12 conference is aimed at ironing out differences.
